MUSSOLINI PUTS HOOVER PLAN IN EFFECT TODAY

Collects No Debts; Will Pay None.

French Stand Pat

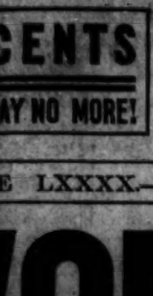
PARIS—French senate votes Premier Laval financial powers to conduct moratorium negotiations. Insists on Paris ideals.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Debt holiday in balance as French demand more concessions than Hoover is willing to grant.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, June 30.—Italy tomorrow, July 1, will put into effect on schedule time President Hoover's debt moratorium proposal, which was accepted by Italy and week without reservations. Premier Mussolini's government today notified all other governments concerned with the moratorium plan that Italy was not collecting sums due her from Germany, Austria-Hungary and Bulgaria tomorrow and that she at the same time is putting aside, pending decision, the sums she owes her own creditors England and the United States.



BENITO MUSSOLINI.

This announcement came from the Italian foreign office at about the same time that it was reported here that conversations in Paris between Secretary of Treasury Andrew Mellon and the French have been suspended while Italian seeks further instructions from Washington.

Seen as Subtle Move.

Premier Mussolini's announcement makes Italy's position clear that she is going ahead with the moratorium plan, assuming that it will eventually be adopted by all other governments concerned. At the same time it is indicated in government circles that Italy would be ready to accede to the plan in so far as she is concerned, should France or some other government balk President Hoover's proposal wholly or in part. That is, Italy's debt will not collecting sums due her creditors will hold good in so far as she is concerned as long as the United States and England do not collect the sums she owes them, and this would apply even if no other nation should accept the Hoover proposal.

It is estimated that should the plan be adopted in entirety Italy would be enabled to make a unilateral deal along the same lines with her respective creditors and debtors.

In diplomatic circles tonight the Italian announcement is regarded as a diplomatic move and its effect will be to carry support to England and the United States in an effort to persuade France to accept President Hoover's plan.

Debt to United States on June 15.

The practical effect of Italy's execution of her part of the moratorium plan is that she will not collect sums due her which tomorrow should be paid by the bank for international settlements at Basel. These sums constitute a margin of $13,075,000 velvet which she owes England and the United States.

Italy made her annual payment of $2,000,000 and semi-annual payment of $5,000,000 to the United States on June 15. The next semi-annual interest payment is due on Dec. 31. Her payments of both capital and interest to Great Britain are made monthly.

Communique on Debts.

The communique announcing Italy's official execution of the Hoover moratorium plan reads as follows:

"Italy awaiting definite agreement between the nations interested in negotiations now going on the Italian government, in conformance with its cordial and cordial adhesion to the proposal, has taken in a provisional way to start to effect the American pro-

"Italy in view the minister of finance, following agreement with the states which are Italy's debtors, the Italian government has decided to claim money owed in execution of the Young plan and agreements which fall due July 1. At the same time he

GUNMAN KILLS POLICEMAN AS HE IS ARRESTED

Coy Thompson, 32 years old, a two gun man from Louisville, shot and fatally wounded Policeman James Casey after the latter arrested him last night for insulting a young woman at 43d street and Oakenwald avenue. Casey was wounded five times in the chest and abdomen. He died at 7 o'clock this morning at the Chicago hospital.

Bert Bobb, 21 years old, 4155 Lake Park avenue, was standing at the corner with his girl friend, Frances Bosky, 18 years old, 4349 Greenwood avenue, when Thompson stepped up and began talking to the girl. Bobb remonstrated and Thompson displayed a gun. Bobb and the girl fled.

Bobb met Policeman Casey who was in uniform and returning from work to his home at 4463 Lake Park avenue. He told Casey of the incident and the policeman arrested Thompson, taking a gun from him. Thompson then pulled a second gun and shot the policeman.

Thompson fled and was later captured by two squads led by Sergts. Christ Callahan and Fred Tapscott as he hid in a doorway nearby. He was identified by the wounded policeman.

Elzie Brown, roommate of Thompson at 4222 Berkeley avenue, was arrested later and identified as a bandit who had held up a lunchroom in the neighborhood.

Alert Engineer Stops Train; Saves Baby's Life

A year old child playing on the railway tracks near his home in Wilmette yesterday was saved from death when a locomotive engineer brought his train to a screeching stop just short of striking the baby. The engineer is John Wiltsey of the Chicago and North Western railway. The infant is William Starkel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Starkel of 925 Oakwood avenue, Wilmette. He had strayed from his home and was playing on the tracks when the train passed through the suburb at noon en route to Chicago.

Whistling Parrot Hunted as "Peeper" in Evanston

A parrot that whistles "Yankee Doodle" and laughs loudly was sought in Evanston yesterday. The police at first believed the whistler was a strange "Peeping Tom" who had been reported as annoying residents. However, the incident was explained when Mrs. William F. Meyer, 4016 Belle Plaine avenue, whose husband is head of the Universal Water Filtration company of Maywood, appeared at the police station to report the loss of her whistling parrot.

Italy Restores Death Penalty for Murderers

ROME, June 30.—(AP)—Death as a penalty for murder comes back into force tomorrow, when Italy's new penal code goes into effect. Since 1890 only political offenders against the state and its chiefs have been so punished. Italy's method of execution is by firing squad.

Weddings and Divorces Drop in Sad 1931

Divorces skidded and marriages toppled in Cook county during the first six months of 1931 as compared with the corresponding period in 1930. County Clerk Robert M. Sweitzer, Superior Court Clerk Frank V. Zintak and Circuit Court Clerk Thomas O. Wallace joined yesterday in singing "Hard Times Blues."

With only 16,079 marriage licenses issued in the first six months of 1931 Dan Cupid shot fewer arrows than in any year of the last decade, according to the county clerk's report. The 1931 total represents a drop of 13 per cent, compared with the 1930 total of 18,683. The peak year was 1923 with 21,284 licenses.

A Poor Divorce Year.

Figures compiled in the two court clerks' offices show 4,515 divorces in the first six months of 1931, a drop of 9 per cent from the 1930 total of 4,988 and 13 per cent from the 1929 peak of 5,428. There was a ratio of about 2 divorces to every 7 marriages during the six months.

Sidney Summerfield, chief clerk of the marriage license bureau, found that fewer licenses were issued this June than in any June of the last ten years. Only 4,259 licenses were issued during the month, compared with the 1923 peak June of 5,739. Yesterday, the last day of the month, found only 87 couples seeking licenses, compared with 178 in 1930, and 233 in 1929 on the same day. A thermometer in the 90's was blamed for checking a last minute rally of Cupid.

What the Records Show.

Chief Clerk Summerfield made public monthly marriage license totals of 1931 and 1930 as follows:

	1930.	1931.
January	2,634	2,247
February	2,637	2,025
March	2,111	1,972
April	2,792	2,705
May	5,570	2,871
June	4,949	4,259
Totals	18,683	16,079

Divorces in the Circuit and Superior courts for the same period are as follows:

	—Circuit—		—Superior—
	1930.	1931.	1930.	1931.
January	417	554	489	630
February	454	519	489	550
March	268	244	357	380
April	345	284	678	422
May	265	280	631	283
June	322	315	421	454
Totals	2,001	1,796	2,967	2,719

The decrease in the courts and in the marriage bureau was attributed by officials to general depression.

Compels Hired Man with Smallpox to Leave Farm

Geddes, S. D., June 30.—[Special.]—Warrants probably will be sworn out Wednesday for the arrest of a farmer and his wife, who forced Stanley Fuerman, their hired man, to leave their home when it was discovered he was seriously ill with smallpox. A deputy sheriff who investigated found the man in some woods near the Missouri river, in a precarious condition. The family had provided him with some food, a bucket of water, and an old blanket. He is now being given proper care.

BOY BANDIT, 14, SHOT, PAL SEIZED; 2 OTHERS ESCAPE

A 14 year old bandit was shot, one of his companions was captured, and two others escaped in an automobile chase early this morning when a police squad from the Des Plaines street station surprised them as they were leaving the restaurant of Guy Marcucci at 933 Van Buren street with loot of $75.

The wounded boy is Michael Gillico, 1734 Roosevelt road. He was shot through the chest and was taken to the bridewell hospital, where it was said his condition is serious. His captured confederate is Joseph De Stephano, 17 years old, 1415 Spruce street.

The four young robbers had held up Marcucci, who was alone in the restaurant, and were getting into a roadster at the curb when the squad, Sergt. Martin Connors, and Policemen Edward Kohler, and George Leahey, drove up. The police pursued the youths south in Sangamon street, firing as they went. After a chase of two blocks Gillico, who was driving the robbers' car, was wounded and the car crashed into the curb.

BEER GARDENS IN LONDON'S PARKS RAISE A STORM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 30.—London's "drys" are strenuously objecting to a plan submitted by George Lansbury, commissioner of works, to make London brighter by allowing beer gardens in London parks.

Temperance reform members of parliament are organizing an opposition campaign. They will send a large deputation to the commissioner tomorrow to protest.

Commissioner Lansbury, although a teetotaler, contends that Londoners will benefit by adopting open air refreshment in the continental style. He intends to start the experiment at Hampton Court palace grounds, which is a favorite spot for visiting Americans.

London Police Rocked by Graft Scandal; 21 Fired

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, June 30.—The suspension of twenty-one uniformed members of the London police force as a result of a preliminary inquiry into a charge of bribery and corruption has caused a sensation here. It is alleged that the suspended men accepted money from street bookmakers, street traders, costermongers and shop traders.

CIRCLING GLOBE, THEY NEARLY BEAT THEIR WASH BACK

Roosevelt Field, L. I., June 30.—[Special.]—A week ago yesterday, Harold Gatty and Wiley Post sent their laundry out from Roosevelt Field hotel. It got back this evening about the time the flyers were landing in Edmonton. The two young men in a hurry had almost circled the globe while their shirts were being washed.

RAIN FORECAST TOMORROW TO BREAK THE HEAT

But Today Will Be Another Sizzler.

Same Old Story!

Birmingham, Ala.	106	Charles City, Ia.	103
Peoria	104	Keokuk, Ia.	103
Davenport, Ia.	104	Moorehead, Minn.	102
Huron, S. D.	104	St. Louis	102
Springfield, Ill.	103	Little Rock	102

Twelve other cities had readings of 100 degrees. Yesterday's maximum temperature in Chicago was 93 degrees at 4 p. m.

Cooling showers, bringing with them relief from seven days of intense heat, are due to fall upon Chicago some time after midnight tonight. But today will be another scorcher, with south winds and little hope of temperatures under 90 degrees, unless the wind shifts and blows off the lake to lower the mercury.

C. A. Donnel, government forecaster, predicted that a break in the heat, which has already taken place in the northwest and in the Dakotas, would make its effect felt in the central states tomorrow. Rain and cloudy skies scheduled for Chicago and the central states may bring a drop of 20 to 25 degrees in Chicago temperatures, the forecaster indicated.

Heat Death Toll Mounts.

Two deaths by drowning were reported. Russell Berka, 19 years old, 6636 South Keating avenue, lost his life while swimming in the lake at 66th street. The body of an unidentified boy about 16 years old was recovered from the lake at the foot of 14th street.

Yesterday's heat in Chicago brought the possibility of a shortage in water and the danger of low pressure due to the excessive use of water for sprinkling lawns and the opening of fire hydrants to provide wading pools for children. A warning was issued by the water pipe extension bureau to use water only where necessary.

Hundreds of complaints were made to the city hall and Cpl. A. A. Sprague dispatched crews of inspectors to turn off all open hydrants. Householders in various sections of the city complained that only a trickle of water came from hydrants in second and third floor apartments.

Pump Over Billion Gallons.

Col. Sprague reported a record pumpage of 1,259,270,000 gallons of water on Monday, the largest volume ever pumped by the city system. Complaints were received from some of the suburbs, where pressure was low because of widespread use of water, but the commissioner was confident that there would be no serious results, as the pumping system has not yet been taxed to its full capacity.

When the weather bureau finished its records for the month last night it found that the last month was the second hottest June on record here, with a mean temperature for the 30 days of 72.5 degrees, only slightly under the all time June heat record of 1921, when the mean temperature reached 73.2 degrees.

Many Loop Offices Closed.

Many loop offices closed their doors during the day, giving a half holiday to their employés. A shortage in electric fans was reported by a number of retail and wholesale houses which sent in emergency orders. Several loads of fans were brought here by airplane from St. Louis to meet the demands.

While Chicago's heat was kept under 100 degrees by the occasional lake breezes, temperatures in the inland regions remained at high levels throughout the day. Throughout Iowa the temperature ranged between 95 and 100 degrees. At Indianapolis the official thermometer reached 95, which was typical of temperatures throughout Indiana. Wisconsin reported 100 degree temperatures at several points. Heat deaths in these states continued to mount.

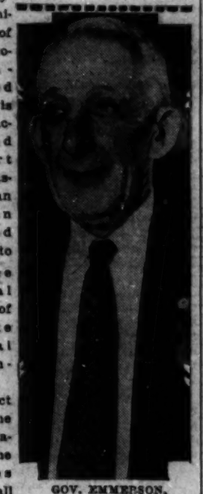
Much Grain Damaged.

From grain centers came reports of widespread damage to crops, especially to oats. Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, and Minnesota suffered most in this respect, while in North Dakota damage to live stock and all crops was reported.

Light rains were reported in scattered sections throughout the northwest. Even in Chicagoland a slight drizzle was reported in one section—at Homewood. There rain fell for several minutes, but with no appreciable effect upon the temperature.

Governor Here to Seek Cure in Tax Crisis

Gov. Emmerson, arriving in Chicago last night for his revenue conference with forty-two prominent men of the state today, announced that he is ready to accept and support "any reasonable plan which can be agreed upon" to solve the financial problems of the state and local governments.



GOV. EMMERSON.

"I expect to outline the situation to the conferees but I shall present no specific program," said the governor. "I had my program—the revenue amendment to the constitution. Now I am ready to take theirs. The purpose of the conference, as I stated in calling it, is to afford them an opportunity to compose their differences and agree on the best procedure."

"No Politics," Says Governor.

The conference will open at 10 a. m. in the Stevens hotel. Of those invited all but two or three will be present and these have informed him they will send representatives, Gov. Emmerson said. The group will comprise state, county and city officials, bankers, business men, publishers, railroad and public utility officials, and spokesmen for several real estate organizations and for downstate interests.

Gov. Emmerson asserted that there will be no "politics" at the parley because in selecting the conferees he limited the invitations to spokesmen for the taxpayers and officials directly concerned. After his opening statement, he said, he would throw the meeting open for a general discussion.

"I am, of course, not expecting a specific program to be developed forthwith by such a large assemblage," the governor said. He intimated that a smaller group may be selected to draft a program although the procedure will depend upon the action of the conference itself.

Willing to Call Legislature.

Gov. Emmerson said he was ready to convene a special session of the legislature to consider a tax relief program if the basis for legislation could be laid. He said he did not desire to summon the legislature precipitously especially with nothing to work on, but that he would issue a call "after a little while" if the conference produces results.

The governor declined to be drawn into a discussion of a state income tax or any of the other proposals made by himself or others in the past bearing upon revenue, indicating that he did not wish to anticipate the conference with a statement on a controversial subject.

For several hours yesterday Mayor Cermak conferred with members of his advisory commission, several of whom will attend the governor's meeting, upon recommendations to be made

POST AND GATTY DESCRIBE GLOBE CIRCLING TRIP

Leave Edmonton on Their Last Lap.

BULLETIN.

EDMONTON, Alberta, July 1.—(Wednesday)—(AP)—Wiley Post and Harold Gatty resumed their flight around the world at 3:39 a. m. (5:39 a. m., Chicago daylight time).

Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, American aviators, are expected to reach New York this evening on the last leg of their record shattering flight of 15,000 miles around the world. The flyers landed in Edmonton, Alberta, at 6:35 p. m. Chicago time yesterday after a 1,380 mile flight from Alaska.

Post and Gatty lay down for a few hours rest, planning their take-off for Cleveland at 5 a. m. Chicago time today. They will refuel in Cleveland.

When the Winnie Mae, their single motored monoplane, came to rest at Edmonton, the birdmen had traveled 13,431 miles. Their dash to New York will cover about 2,000 miles. Upon arriving in Edmonton the airmen's elapsed time was 7 days 14 hours 39 minutes. Their flying time was 3 days 22 hours 44 minutes. Here is their own story:

BY WILEY POST AND HAROLD GATTY.

[Pilot and Navigator of the Monoplane Winnie Mae.]

EDMONTON, Alberta, June 30.—It's all down hill work now. We hope to land in New York Wednesday and with decent weather conditions we should be able to land there in time to have circled the world in nine days.

That is just one day better than we had figured probable when we left Roosevelt field for Newfoundland last Tuesday. We are 36 hours ahead of the ten day schedule now, due to good weather conditions encountered on the greater part of the journey, but just before we reached Edmonton we ran into a storm area, which delayed us slightly.

Land in Rainstorm.

We landed here in the thick of a rainstorm, the heaviest in years, field officials told us. The field was a sea of thick mud—so thick that it was impossible to taxi the Winnie Mae in from the runway.

We had wonderful flying conditions over the mountains, following a great circle course so as to avoid higher peaks. Visibility was good and although we had a little trouble in lifting the plane into the air at Fairbanks, Alaska, this morning we encountered no real trouble until we hit the storm area.

Then it was bumpy, real bumpy. Post, tired after hours at the controls, was battling the ship, which kicked like a mule. The gas was running low and the weather looked bad so we landed.

Concrete Road Runway.

The weather man here tells us that better conditions may be expected tomorrow, so we finally decided to stay overnight.

For the takeoff we will use a long avenue of concrete road, two miles long and 158 feet wide, almost an ideal runway, and the best we have encountered on our trip around the world.

We have not reached a final decision as to our route to New York. Airports everywhere have wired us inviting us to use their facilities. We may break our journey at Detroit for a few minutes, possibly half an hour, and then continue to Cleveland to refuel for the last hop to New York. It all depends upon the weather.

We will take practically a full load of fuel, and if necessary climb over the storm area, flying blind for at least part of the way. That won't be anything new, for we flew blind for almost the entire distance from Khabarovak to Alaska.

In any case, we shall be in New York well under ten days—then for some sleep!

In Edmonton as everywhere, officials went out of their way to facilitate our flight. Immediately on landing here we were cleared by the customs and there will be no delay when daylight comes at about 3 a. m.

The Winnie Mae is being refueled now at the airport and will be hauled over to the concrete runway in readiness for the takeoff. There is no necessity for a motor-check, as it ticked perfectly all the way from Fairbanks.

We are both tired, very tired, but the telephone seems to give us no respite. Immediately on landing we were told that there were telephone calls from New York and since then the bell has been jangling almost continually.

Post is quite deaf due to the roar of the motor and Gatty has to do the talking for both. Gatty is suffering a little discomfort from the bruises sustained when he was hit on the left arm and chest as the propellor swung from a back-fire at the start from Solomon. Neither disability is serious.

There are scores of telegrams waiting to be answered and dozens of letters from stamp and autograph collectors. Some of the letters came by air mail addressed to us here. One ambitious person even inclosed a dime for return postage.

Dodge Over Mountains.

Possibly this deluge is due in large measure to the fact that we are now back in close touch with the United States for the first time during our flight. It was difficult to communicate with New York from the time we left Berlin throughout our journey until we reached Edmonton. Now it is too easy.

The country we passed over in our flight from Fairbanks was rough and mountainous, but by following the great circle course we managed to dodge the worst peaks. At no time did we require to ascend higher than 7,200 feet.

In case of a forced landing in that country it would have been bad, although no worse, perhaps, than at any time since we left Khabarovsk.

Never "Overshot" Nome.

One thing we must correct. It was believed on our arrival here that we had overshot Nome, Alaska, to land at Solomon. This was not the case, for we had planned on landing at Solomon throughout our arrangements. The landing field at Nome would have been inadequate for the Winnie Mae, heavily loaded.

People in the north have believed that the flight from Fairbanks to Edmonton would be the worst of our journey. The worst flying conditions were in fact on the Khabarovsk-Alaska hop. That trip was worse than the Atlantic crossing and the latter was bad enough. We had heavy fog and rough air almost all the way.

Closer to Edmonton the country is rolling and heavily wooded, almost, but not quite as wild as the Siberian country we crossed. But we were too tired to be much interested in scenery.

Flew by Dead Reckoning.

We have been flying by dead reckoning almost all the way, checking bits of occasional landmarks.

Landing in Edmonton seemed strangely like home. There were photographers, reporters and radio men, all pressing in on us, wanting us to talk. Officials steered the crowds away as much as possible.

Gatty says he would sooner fly the Bering sea again than face a bunch of photographers pleading for "just one more."

We were welcomed here by the acting premier of Alberta and by the mayor.

No Trouble with Plane.

When we landed at Fairbanks last night we lacked only one hour and a half of being seven days out of New York.

This time element is hard to figure out with local time changing rapidly, and right now we can't figure out, without going into the log book where we are keeping Greenwich time, what time we were at places in Siberia, only yesterday and the day before.

And it was only last Wednesday evening that we landed in Berlin after hopping across the Atlantic. The trip up to Harbor Grace from New York was uneventful.

Neither of us is very anxious to fly the Atlantic again but if we do, I hope we get better weather. We had to climb 11,000 to 12,000 feet to get above the rain and fog and stayed there over most of the second half of the ocean jump.

We kept to the great circle route and those Britons were great when we landed on an army field at Chester. Never even asked for passports!

As for Hanover. Well that was more or less a mistake. We knew it wasn't Berlin, but thought it best to find out where we were at. They gave us a big reception in Berlin, even though we had made them wait a long while.

The plane has given no trouble at all. In Siberia we had difficulty getting messages out and really could not communicate until we reached Fairbanks. Starting back at Moscow, from where we were more or less out of touch with the world, we found the hospitality so great we couldn't get away as planned and had to stay for a banquet. We had intended to leave the same night for Novo-Sibersk, but they forced us to stay, so we held back until the next morning.

Ural Mountains "Hills."

We arrived at Novo-Sibersk that evening. It was very good country to fly over. We crossed the Ural mountains separating Europe from Asia. They really don't deserve the name of mountains as they are only hills and we didn't have to go much higher than 1,000 feet to cross over them. It was an 18 hour flight.

We stayed in Novo-Sibersk that night, where they took us to a hotel. We got about an hour and a half sleep and left there at 2 a. m., local time, for Irkutsk, 1,450 miles away. Flying over that stretch was not so good, as high mountains and concentrated rainstorms had to be flown through, and it was as rough a country as any man would want to fly over.

Skim Over Tree Tops.

Because of restricted visibility we flew low, not much above the tree tops, but had no trouble along the way and landed at Irkutsk without incident. From there the hop to Blagovyeshchenk was 1,100 miles and more rough country was covered between those points. We landed at Blagovyeshchensk at dark and because of the difficulty in securing definite information about fields came down on a field full of water. The plane was mired tightly. It had been raining there steadily for two weeks. The proposition was one of landing there or on the tundra, and our gas supply was low.

None of the fields was lighted and we worked until late that night trying to get the plane out with the aid of soldiers and horses, but didn't succeed, until the next morning. Then we pulled it out with the help of lots of men and horses. The plane was undamaged.

Next morning we took off for Khabarovsk, a short hop of 350 miles. The field there was good. After an unexpected rest we were ready to take off the same night, but one or two little things happened. The motor caused us to wait over until the next day. In the meantime we changed spark plugs and worked until very late that night.

Three Hours Sleep.

We had only three hours sleep. The next morning the ship was all ready to go, but a cross wind came up and we had to wait until 7 p. m. until it died down, so we took advantage of the enforced wait and went to sleep for four or five hours. We had great trouble getting the food we were accustomed to, and all through Siberia rye bread was practically all we ate.

Asovich, the Russian aeronautical society, was very good to us throughout our journey across Russian territory. They notified their people at all points to assist us and they did everything they could to take care of us. We left Khabarovsk at 7 p. m. for Alaska, flew down the Amur river to its mouth and, incidentally, scared away all the fishermen, who apparently are unused to planes, all planes passing over the northern tip of Baghalia island.

We flew along the western side of Kamchatka peninsula and on across the sea of Okhotsk. At its northern part there was a lot of bad flying, which had to be done blind. All that night we sailed along at 7,000 feet above this lonely part of the world. We only had about two hours of real darkness, but daylight was just as bad as darkness with the rain and fog.

Fly Over Mountains.

Passing over Siberian territory we were above the high, snow covered mountains and the clear Gulf of Anadir. We flew over the gulf, thence to the Bering sea in which much floating ice was observed. We had to go very low, barely skimming the top of the water and ice until leaving Cape Chaplan, where we were forced to climb and come out at the top of a fog at an elevation of 6,000 feet.

We hit the Alaska coast and dived down through a hole in the fog.

New York, June 30.—[Special.]—Ruth Nichols, whose proposed trans-Atlantic flight ended in a crackup at St. John, N. B., returned tonight to her home in Rye, N. Y. She made the trip from St. John in a cabin monoplane piloted by Clarence Chamberlin and arrived at the Westchester airport in Armonk shortly after 7 p. m.

Wearing the violet leather flying jacket, now bloodstained from her injuries, in which she had hoped to span the Atlantic, Miss Nichols said she had not lost her confidence and would eventually make the trans-oceanic flight.

"Yes," she said, with a rueful smile, "this is the jacket I wore when I took off from New York. It is also the jacket in which I will fly the Atlantic."

Miss Nichols was carried to the plane in a stretcher. She still is in a plaster cast from the injuries to her back.

Strapped Into Cot.

She was placed in a cot inside the plane, was strapped to the floor and wall of the cabin and surrounded with pillows. The plane left St. John at 2:21 Atlantic daylight saving time. In it also were Mrs. Chamberlin and Miss Mabyl Jones, a nurse from the St. John General hospital.

They arrived at the East Boston airport at about 4:45 p. m., stopped for refueling and then took off again. The trip to the Westchester airport took about an hour and a half. A private ambulance was waiting at the field but twenty minutes were required before the injured flyer was removed from the plane.

Facing a battery of photographers and newsreel camera men with a grin Miss Nichols said the flight from the Canadian airport was "wonderful" and that she had felt no pain.

Scarcely Felt a Bump.

"It just proves," she remarked, "the superiority of flying to other means of travel. I dreaded the thought of having to return home by boat or train. It would have jolted me so. This way, we scarcely felt a bump."

"It could have been worse," was the way she summarized the crackup which ended her hopes, for a time, of making the trans-Atlantic flight and almost cost her life.

Then she talked of her chances for a quick recovery and scoffed at the orders of her physicians that she was not to attempt to leave her bed for six weeks.

"I'll be back on the field in four," she asserted. "And I'll spend every minute of my convalescence going over plans for my next flight. They can't keep me down."

Typical New York Welcome Awaits Birdmen.

New York, June 30.—[Special.]—New York will tender Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, round the world flyers, a rousing reception when they arrive at Roosevelt field, probably tomorrow night, and the festivities will continue until Thursday night, when Oklahomans, who are in the city, will dine the two record breakers at the New York Athletic club.

The Nassau county police will turn the flyers over there to a squadron of New York motorcycle policemen, who will escort the party to the Ritz-Carlton hotel, where Post and Gatty will make their headquarters while in the city.

Will Let Flyers Sleep.

The evening will be set aside to allow the flyers to catch up on lost sleep.

Thursday morning Post and Gatty will embark on the Macom at 41st street and the North river and sail to pier W, where a typical New York welcome will await them as they ride up Broadway.

In the aldermanic chambers the mayor will receive the flyers in the presence of high military and naval officials.

Dr. John H. Finley will present Post and Gatty to the mayor and the mayor will present a gold medal to each one.

Visits Old Home Town.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 30.—The dream of returning home to his village a famous man, came true for Otto Hillig, who flew the Atlantic with Holger Hoiriis, when they visited Steinbrucken, near Gera, today. Hillig left there in 1891 and emigrated to America.

When he arrived at Gera Lord Mayor Arnold and all officials of the village greeted him. At Steinbrucken the entire village turned out to pay homage to the flyers. Hillig's brother, a farmer, was among those to welcome the airmen. They flew back to Berlin this afternoon.

GERMAN REDS SMASH WINDOWS IN U. S. CONSULATE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 30.—At midnight tonight a group of 20 communists stoned and smashed the windows in the door of the American consulate here. They were demonstrating against the death sentences imposed on eight Negro boys at Scottsboro, Ala., on charges of attacking two white girls. This was the third assault on American consulates in Germany within the last fortnight, all in protest against the Scottsboro case.

A police captain was killed earlier tonight when he and his men tried to disperse a gathering of communists, who were shouting, "We are hungry." The Reds were trying to break through to the government district. Forty shots were fired by the police after they had faced a barrage of stones and shots from the communists. Seventeen Reds were arrested.

The police, who were kept on special duty all day, also quelled several student riots in Berlin, Munich, and Kiel.

STORM STRIKES BUNKER HILL; NO ONE INJURED

Gillespie, Ill., June 30.—(AP)—What witnesses described as "a small twister" struck, about a mile north of Bunker Hill tonight, causing considerable damage, principally to electric light and telephone lines. No one was reported injured.

Telephone service to Bunker Hill, Wilsonville, and Dorchester, in Macoupin county, was put out of order. Mike Bergen of Gillespie, who returned here late tonight from Bunker Hill, said that town also was without lights. First reports were the storm also struck Wilsonville and Dorchester, but Bergen said that so far as he was able to learn the only damage was confined to the vicinity of Bunker Hill.

"It was a small twister," Bergen said. "It struck about a mile north of Bunker Hill and moved down the highway to Bunker Hill. The telephone and electric lines were torn down and some trees were uprooted."

Telephone service was restored to Wilsonville from St. Louis late tonight, but it still was impossible to put through calls to Bunker Hill and Dorchester.

NEW SPAIN ENVOY IS INTRODUCED AT WHITE HOUSE

Strict Formality Observed Despite Hot Day.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 30.—[Special.]—With a scorching sun burning into the black stiffness of his formal evening clothes, Salvador de Madariaga, the bald, bold writer who criticized the Monroe doctrine, came to the White House this afternoon to present his credentials as the first ambassador to this country from the new Spain.

SALVADOR DE MADARIAGA.

In graceful Spanish the scholar told President Hoover of his affection for our land, where "friendship flourishes, confidence smiles," and reminded him that the Spanish republic, having cut its army fifty per cent, was in harmony "with the ideals of world peace and disarmament which are those of the republic of the United States."

Mr. Hoover, in English, rejoiced that Spain had done double honor to itself and to the United States, "in equipping so distinguished a gentleman."

Then the two men relaxed and President Hoover, the ex-mining engineer, remarked to Ambassador de Madariaga, the ex-mining engineer, "You and I have the same profession."

And they shook hands.

Preliminaries Long, Formal.

The actual accrediting took less than five minutes; but the preliminaries began long before. First of all, Richard Southgate, acting chief of protocol of the state department, accompanied by Capt. Charles Russell Train, the President's naval aid, rode out in a big White House car to the Spanish embassy. In back of them rolled several limousines furnished by the state department. Note the difference. The ambassador-appointee got into the White House car; his staff climbed into the other motors.

Policemen stood at attention as the cars glided up to the White House door which was swung open by two colored servants in uniforms of blue. Senor de Madariaga and his retinue were in full dress, to the white kid gloves. Southgate was in morning attire, with gloves of gray. Capt. Train may have been sweltering but he looked cool in crisp white linen.

So did Lieut. Campbell B. Hodges, the President's military aide, who met the party at the door. The rule is that one aide goes, one aide stays; it doesn't matter which. Four other aides, in white, with glistening swords, led the way to the green room. Capt. Train and Col. Hodges then went to tell the President what he already knew, that the newly appointed Spanish envoy was waiting to present his credentials. They escorted Mr. Hoover to the blue room and one went back to the green room to tell the news that the President was waiting.

Led again by the aides, Southgate, with De Madariaga on his right, proceeded to the blue room where the ceremony took place.

The Spaniard's speech was in Spanish but the President had had a copy of it several days. This is another rule that has to be observed by the incoming envoy. Then the President, in his reply, can reply pertinently.

Acquaintances Greeted Anew.

The ceremony over, De Madariaga asked permission to present his suite, who were waiting in the green room. Never mind if some of the staff had been here in Washington years longer than the new ambassador, the new ambassador always presents each member to the President. An aid went back and brought them into the blue room.

When that was over they went away, in the same order as they had come. Mr. Southgate's duties were not over, however. When the White House car reached the Spanish embassy he, in accordance with the rules of protocol, had to escort the new ambassador into the embassy and sit down for a formal five minutes.

Then he hurried back to his office in the state department, changed his clothes somewhere and appeared in a cool linen suit.

The whole thing will happen again Thursday when the new envoy from the Argentine presents his credentials.

CHICAGO REPORTS TO WASHINGTON: BETTER EMPLOYMENT TREND

Washington, D. C., June 30.—[Special.]—The Chicago Association of Commerce today told the President's emergency commission on employment that employment conditions during the last week showed improvement due to the reemployment of several thousand men by Chicago manufacturing concerns.

Another indication of an improved employment situation as reported by the Illinois free employment bureau in Chicago was that in the week ending June 20 there were 300 fewer applications for work than in the previous week, although there had been approximately 100 fewer orders for workers received.

The association of commerce also reported that there had been a slight acceleration in the demand for construction materials for paving and foundation projects while automobile sales held to recent levels, with indications of a continued steady demand. Steadiness was also noted, according to the report, in the retail stores during the last week, with sales approximating those for the same period of last year.

PANAMA CANAL REVENUE DROPS $2,500,000 IN YEAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BALBOA HEIGHTS, Canal Zone, June 30.—The Panama Canal's seventeenth financial year ended this evening. The year's net income from tolls, as well as other revenue, was about $2,500,000 less than last year, when it was $18,082,000.

"While revenue has decreased, operation cost has increased, mainly the cost of labor," Gov. Burgess said. "The Canal organization could easily handle twice the traffic, although it might be necessary to route part of it through after dark. The canal at present is not operating at night."

The year's transits totaled 5,530, an average of 15.15 daily. Last year transits numbered 6,186 and the year before that 6,413.

FORM CONVICTS' ADVISORY BOARD IN STATE PRISONS

Establishment of a convicts' advisory committee in the Joliet and Stateville penitentiaries, which will start functioning today, was announced yesterday by Warden Henry C. Hill.

Each cellhouse will have three representatives on the committee, who will receive inmates' complaints as to the type of employment given them, their food, treatment by guards, and similar matters, and pass the complaints on to the warden.

"This is not a self-government system," Warden Hill stated. "It does, however, give the warden an opportunity to get a closer view of conditions in the prison."

PRINCE OTTO'S BACKERS GAIN IN HUNGARIAN VOTE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUDAPEST, Hungary, June 30.—On the occasion of his reelection as deputy to parliament from the district of Jasz-Bereny, which he has represented for 50 years, Count Albert Apponyi, Hungary's grand old man, was presented with a golden document weighing two pounds from the provincial government. Count Apponyi is a member of the government party which has elected 48 of the 189 deputies thus far chosen.

COUNT APPONYI.

One of the outstanding facts in the elections, which have been going on since Sunday, is the increase in the strength of the legitimist party, which favors Prince Otto as king of Hungary.

The legitimists so far have gained 16 seats against seven in the former parliament. Districts where secret balloting is taking place, the results of the vote will not be made known until tomorrow.

FORGETFULLY TOSSES $3,500 INTO FIRE; U. S. CAN'T REIMBURSE HER

Washington, D. C., June 30.—(AP)—The United States government which collects and spends billions of dollars every year, is unintentional gainer by $3,500 because the wife of a Granite City, Ill., railroad employe forgetfully tossed thirty-five gold notes for $100 each into the furnace with some old paper.

W. O. Woods, treasurer of the United States, has just written a letter to Mrs. Golda M. Thornburg [of 2426 State street], Granite City, telling her that in the ashes of the burned currency she submitted experts could find no trace of the gold notes she burned and there was no possibility of the government replacing the money.

Woods expressed his sympathy for her loss, told her that he believed her story, but added that he had no discretion under the law, which requires tangible evidence that the currency was burned before it can be replaced.

PHYSICIAN KILLS HIMSELF.

Steubenville, O., June 30.—(AP)—A verdict of suicide was returned today after the body of Dr. F. L. Bowsher, 52, with his throat cut, was found in his office by Mrs. Bowsher. Dr. Bowsher cut his jugular vein with a surgical knife, then drove the instrument into his heart.

TAX PROTESTERS TO GET BREAK ON CONROY'S ORDER

Pick Committee to Name Cutmore Successor.

The renovated staff of experts of the board of assessors were instructed late yesterday by Secretary John E. Conroy to resolve all doubts on the soundness of 1930 assessment complaints in favor of the complainants. Following this order the assessors, on completion of the 1930 assessment, announced the personnel of a citizens' committee to select the successor to Harry S. Cutmore, ousted chief appraiser.

The men who succeeded to the positions of the fifteen members of Cutmore's staff who resigned because they felt they had no protection "against inside or outside pressure toward favoritism or fix" after his removal, were summoned by Conroy. He turned over the complaints to them for investigation.

Give Breaks, is Order.

"Go out and look into them," he said. "But don't be too exact. Give the property owners a break. If there is no ground for the complaint don't be too rough—put in a little adolescence." [One of the appraisers explained Conroy uses "adolescence" as synonymous with "obsolcence"—a term meaning depreciation for age.]

Offered to Kuehnle.

The assessors insisted they will leave the selection of Cutmore's successor to this committee. Three days ago Assessor Walter W. L. Meyer offered the post to Walter Kuehnle, one of the resigning members of Cutmore's staff, if he "would go along." None of the members of the joint commission on real estate valuations, which included George O. Fairweather, John O. Rees, Prof. A. R. Hatton, and Sewell L. Avery, was asked to serve on the committee.

County Assessor Gene G. Oliver is under sentence of 18 months for violation of the income tax law. During his trial evidence was introduced to show he failed to list in his earnings sums taken for fixing taxes.

The board last night completed the 1930 assessment, fixing the assessed valuation of the county's real estate at $3,492,954,476. Of this $2,779,244,099 represents the value of city real estate and $713,710,377 county real estate. The total represents an increase of $44,963,635 over the board of review's final figure for 1929 in the city of $2,734,280,734.

City assessments are:

	1930.	1929.
Lake View.....	314,749,098	310,088,515

Country townships, which were turned over to the reviewers last week, showed an increase of $17,242,119 in 1930.

Governor Pares Money Bills; Saves Million and a Quarter

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 30.—[Special.]—Gov. Emmerson celebrated the sine die adjournment of the 57th general assembly today by knocking a million and a quarter dollars of appropriations.

J. B. LEONARDO.

By the way of practice, the executive lopped $905,000 from the appropriations made to the department of public welfare, in addition to its budget requests. One item pruned away was $415,000 to pay the cost of putting in an eight hour day for guards at the prisons and reformatories.

Columbus Statue Killed.

Another item knocked out was $275,000 for a bridge over the Illinois river at Spring valley. The veto pen likewise spiked Senator James B. Leonardo's bill for $25,000 for a statue of Christopher Columbus in Columbus park, Chicago.

Revenue relief was the parting note on which the assembly finished up. A joint committee headed by Senator Harold Ward [Dem., Chicago], drafted a formal argument for the gateway amendment which will be submitted at the November 1932 election. If adopted it would permit the amendment of three articles at a time instead of only one. It is to be made the nucleus of an effort to enable the classification of intangible property for taxation, which itself requires an amendment to the revenue article.

The state tax levy bill, providing $57,000,000 for the next two years, was signed by the governor. It provides $18,000,000 for general revenue purposes and $10,500,000 for state school purposes each year of the biennium.

Bohrer Bill in Doubt.

The Bohrer bill for semi-annual payment of taxes has stirred up controversy. The bill is on the governor's desk. Officialdom is arguing that it would cause additional expense, as the state fiscal system is based on yearly collections. On the other hand, business men and bankers are saying it would be of considerable relief to the taxpayers, and might reduce tax delinquencies and tax sales and loss of property. The outlook is that the bill will be signed.

A bill creating a commission of eleven to investigate the sources of state and municipal revenue and to recommend new sources of raising money to the next general assembly was one of those signed. The last commission produced the idea of a smokers' tax on cigarets, cigars, and tobacco, which was laughed to death in the senate.

Another measure growing out of the slump was signed, the Thon bill, which was devised for the protection of owners of real estate and building bonds, and to reduce the number of apartment hotels and buildings now in receiverships.

$350,000 for Fair Exhibit.

An Illinois building and exhibit to cost $350,000 at the Century of Progress exposition is provided in the Frank Ryan bill, which was signed. The Mancin bill for a survey for a west side medical center in Chicago was approved. It carries $25,000, conditional upon a like amount from the Cook county board.

Two measures growing out of the riots at Joliet penitentiary were signed. They were the Barr bills, requiring the state and its subdivisions to buy prison made products for institutions where possible, and setting up a board to plan prison industries.

To head off the practice of filing tickets composed of candidates who do not know they have been entered is the purpose of Searle's bill, which was signed. It requires that nominating petitions must contain statements of candidacy by the candidates. A Barr bill, also signed, defines a political party to be one which has polled 5 per cent [now 2 per cent] of the entire vote cast in the state or subdivision.

Bills Signed By Governor.

Following is a list of the senate bills signed by Gov. Emmerson today.

S. B. 190 [Paddock]—Classifies supervisors on county boards into two classes; one to be elected each two years.

S. B. 418, 419 [Barr]—Defines a political party to be one which has polled five per cent [now two per cent] of the entire vote cast in the state or subdivisions.

S. B. 439 [Harbour]—For a free employment office in Evanston, $18,000.

S. B. 492 [Lee]—County teacher's institute to be held three days instead of five.

S. B. 546 [Graham]—Permits Cook county forest preserve district to lease lands to veterans' organizations as grounds for convalescing sick and disabled veterans and as a site for rehabilitation structures.

S. B. 563 [Barr]—Supplies for the state and its political subdivision and the institutions of both must be purchased from prison made products, when possible.

S. B. 564 [Barr]—Creates a board to determine a standard brand of articles to be made by prisons and reformatories and an industrial board to plan prison industry.

S. B. 2624 [Meents]—Creates commission of eleven to investigate the sources of state and municipal revenue and recommends new sources of raising money to the next general assembly. Appropriates $25,000.

S. B. 628 [Thompson]—For employment office at Harrisburg, $15,650.

House Bills Signed.

House bills signed were as follows:

H. B. 61, 62 [Searle]—Requires nominating petitions to contain a statement of candidacy by the candidate in whose behalf the papers are filed.

H. B. 135 [Sullivan, T. J.]—Requires an agent of storage warehouse to file certificate disclosing his principles.

H. B. 243 [Black]—Changes agricultural drainage act as to bonds.

H. B. 248 [Jackson]—Threshermen's lien extended from four to eight months.

H. B. 505 [Lyons]—Prohibits sirens on vehicles except those in fire, police, or ambulance service.

H. B. 687 [Skarda]—For holding national encampment; United Spanish War veterans in Chicago, 1933, $25,000.

H. B. 726 [Thon]—Annual reports for surety companies to be filed March 1 instead of in January.

H. B. 931 [Thon]—To protect owners of real estate and building bonds. Makes it possible for bondholders' committees to bid at the sale then take the certificate of sale and use it as collateral at a bank to get funds to pay off the share due non-depositing bond holders.

H. B. 942 [committee]—Creates commission of fifteen to make survey of traffic needs, necessity of widening roads, and building new ones. Appropriates $5,000.

$50,000 for Legion Meet.

H. B. 950 [Rategan]—Appropriates $50,000 for expenses of holding American Legion convention in Chicago in 1933.

H. B. 1002 [committee]—For newspaper publication of conservation forest preserve act, $59,298.

H. B. 1049 [Ryan, Frank]—Creates Century of Progress commission. Appropriates $350,000 for an Illinois building and exhibit.

H. B. 1140 [Jenkins]—Creates commission to investigate feasibility of establishing state institution in Chicago for training in skilled trades and vocations.

H. B. 1142 [Mancin]—For a survey for west side medical center in Chicago, $25,000. Conditional upon like amount by Cook board.

Mayor Outlines Proposals.

"Our program is pretty well known," said Mayor Cermak after the session. "We did not agree on any important changes. We believe, first, that every tax spending body must cut down its expenditures. A bond funding plan or some other way should be found to reduce the burden of tax anticipation warrant interest but taxes must not be increased. We urged at the regular session of the legislature a simplification of the tax assessing and collecting machinery. This is essential."

Mayor Cermak pointed out that the governor's conference will consider a plan broader in scope than one dealing only with the city. He said he hoped that out of it would come permanent relief for all the governments, state and local. He added, however, that he would unalterably oppose a state income tax that would be burdensome to Chicagoans.

Earlier in the day Mayor Cermak advanced, as one form of tax relief, a plan for consolidation of the overlapping taxing bodies. Unification of the forest preserves and the various park districts under one board would save 50 per cent of the present cost of operation under their scattered control, he estimated. He proposed that members of the board be appointed by the governor, president of the county board, mayor, and the Circuit court judges.

Expect Other Proposals.

Another suggestion of the mayor was that the ballot could be shortened and the costs of elections reduced if the clerks of various courts were appointed by the judges instead of being elected. The city clerk could be appointed by the council and the city treasurer by the mayor, he suggested.

Several definite programs, aside from that of the city administration, are expected at the governor's meeting. These will include proposals for the funding of one year's taxes and new schemes for the taxation of incomes and intangible property. Opposed to these suggestions will be a good deal of blunt talking about extravagance in government and relief for the taxpayers as well as the tax spenders, it is reported.

Whatever the trend of the discussion, it is likely to be candid as the conference will be held behind closed doors. Gov. Emmerson said that he had arranged for an executive session because he feared the men he had invited would hesitate to express themselves fully in public. The governor did not say if or how he would receive the school teachers who are planning to parade to the hotel in protest against not being paid their salaries.

HEAR THREE REMEDIES

Spokesmen for the county board and the Chicago real estate board, and a professor from the University of Chicago, went before a subcommittee of the city council's committee on efficiency, consolidation and reorganization last night to give their views on how the community may best approach the tax problem.

Hayden Bell, attorney for the county board, said that unless the assessment machinery is changed the city will face a rebellion by taxpayers. He declared personal property pays only from 5 to 12 per cent of the burden while real estate pays 37 per cent.

D. Avery Kimbark, vice president of the Chicago real estate board, advocated a bond issue to meet current obligations and to avoid two tax bills in one year.

Urges Unified Governments.

Dr. Simeon E. Leland, of the University of Chicago faculty, urged consolidation of the numerous local governments, pointing out that this would not only prove economical and result in greater efficiency but would enable the voters to fix responsibility for expenditures.

Dr. Leland pictured the citizen of Chicago as a wanderer in one of the most impenetrable jungles in all political geography. He represented the beasts of prey as the hundreds of governmental units which lurk in thickets of red tape waiting to devour the bankroll of the taxpayer. Changing the figure slightly, he said that Chicago has a three ring circus to support, with its menagerie of elephants, asses and mugwumps.

"The political structure has become too complicated for a citizen to understand the fiscal operations or to inform himself upon the qualifications of candidates," Dr. Leland said. "In Cook county there are more than 145 governmental units."

The Wholesale and Retail Stores will be closed all day Saturday, July 4. As has been our custom for years the Retail Store will close all other Saturday afternoons at 1 o'clock during July and August. The Wholesale closes Saturday afternoons at 1 o'clock the year round.

OLD BAY STATE SOLVES PROBLEM OF TAX RELIEF

Commonwealth Does It by Cutting Expenses.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Leaders in Massachusetts say they have discovered "a practical solution of the revenue problem" which is the objective, Gov. Emmerson's conference is seeking today.

"Cut expense" is the Massachusetts remedy.

The Bay state commission on administration and finance reports that the state's direct tax, levied annually upon cities and towns of Massachusetts has been reduced 50 per cent. In 1920 and in 1921 it was $14,000,000. It was trimmed down to $8,500,000 in both in 1921 it was $14,000,000. It was slashed to $7,000,000.

Keep Expenses Down.

Massachusetts officials take pride in their record of keeping control of its governmental costs in the last seven years. The percentage of increase between 1915 and 1928 is much smaller in Massachusetts than in any other state of the nation, according to the official figures of the United States census bureau.

These statistics show that the state's expenses increased from $26,775,152 in 1915 to $51,769,991 in 1928. That is an increase of 93 per cent. The nearest competitor is Utah with a boost of 141 per cent. Illinois had a jump of 88 per cent, while the average of all of the states is 282 per cent.

Tax Cuts Are Urged.

Legislative committees in the last two sessions of the Massachusetts legislature have urged tax cuts and presented bills to accomplish that end. No such measures have been talked of in Illinois.

In explaining the tax cut bills, one of Massachusetts reports says: "The legislation proposed in this report is designed to accomplish the following results:

1. Reduce taxes on productive industry, whether incorporated or unincorporated, by approximately one-third.
2. Reduce taxes on real estate to some extent at once, and by an increasing amount in the future.
3. Reduce taxes on wages, salaries and business income by one-third.
4. Reduce the present tax on interest and dividends by one-half.
5. Increase the income tax exemptions for those most in need of them.
6. Increase and simplify the householder's exemption on tangible personal property.

That drastic program did not prevail, but various Bay state public officials continue to urge tax reduction.

Committee Report Cited.

The Massachusetts house committee on taxation, in a later investigation and report, argues the imperative need of relieving industry of some of its taxes. It reads:

"The prosperity of the state depends largely upon the prosperity of its industries. Our industries today are in direct competition with those of the entire world. We should do whatever can fairly be done to enable our industries to compete on favorable terms.

"Leaving out of consideration federal taxes, the average corporate industry, in 1929, paid approximately 11.91 per cent of its net income for state and local taxes. A substantial part of the direct cost of production is the cost of taxes, all of which are a direct handicap in competition.

A Menace to Industry.

"Since nearly all of the tax on industry is a local tax, its unchecked growth is a real menace to industry. One of the primary purposes of the accompanying bill is to relieve and assist industry, and to check the mounting tax burdens on real estate and machinery.

"Industry may be relieved by diminishing the cost of government. One of the major costs of government is the payment of interest. Vast sums are spent annually for interest on money borrowed in anticipation of taxes. Another cost of government is in the administration of the tax laws."

The last three sentences also describe conditions in Chicago, as well as in Massachusetts cities.

In addition to cutting the direct state tax in two this commission has reduced the direct state debt from $[illegible] in 1919 to $11,181,794 in 1930, thus reducing the interest charge.

"The major credit for these accomplishments," reads the report, "belongs to the successive governors and legislative leaders who have been in office in the period in question."

All of this indicates what is meant by "tax relief"—a phrase frequently used locally—in Massachusetts. To nearly every session of the Illinois legislature in 20 years Chicago public officials have appealed for "tax relief."

Invariably the bills which the legislature was asked to pass and did adopt gave no relief to taxpayers. All of these measures increased taxes.

The only "relief" given was to the officials of the local governments. They were "relieved" by getting more taxes to pay for the expenses they had incurred. That is the history of "tax relief" in Illinois back to 1912—a check further back not having been made.

Contrast in Relief Plans.

The "tax relief" advocated by Mayor Cermak at the current session of the Illinois legislature was to "put teeth" in the personal property tax laws and to give the city large powers to impose license fees upon business.

In New York and Massachusetts both of those plans would be classed as increases in taxes, yet Mayor Cermak proclaimed three times he would "not stand for any increase in taxes."

3 OF GEORGE J. GOULD'S CHILDREN BORN OUT OF WEDLOCK INHERIT

New York, June 30.—[Special.]—Justice Edward J. Glendon ruled today that the three children of the late George J. Gould and Genevieve Sinclair, born before their parents' marriage, are entitled to share in a $30,000 bequest of their grandmother, Helen D. Gould, who died in 1899.

In her final testament, Mrs. Gould repeatedly used the phrase "lawful issue" in making bequests, but when she bequeathed the principal of a $30,000 trust fund to the children of each of her sons, she used the terms "surviving issue."

This was interpreted by Justice Glendon to include legitimate and illegitimate offspring on equal basis.

FATE OF SCHOOL SCRIP PLAN IS UP TO MAYOR TODAY

All Depends on Whether He Signs Tax Warrants

A showdown on the school board's plan to pay its employes and contractors with scrip will come today, when Mayor Cermak and City Controller Szymczak are asked to sign the tax anticipation warrants on which the scrip in the form of certificates would be based.

CHAS. E. GILBERT.

Officials of the school board yesterday expressed themselves as confident that the signatures would be obtained in spite of intimations that the mayor and the controller were reluctant to sign. Charles E. Gilbert, secretary of the school board and trustee under the scrip plan, will send the blank warrants to the mayor today with a communication setting forth the full details of the plan.

"When they understand fully what the plan is," said Thomas V. Sullivan, attorney for the board, "I'm sure they will be willing to sign the warrants."

Mayor Cermak said that his action on the warrants would be governed by the opinion of Corporation Counsel Sexton. All but two of the members of the board are holdovers from the last administration who refused to surrender their offices following Cermak's inauguration.

"Their trouble is of the trustees' own making," said the mayor. "We will be willing to extend more courtesies to them than they would extend to us, if we can help out the employés."

He picked up from his desk a report showing that during June, July, August and September the school board will keep at work thirty-five assistant engineers, temporary appointees of the last administration, whose wages for the summer will total $42,000.

"What do they do?" Mayor Cermak demanded.

"They fire," he was told.

"Fire what?"

"Fire boilers."

"Then maybe they are responsible for the heat wave," the mayor said.

"There is no more need for a fireman in the schools during the hot months than there is for street sprinkling in the winter," the mayor added. "Why didn't they lay them off, as I did the engineers at police stations, and try to save a little money for teachers' salaries next fall?"

Controller Stands Firm.

Controller Szymczak, when asked what action he would take when the warrants were presented for his signature, reiterated his statement of Monday, in which he declared that the city would not release any tax warrants unless "cash or its equivalent" were paid into the treasury for them.

School teachers will parade down Michigan avenue today to impress their woes on Gov. Emmerson and the two score Chicago leaders who will be conferring with him at the Stevens hotel regarding the city and state financial problems. Miss Agnes Clohesy, president of the elementary school teachers' union, who issued the call for the parade, estimated that 5,000 teachers would be in line.

CHILD KILLED IN WINDOW FALL.

Henry Gilbert, 2 years old, colored, was killed yesterday when he fell from a window of his home at 1405 South Throop street.

TWO TAX FIXERS ARE SENTENCED TO JAIL TERMS

Judge Sabath Finds Three Guilty of Plot.

Found guilty by Judge Joseph Sabath in Criminal court yesterday of a conspiracy to reduce taxes on Michigan avenue property, Herman J. Goldberg, a tax expert, and Charles A. Mead, former employé of the board of review, were fined and sentenced to the county jail. The men pleaded not guilty and waived a jury trial four weeks ago. Judge Sabath has had the case under advisement since the hearing.

Goldberg, accused leader of the tax fixing plot, was fined $1,000 and sentenced to three months in jail. Mead was fined $200 and sentenced to one month in jail. Robert Wall, an employé of Goldberg, who also was convicted in the conspiracy, was fined $1,000.

Manipulate Tax Records.

The three men were convicted of manipulating tax records in the offices of the board of review in order to reduce by $500,000 the assessed valuation on the property bounded by Ohio and Rush streets and Grand and Michigan avenues. This block is owned by a syndicate headed by Murray Wolbach.

Wall was said to have been the contact man between Wolbach and Goldberg. Goldberg was alleged to have arranged with Mead to manipulate the board of review records.

When the defendants appeared before Judge Sabath yesterday their attorneys sought to introduce new evidence, but an objection by Assistant State's Attorney Homer Dodge was upheld on grounds that he had not been notified.

Judge Hits Tax Fixing.

In passing sentence, Judge Sabath commented on the "seriousness of the crime in this indictment," saying that too often tax fixing methods were used which shifted the tax burden from the large property owner to the small home owner.

During the trial Wolbach testified that he had thought the taxes on the property were too high and had retained Goldberg as an expert to attempt to obtain a reduction. He said he did not know what methods Goldberg employed.

After the judge had passed sentence a motion for a new trial was entered and set for a hearing on Aug. 3.

$8,000,000 DUE ON PUBLIC BONDS TO BE PAID TODAY

Borrow Cash from Local Government Funds.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

More than $8,000,000 will be paid today by Cook county local governments in bonds and interest due on July 1. A large part of the amount has been borrowed by the local governments from their own public funds. About $200,000 was loaned by banks.

There will be no defaults on the bonds as there was on June 1 when the county was unable to raise $1,868,400 in principal and interest.

The amount to be paid out by each of the local governments on bonds and interest today is as follows:

Government—	Amount.
City	$2,831,438
Sanitary district	2,497,447
South Park board	1,031,906
West Park board	619,034
Lincoln Park board	529,276
School board	458,375
Cook county	55,000
Total	$8,022,524

Nearly every one of the governments, it was stated, obtained the cash with which to meet its bond obligations by borrowing from temporarily idle funds. Not one had the total required on hand in the proper fund.

The county, according to officials, will endeavor this month to refund the bonds and interest due June 1 and today, by authority of a legislative act which becomes effective today.

$162,386,926 Collected.

County Treasurer McDonough reported yesterday that he has collected $162,386,926 of the 1929 current taxes, out of a total levy of $260,422,734, due May 15. Accordingly 62.4 per cent of the current taxes have been received, and there still remains $98,035,808.80 delinquent. There is also about $15,800,000 in forfeited taxes of previous year.

Of the 1929 real estate taxes totaling $202,421,527, there has been collected $124,549,674, or 61.4 per cent. Of the $45,501,207 of personal property taxes levied, the collections total $25,855,128, or a trifle less than 56 per cent. Except where there is a legal question regarding the taxes, the railroads have paid.

Of the taxes received, there has been distributed an aggregate of $143,450,723. The undistributed portion is being held temporarily for collection fees, extension fees, commissions and possible errors, until an audit of the books is completed.

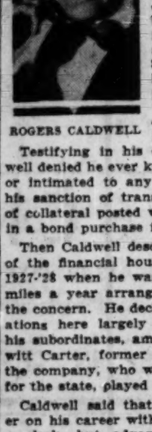
The following table shows how the millions collected have been distributed to the principal local governments, together with the approximate percentages of the undistributed collected taxes to which each government is entitled:

Government—	Amount distributed.	Percentage undistributed.
State	$ 9,836,190	6.92
County	8,498,670	22.18
City and schools	85,500,000	3.80
Forest preserves	1,960,000	10.74
Sanitary district	13,135,000	3.76
South parks	6,850,000	3.48
West parks	2,250,000	6.51
Lincoln park	1,350,000	6.65

The total collections of the 1929 taxes falls considerably behind the 1928 collections of last year. Of the 1928 taxes 74.8 per cent were collected, as compared with 62.4 per cent of the 1929 taxes to date. This difference in percentages is the equivalent of $33,292,000 in 1929 taxes. In a word, it will be necessary to collect $32,292,000 more of the 1929 taxes in order to equal the percentage of collections of the 1928 taxes.

VIOLATED NO TRUST, CALDWELL TESTIFIES IN BANK CRASH CASE

Nashville, Tenn., June 30.—[Special.]—Rogers Caldwell, once toasted over the south as a financial genius who would lead his section of the country into economic power, defended himself on the witness stand of Criminal court today on a charge of fraudulent breach of trust in the matter of securities for a $200,000 county highway bond purchase by Caldwell & Co., his collapsed financial house.



ROGERS CALDWELL

Testifying in his own behalf Caldwell denied he ever knew of, condoned, or intimated to any of his employes his sanction of transferring one type of collateral posted with a trust bank in a bond purchase for another.

Then Caldwell described the growth of the financial house to its peak in 1927-'28 when he was traveling 60,000 miles a year arranging big deals for the concern. He declared he left operations here largely in the hands of his subordinates, among whom J. Dewitt Carter, former vice president of the company, who was a star witness for the state, played a prominent part.

Caldwell said that he started Carter on his career with the company as a clerk, but advanced him rapidly and put many affairs of trust entirely under Carter's authority.

"Did you direct any one to remove securities from the Hardeman County Trust," he was asked.

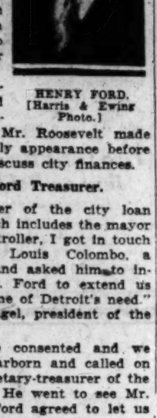
Terms Are Better Than Bankers Offered.

Detroit, Mich., June 30.—[Special.]—The city of Detroit today accepted an offer by the Ford Motor company to lend it $5,000,000 at 3½ per cent interest until Sept. 15.



HENRY FORD. [Harris & Ewing Photo.]

The loan was approved by the council and G. Hall Roosevelt, city controller, and the council voted to meet in special session Wednesday to pass the proper resolution.

The announcement of the Ford offer came dramatically when Mr. Roosevelt made his regular weekly appearance before the council to discuss city finances.

Call on Ford Treasurer.

"As a member of the city loan commission, which includes the mayor and the city controller, I got in touch yesterday with Louis Colombo, a Ford attorney, and asked him to intercede with Mr. Ford to extend us a loan in this time of Detroit's need," said John C. Nagel, president of the council.

"Mr. Colombo consented and we went out to Dearborn and called on B. J. Craig, secretary-treasurer of the Ford company. He went to see Mr. Ford, and Mr. Ford agreed to let us have the $5,000,000 we need."

"These terms are better than anything the bankers have offered us," observed Councilman William P. Bradley.

Pass Up New York Bankers.

The Ford loan will make it unnecessary for the city to pursue its efforts to obtain more money from the New York banks at this time, Mr. Roosevelt informed the council. The new fiscal year will start Wednesday and new tax money will start coming in.

Mr. Nagel and Mr. Bradley pointed out that the Ford loan is more advantageous than the proposal offered by the bankers in that the bankers demanded the first $6,000,000 collected in taxes and that they be repaid by July 20. There are no such strings on the Ford offer. The New York loan also was offered at 3½ per cent.

NINE INDICTED AT CROWN POINT; 2 ARE OFFICIALS

Lake County (Ind.) Board Members Accused.

Two county commissioners, five prominent Gary property owners, and two Hammond business men were named in indictments returned yesterday by the Lake county, Indiana, grand jury at Crown Point.

The two county commissioners, James Black and William Linton, Republicans, and the two Hammond business men, Eugene Carpenter, representative of the North State Publishing company, and Ross Smith, head of the Hammond Inspection company, were indicted for alleged irregularities in awarding contracts and obtaining fees.

Hotel Owners Indicted.

The five Gary business men were indicted on a charge of renting property for gambling purposes. Those indicted were Dr. Carl Boardman, John B. Burke, owner of the Baltimore hotel; Adolph Deutsch, owner of the Lake hotel, and Leslie R. Bain and D. S. Fruse, real estate dealers.

The county commissioners are accused of negligence in paying $80,000 fees to Smith for the inspection of road materials used by the county. Smith was charged with filing false claims, the prosecutor charging that he was paid $80,000 for tests that actually cost only $1,700.

Charged with Perjury.

Carpenter, the other Hammond man indicted, was charged with perjury in connection with filing a false affidavit with his bid for furniture for the county treasurer's office.

The Gary property owners are alleged to have rented certain parcels of their holdings purposely for gambling.

3d Bank Robber Captured; Hid All Night in Culvert

After hiding all night in a culvert, Lawrence Beckett, 19 years old, one of the five bandits sought for the holdup of the State bank of Frankfort, in Will county, Monday afternoon, was arrested yesterday by a detail of state highway police who found his hiding place a few miles from Frankfort. He was armed with a pistol and police said he admitted taking part in the attempted robbery. Two other robbers were captured by a posse of businessmen as they fled from the bank. Two others are still at liberty.

HOT DOG, BEER WEDDING FEAST BRINGS DISASTER

A honeymoon which started with a banquet of hot dogs, peanuts and beer and ended a week later with a punch in the nose was described to Judge John J. Sullivan yesterday by Phillip Paolino, 1438 West Polk street, and his wife, Emma, 814 North Hermitage avenue.

They married Sept. 28, 1930. She left him a week later, and he is suing for divorce, charging adultery. She has a crossbill for separate maintenance pending, charging her husband with striking her on several occasions during their brief married life.

"I want my $500 back," Mrs. Paolino complained.

"I spent it for the wedding party," Peter explained. "I bought a barrel of beer, 98 pounds of hot dogs, 1,500 buns and 100 pounds of peanuts. Her friends ate as much as mine did."

"It seems to me that the wedding party was a joint affair," ruled Judge Sullivan. He gave Mrs. Paolino $5 a week temporary alimony.

Arraign Boy as Police Killer; May Plead Guilty

Arraigned yesterday before Judge Joseph Sabath in Criminal court, 15 year old Varner Corry, confessed slayer of Policeman Edward Smith, was granted a continuance until tomorrow when, it is said, arrangements may be made for him to plead guilty to a charge of manslaughter. Corry shot the policeman after the latter had ordered Corry and two other boys out of a swimming pool at John Marshall High school last Memorial day, when the school was closed.

JOE GREIN HOST AT BONFIRE OF FAULTY SCALES

City Sealer Uses Ax on Cheating Measures.

City Sealer Joe Grein headed a triumphal procession through the loop yesterday to the tunes of a children's band and bugle corps, convoying a truckload of fraudulent scales and measures confiscated in his campaign against short weighing dealers.

The parade ended at 7th street and the Outer drive, where the scales and measures were burned in a giant bonfire. The sealer swung an ax himself, smashing up some of the iron scales which escaped the flames.

Warning to "Racketeers."

"We staged this demonstration to convince the short weight racketeers that they must go straight," he said. Among the articles destroyed were 60 scales, 100 short measure baskets and containers and 200 peddlers' measures.

The music for the occasion was furnished by the Weber Juniors' drum and bugle corps, recruited by County Commissioner Charles H. Weber. Following the bonfire, Sealer Grein was the host at a luncheon at which Roger Cermak, Acting Police Commissioner Alcock, Commissioner Toler, attaches of the sealer's office, and the children were guests.

Arrest in Evanston.

Ingal Lubbing, 1913 Melrose avenue, a truck driver for the Silver Cook Coal company at 1800 Lawrence avenue, was arrested on a short weight charge in Evanston yesterday. City Sealer M. J. Woodman of Evanston stated that the load of coal Lubbing was delivering was 430 pounds underweight.

SEES COLLAPSE OF CATALAN HOPE OF INDEPENDENCE

Drive Sentimental, Says Spain's 'Next' Premier.

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, June 30.—Alejandro Lerroux, who will be the next premier, everybody says, when the provisional government resigns and the newly elected assembly takes hold on July 14, gave his first interview tonight, predicting an early collapse of Col. Francisco Macias movement for an autonomous Catalonia within the Spanish republic.

COL. FRANCISCO MACIA. [Acme Photo.]

Señor Lerroux was elected by six Spanish constituencies, but only as a minority representative in Barcelona.

"The movement in Catalonia is composed of two contradictory impulses," he said. "On one side there is the impulse to be sentimental and confused, and this expresses the personality of Catalonia. It is more or less romantic and more or less imprudent.

Impulse Materialistic.

"The other impulse is entirely materialistic, made up of elements which, without affiliation to the country's ideals, aspires to social justice indefinitely imagined along different models which contemporary history offers. This is an accidental alliance and will not last long. Worthwhile elements associated with the movement will find themselves unable to do constructive labor and will be forced to the most extreme behavior to keep the loyalty of their clientele."

Lerroux said parliament's job is to draft a constitution "orientated to the left, full of the modern spirit, and with provisions for easy reform." The drafting committee tonight accepted an article by which, within unitary states, various regions can achieve self-rule on a three-fourths vote of the inhabitants, city council, and provincial committees.

Flyer Calls Plot "Nonsense."

Maj. Ramon Franco, the wild man of the skies, dropped in on Madrid by plane from Seville yesterday, nursing a broken leg, and very angry. He was out after the scalp of Miguel Maura, minister of the interior. The famous "revolutionary" plot in which Señor Maura implicated him was nonsense, Maj. Franco said.

LEARNS WOMAN SHE IDENTIFIED AS DEAD IS ALIVE

Miss Isabel Page of the Hyde Park hotel, 1511 East 51st street, who Monday identified a picture of a woman who was buried in potter's field May 14 as that of her seamstress, Mrs. Nell Cepelka, 5311 Dorchester avenue, yesterday learned that Mrs. Cepelka was alive and well.

"I'm most grateful for the fact that she is alive," said Miss Page, "but I'm very much provoked with her. I have been so worried about her that I didn't like to leave on a summer trip until the matter was settled. She disappeared from her rooming house two months ago, taking almost no belongings, and I heard not a word from her. The photograph which police showed me at the missing persons bureau of a woman whose body was taken from the lake was just like her—I could have sworn it was she."

Mrs. Cepelka herself thought the matter "a big joke," she said laughingly. She had been staying for the last two months at the homes of Mrs. Everett Rieman, 9772 Vanderpoel avenue, and Mrs. S. T. Pope, 9766 Vanderpoel avenue. She went to the home of Mrs. Rieman when threatened with a nervous breakdown, Mrs. Rieman said.

KILLS SWIMMER WHO DISTURBS HIS TROT LINE

Decatur, Ind., June 30.—[Special.]—Doras Werling, 27, was shot and killed by Joseph Everett, 53, early today following an altercation over swimming in St. Mary's river.

Werling, with James Halberstadt, 19; Thomas Halberstadt, 16, and Luther Sovin, 15, had gone to the river. Everett was running a trot line and told the boys they could not swim in the river. They persisted and Everett drew a revolver, shooting Werling in the left leg and right lung. Werling died ten minutes later.

Everett made no effort to escape, and was arrested by Burl Johnson, sheriff, and brought to Adams county jail. Admitting the shooting, he said the boys had "made him mad." Everett was held without bail. Werling's widow and son survive.

Sing Sing Prisoner Stabbed to Death; Convict Confesses

Lawes said, that he had stabbed to death Frank Doyle, 21, of Brooklyn, a prisoner. Doyle's body was found in the recreation room locker of the new prison building this forenoon. He said Canorino claimed he killed Doyle in self-defense. No charges were filed against him at once but District Attorney Frank Coyne was notified.

N. Y. CITY TO SPEND $7,000,000 THIS YEAR FOR RELIEF OF AGED

New York, June 30.—[Special.]—New York City will spend about $7,000,000 this year for the relief of persons of 70 or more years who are unable to take care of themselves, according to the semi-annual report of the old age security division of the department of public welfare. The report showed an increase of expenditure for this purpose from $381,659 in the first month of its operation, last January, to $646,219 in June. The intervening months showed a consistent rise in expenditure. The total amount expended for the first six months of this year was $3,103,172.

Recipients of the relief, made possible by welfare legislation passed at the last session of the legislature, increased from 11,171 last January to 19,568 in June. By December 23,000 aged persons will be receiving relief.

DESIRE TO CHEAT LEADS TO ARREST OF 6 IN ROBBERY

Honor may exist among some thieves, but it didn't among the gang which on March 16 tortured Henry Brady, 64 years old, a farmer living near Ransom, Ill., until he surrendered $24,150 in bonds and cash. And that, police said last night, is why six alleged members of the gang are under arrest. Bonds valued at $17,800 were recovered.

Emmett Sheehan, 29 years old, 5509 Blackstone avenue, and Elmer Leonard, 27 years old, 4069 Oakland crescent, were arrested yesterday. According to Lieut. Walter Healy they confessed that they and two other men, now being sought, committed the robbery.

William Goodman, 33 years old, 937 East 54th street; George Black, 33 years old, 6315 North Francisco avenue; Meyer Goldman, 29 years old, 6233 Blackstone avenue, and Ray Robinson, 1308 Granville avenue, are also held, charged with attempting to sell the stolen bonds.

According to Lieut. Healy, Goodman and Black, anxious to cheat Goldman of his share of the proceeds from sale of the stolen bonds, went to the detective bureau and informed against him. Goldman, arrested on Friday, accused the other five men.

He had been using the name of James Ryan. He gave his address as the Lincoln Park Arms hotel.

ERU'S UPRISING IMED AT RETURN OF OUSTED HEAD

BY C. N. GRIFFIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LIMA, Peru, June 30.—The proclamation of a revolt at Cuzco and Puno last Saturday is generally interpreted here as a movement by a group of army officers opposed to Lieut. Col. Luis Sanchez-Cerro, deposed president, designed to embarrass the latter's return to Peru from Panama, which was authorized last week by the government junta.

It is believed that the arrival of Sanchez-Cerro by the Italian steamer Orazio this week will serve more clearly to define the political situation. Thus far the Cuzco and Puno revolts have had no noticeable reaction in the rest of the country. Police, it is stated, have not joined the rebellion.

The crew of the Shippee-Johnson aerial photographic expedition, arriving today by plane from Arequipa, reported that all was quiet there up to the time of their departure.

Part of the expedition is engaged in ground survey work in the Colca valley, northwest of Arequipa, where nearly a dozen little known, but relatively populous Spanish-Indian towns are located, separated from the outside world by the 15,000 foot rampart of the Andes mountains.

The plane has been communicating with the ground party by the United States army catapult system, picking up messages tied to a rope stretched between two poles, located in this case on the roof of a church in the village of Chivay.

The departure of the 7th regiment to reinforce the loyal troops at Arequipa is the only indication so far in Lima of Peru's newest revolt.

According to information received from Lima last night a censorship has been placed on all press messages by the Peruvian government. Commercial traffic, it was stated, will not be affected. The above dispatch was the last word received last night from The Tribune's correspondent at Lima.

has informed the governments of the creditor states that the Italian government is holding for their accounts while awaiting decision the sums owed them by Italy on the above date."

SENATE BACKS LAVAL

BY EDMOND TAYLOR
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 30.—The French senate tonight ripped Premier Laval up and down, and then conferred on him virtually dictatorial powers to conduct all the negotiations with the United States in connection with President Hoover's debt moratorium plan.

Every senator present applauded when Henry de Jouvenel—one of the most influential men in the higher assembly—tore Foreign Minister Briand to pieces with withering sarcasm and condemned Premier Laval for his vacillations. But the premier had an unanswerable defense:

"The situation is more delicate than it has ever been since the war. The government has need of strong authority. It is to reinforce this authority that I expect a solid and patriotic vote from the senate."

Warns Against Swapping Horses.

Victor Berard, president of the foreign affairs committee of the senate, then intervened. He told his colleagues that they must not swap horses in midstream.

"The situation has completely changed since the debate in the chamber of deputies," he said. "The other assembly was within its functions in formulating criticisms. Today the state of negotiations restricts our liberty of action. We feel the need of rallying solidly around the government. At a moment when we are on the eve of new difficulties, of perhaps even conflict, we must not advertise our dissensions."

On the strength of this statement a resolution expressing confidence in the government on the basis of its reply to President Hoover was adopted by a vote of 197 to 5. This vote relieves Premier Laval from the necessity of rendering an accounting for his actions during the rest of the negotiations and gives him a free hand to do whatever he thinks right, so long as he stands firm on the French note. It is an authorization never accorded to any French premier except in times of national crisis—a sort of temporary dictatorship.

Laval Betrays Nervousness.

During the debate Finance Minister Flandin spoke the same piece he delivered to the chamber Friday night. He said the Hoover moratorium plan was more advantageous to France than a regular moratorium under the terms of the Young plan. He then yielded the field to Laval.

The premier, looking very nervous, started to speak from his seat. He has a horror of facing an audience from the tribune. But the senators, jealous of the dignity of their assembly, booed him until he was forced to mount the stand.

During his speech Laval spoke haltingly and stammered frequently. Several times he exposed himself to ridicule from his enemies by his awkward slips, such as when he admitted that French diplomacy had been caught off guard by the moratorium negotiations.

Senators Give Him Horse Laugh.

He tried to answer the attacks against the ambassadors by saying:

"In the grave crisis we are undergoing we must not shake the confidence of the country in its representatives abroad."

This got a general horse laugh. Laval, realizing that he had made a blunder, put on a helpless expression and said blushingly:

"You all know I can't speak from the tribune. I am no set orator."

This plea swung sympathy in his favor and he continued with more assurance:

"The war reparations are not at stake. The Young plan and The Hague accords must be maintained. They represent a definite settlement of the reparations question. In the negotiations which will continue tomorrow we will continue to show proper concern for upholding the dignity of France. We will recall what we did by our own initiative in 1926 to surmount a crisis like that Germany is passing through now.

Wants Parley with Germany.

"The attitude of our diplomats cannot be criticized. To avoid any more such surprises, we consider it advisable to have complete and frank conversations between the German and French governments. These conversations will take place shortly and I have confidence that they will succeed.

I cannot, on account of the difficult negotiations in progress, say any more and you will understand my silence."

It is significant that this last statement drew the only hearty applause Laval got. It was interpreted in many ways, many believing that Laval was hinting that direct negotiations have already been opened with Germany.

Await Word from Hoover.

The senate vote now clarifies the status of the negotiations as far as America is concerned. Unless Washington comes through with an unexpected surrender to the French demands, the conference with Secretary Mellon tomorrow afternoon is expected to end just as the one last night did. The American embassy will remain open all night tonight, waiting for a cable from President Hoover which may decide the fate of the negotiations.

The huge majority obtained by the government in the senate vote does not indicate confidence in Premier Laval. Senators de Jouvenel and Lemery, who both indicated they had very little confidence in the premier, helped draft the resolution and voted for it. What the vote really means is that the senate approved of the refusal of the French negotiators to give in to President Hoover, and having no other choice, owing to the gravity of the situation, it backed them up as long as they stick to this course.

BRITAIN SORRY U. S. HAS LET FRANCE DO ANY DEBT DICKERING

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, June 30.—England, having done everything it could to further President Hoover's moratorium plan by her unqualified acceptance, is now marking time on the side lines as a spectator to the discussion now going on in Paris. The British hope that America wins the argument with the French, but regret that America ever consented to even discuss the French proposals of modification.

"It is unfortunate," a government official said today, "that after making his great offer a week ago President Hoover did not insist on immediate and unqualified acceptance of all countries concerned.

"He had complete control of all the screws in the situation and by very little pressure on them could have brought France quickly to terms. America had England, Italy and Germany with her. France would not have dared to defy the whole world by adhering to her demands of modification, which in England seem preposterous."

DEBT HOLIDAY IN BALANCE WHILE PARIS BARGAINS

French Not Satisfied by Hoover's Concessions.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 30.—[Special.]—Notwithstanding the concessions President Hoover has made to French demands in his effort to put across his debt moratorium plan, France is holding out for still more favorable terms, according to information obtained tonight from an authoritative administration source.

It was admitted that the fate of Mr. Hoover's debt holiday hangs in the balance tonight on the eve of the resumption of negotiations in Paris tomorrow between Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon and Premier Laval of France.

The situation was pronounced serious, but not hopeless.

Belgium Accepts Cordially.

The state department announced that a cordial acceptance of the plan has been received from Belgium, who ordinarily sees eye to eye with France in these matters. Greece and Jugo-Slavia have accepted the proposal in part. The President made his offer contingent upon acceptance by all the principal creditor nations and with the acceptance by Belgium, all have now given unconditional indorsement, except France.

The modifications of his original proposal, to which the President has assented in order to bring France into line were described by an administration official who has been in close touch with the negotiations. He said that the concessions made do not affect the essentials of Mr. Hoover's proposal, the aim of which is to give Germany the greatest amount of relief possible in the emergency.

Reichsbank Near Collapse.

Mr. Hoover, he said, undertook in his offer to improve the economic situation of the world. Germany was to be the chief beneficiary, for the reason that the economic situation in Germany is more serious than anywhere else. The United tSates was to make the greatest sacrifice, for the reason that it would forego the receipt of about 246 millions of dollars in payments on the allied war debts during the year of the proposed moratorium.

It was disclosed today that when President Hoover announced his war debt moratorium proposal the German Reichsbanks was within forty-eight hours of collapse. The same authority stated that when the Bank of England went to the aid of the Creditanstalt of Vienna, the largest bank of Austria, earlier this month, this finacial institution was on the verge of disaster. The Bank of England furnished a loan of $22,000,000 and the Federal Reserve Bank of New York participated in an additional loan designed to stabilize the Creditanstalt. Without outside help the bank would have collapsed in forty-eight hours, it was said.

The effect of the offer on the economic situation of the world was instantaneous, the administration spokesman proceeded. There was a marked rise in commodity prices here and abroad. The spirit of the proposal won general approval.

The French reply which was made public last Friday was not, the President felt, an acceptance of the spirit of his plan, for the reason that under the French counter proposal the situation of Germany would not be materially improved.

Mr. Hoover's original idea was that the reparations and war debt payments for next year should simply be postponed until the end of the entire period, which thus would become 62, instead of 62 years. There was to be a complete one year's holiday.

The French government came back with the proposal that Germany should continue to deposit the unconditional reparations in the international bank to be loaned back to Germany and other needy European countries.

Mr. Hoover then began to yield ground but he has refused so far to go all the way to the French position. He agreed that Germany should continue to pay the unconditional reparations amounting to 165 millions next year to the world bank, as France insisted should be done.

Insists on Use for Germany.

He also agreed that of her share of these unconditional reparations amounting to about 100 millions France might retain such portion of the payments in kind as were necessary to finance contracts in course of fulfillment as France was insisting.

Mr. Hoover, however, made these concessions conditional upon France agreeing that the remainder of the unconditional reparations deposited in the world bank by Germany, about $130,000,000, should be reloaned entirely to Germany. France up to date has refused to accept this condition. She wants some, if not nearly all, of that 130 millions loaned to other countries, notably Greece, Jugo-Slavia, Poland, and Czecho-Slovakia.

The next concession made by Mr. Hoover was with regard to the payment by Germany of the postponed reparations. France contended that Germany should pay up in full during the year following the moratorium, which would mean a double payment for that year. Mr. Hoover came back with a suggestion that Germany be allowed to pay up in installments during a period of 25 years. France countered yesterday with a proposal to make it five years.

Hoover Rejects 5 Year Plan.

Mr. Hoover rejected the bid, on the ground that the imposition of such an obligation on Germany would not afford the relief he contemplated. Moreover, he objected, the same terms would have to be given the debtors of the United States.

When that word reached Paris, Premier Laval told Mr. Mellon France would be willing to extend the first period of five years for another and perhaps for a second period of five years, "if the Young plan at that time should appear to be in full force and vigor."

This was an indication of the French suspicion that the Hoover move is an entering wedge to the cancellation of reparations and war debts whereby France would lose entirely the postponed reparations. Mr. Hoover is still holding out for 25 years, but is not unlikely to come down to 12 or 15 if France will accept.

At this moment, however, he is flatly refusing to assent to the loaning of the unconditional reparations to any country but Germany.

ASK U. S. COAST GUARD OFFICER TO NAVIGATE GRAF TO NORTH POLE

Washington, D. C., June 30.—(AP)—Coast Guard headquarters announced today that Lieutenant Commander Edward H. Smith, invited to make the flight to the north pole on the Graf Zeppelin as the American representative, has been asked to navigate the huge airship in its polar flight.

Smith intends to study ice conditions during the flight. For years he has been the chief ice expert in the international ice patrol conducted by the coast guard in steamer lanes in the North Atlantic ocean.

Coast guard headquarters today forwarded to the officer all the maps of the polar region available and all of the instruments needed by a navigator directing a perilous flight over the arctic waters.

CROWD IN FRENCH CHAMBER SHOUTS 'WE WANT BREAD'

PARIS, June 30.—(AP)—Seven persons, one a woman, created a violent scene in the chamber of deputies tonight during discussion of a bill dealing with commercial property.

While communist deputy Beaugrand was condemning capitalism from the tribune, a group in the galleries shouted towards the governmental benches: "You are starving us. We want bread."

The chamber was suspended while the demonstrators were expelled.

UT WAR DEBTS N HALF FOR FIVE YEARS: KEYNES

Economist Sees Hoover's Plan as Right Start.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

A new proposal on the war debt moratorium for one year advanced President Hoover, and with France is debating, as suggested by John Maynard Keynes, English economist, in an address yesterday before the Chicago council on foreign relations, meeting at the Palmer house.

JOHN MAYNARD KEYNES.

Referring to the Hoover plan as a "stop-gap arrangement" and characterizing it as "iced over with a curtain of unreality," Mr. Keynes proposed as a better plan that all war debt payments be cut down by half by all countries for a period of five years.

Presented by Traylor.

Mr. Keynes, who has been lecturing at the University of Chicago, was presented to the large audience of the council by Melvin A. Traylor. Referring to the criticism of the Paris peace treaty in Mr. Keynes book, "The Economic Consequences of Peace," which brought him world fame, Mr. Traylor said that it had proved tragically accurate in its prediction.

The Englishman was not doing any prophesying yesterday. He said he did not know what was going to happen now, although he had forseen a deadlock with France, such as has occurred. He declared the President's moratorium was a step in the right direction, but only a step and of little use to the world unless it led to a general revision of the debt question.

"In fact, we all believe in such a next step," he said, without explaining whom he meant by the plural reference.

In cutting the debts in half for five years he said:

"There would be several advantages in such a plan. It really would gain for the world a breathing space. In five years there will be a new situation, of which we can take account; with a one year moratorium we shall have to begin reconsidering the situation long before there is anything new of which to take account.

"Moreover it would be free from a punitive suggestion of total cancellation and it might well contain within it the seeds of a permanent solution."

Mr. Keynes abandoned the address which he had intended to deliver, on the subject of the background of the depression and the road to recovery, in order to discuss the situation of today, which he said, had reached its most interesting moment.

Expected Deadlock.

"This morning's news," he said, "confirms what was perhaps obvious from the beginning, that it is not all plain sailing. From the outset of the negotiations I have been ready to predict that the stage of apparent deadlock now reached would have to come some time. But at this point, unluckily, my powers of prophecy give out. I am not prepared to predict the further outcome.

"One's first impulse was to rejoice so genuinely at your President's move as not to criticize or inquire; whatever the outcome may be this feeling will persist. For the American President to step down and talk reparations with the European governments is an enormous step forward. It had to happen some day and we must rejoice, and continue to rejoice, that the day has come.

"Let us begin by trying to do justice to the French point of view. Relative to her financial strength, France is asked to make a larger concession than the United States. It is easy for Great Britain to agree. France is being asked to acquiesce in an act of considerable generosity, on the peril, if she refuses, of isolation in world opinion.

"For some time past the underlying idea of French policy toward reparations has been the vital distinction between the conditional payments under the Young plan and the unconditional payments. For some time she has contemplated, I imagine, that by an act of American generosity, or in some other way, the conditional payments would be cleared out of the way and the permanent solution would consist of payment of the unconditional sums by Germany, which would probably be well within her capacity, the greater part of which would accrue to France.

"But Mr. Hoover's plan strikes right across this; and yet it does not point the way to any final solution. Has the President a perfectly clear idea in his own mind as to what his next step is to be? No one knows. Or, rather, I don't know. Does he really think that after one year Germany will resume payments and will be ready to go forward with the Young plan unrevised? If he believes this he believes, to put it mildly, what is exceedingly improbable.

"Why, year after year, should we be forever condemned on this subject of reparations to silence and to pretense?

"At the same time it may well be that public opinion in this country is not yet ripe for the final step and that it is real political wisdom on the part of the President to propose at this stage some kind of a stop-gap arrangement to hold the immediate situation.

Movement Toward Sanity.

"It is now 12 years almost to a day when, in somewhat a frenzy of mind, I began writing the first pages of 'The Economic Consequences of Peace.' I thought then, as I think now, that there was good reason—good reason in an extraordinary degree—to feel a mingled indignation, mingled because it was directed against what was stupid and what was wrong. Mr. Hoover was there in Paris in those days and I believe he was not far off in sharing those sentiments of mine. I cannot believe that he and I think very differently about these things now, at the bottom of our hearts.

"In these twelve years there has been, it is true, a continual progressive movement toward sense and decency.

"It is no longer a question of Germany's capacity to pay. It is a question of her state of mind, of what she will choose to endure. Mr. Hoover, in spite of all that I have found to criticize, has taken a vital first step. One catches a glimpse of the Hoover of former days. Let him be large minded and with imagination in planning his future course."

Lowered Prices to Result in Cut in Federal Budget

Washington, D. C., June 30.—[Special.]—Estimates showing the savings which the heads of the various government departments expect to effect during the next fiscal year as a result of the lowered cost of living have been transmitted to the office of the budget director, it became known today. Although Col. J. C. Roop, budget director, declined to make an estimate of the total savings that will be made as a result of a drop in commodity prices since the annual appropriations were passed, it is reported this sum may run as high as from $30,000,000 to $40,000,000.

The order calling for submission of the estimates was issued after President Hoover had called the attention of cabinet officers some months ago to reduced commodity prices and directed that steps be taken to take advantage of lowered costs. Within the last few days Col. Roop has discussed the situation regarding economics flowing from the reduced cost of living with the budget officers of the various departments.

It became known today that the army and navy expects to turn back from $10,000,000 to $20,000,000 in economies effected as a result of lowered commodity prices. Army officials have reported that the lowered cost of food will make it possible to cut the cost of the army ration at least 10 per cent.

War department officials sent out directions last week ordering a 20 per cent cut in the cost of subsistence for students attending the C. M. T. C. and R. O. T. C. camps this coming summer. A 10 per cent cut for the National Guard summer camp ration already has been ordered. Savings effected in purchasing the regular army doughboy rations have run about 10 per cent, it was said.

Within the last few weeks budget officials have made a check-up of all expenditures made by the various executive departments to make certain that funds saved through lowered living costs will not be diverted to other purposes. Indications are that a final check will show that most of the economies effected by President Hoover during the 1932 fiscal year, estimated at 180 millions, were due to the reduction in commodity prices.

U. S. Ends Fiscal Year with First Deficit Since 1919

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 30.—[Special.]—The government concluded its 1931 fiscal year today with its first deficit since 1919. Although exact figures will not be available before late tomorrow, it was indicated tonight that the deficit will be just below $900,000,000. Expenditures for the year will be largest in years totaling in the neighborhood of four billion, two hundred million dollars.

Total Public Debt Higher.

The outstanding debt June 27, the last day for which official figures were available, amounted to approximately $16,796,000,000, compared with $16,185,309,000 at the close of the 1930 fiscal year. With but two more days of the fiscal year to be considered, it is unlikely there will be any great change in this figure before the end of the fiscal year. The average interest rate on the public debt was 3.50 per cent, compared with 3.50 per cent for July 1, 1930.

Large Relief Expenditures.

Large expenditures for soldiers' bonus loans, agricultural operations by the farm board and relief work were partly responsible for the unusually large governmental expenditures.

The treasury daily statement for June 27 showed a deficit on that date of $567,900,000. Expenditures up to that date were $4,170,111,765, compared with a total estimated expenditure for the year of $4,335,000,000. Treasury officials expressed the opinion that the actual expenditures for the year would be more than $100,000,000 below the estimate made by President Hoover two months ago.

A cash balance of about 500 million dollars would be available for debt reduction, but officials indicated that most of this would be carried over to the 1932 fiscal year because of heavy financial requirements.

Public debt operations through the year, and especially since March 1, have been marked by a steady increase in the debt and a corresponding decrease in the rate of interest.

'SERVE YOURSELF' TRAFFIC LAW GETS NEW YORK TRIAL

Violator Can Pay at Once and High Hat Judge.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 30.—[Special.]—This city has adopted the cafeteria or "serve yourself" system of handling traffic violations and after the motorist has convinced himself he has lost the argument with the motorcycle policeman he can pay the lieutenant and high hat the magistrate.

Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney told about the new scheme today. The only hitch, so far as the motorist is concerned, is that the argument ends at the roadside. Of course, if the speeder or red light dodger desires, he can tell it to a judge.

"Speeders caught within the city limits," Commissioner Mulrooney said, "can pay their fines to the nearest police lieutenant immediately after they are 'caught' or they can accept the usual summons. It is entirely up to them so long as there are no complications."

How It Works.

Beginning tomorrow, when the man behind the steering wheel tires of listening to the harsh words of the policeman who whistled him down, he can wave his hand and say, "Let's go."

The policeman will escort the driver to the nearest police station. There he can accept the summons and if he is ready to admit that the man on the motorcycle was right and he was wrong he can sign an affidavit to that effect and pay off then and there.

The affidavit will be forwarded to the proper traffic court and that will be the end of the incident unless it develops the motorist has a bad record. The old system of telling your tale to the judge and then having the policeman match it with a much better yarn will not be resorted to unless the motorist insists.

Saves Time for All Hands.

The commissioner pointed out that the new plan had several advantages. It permits motorists to pay for their misdeeds without losing time from work as happens when they have to spend a morning or sometimes an entire day waiting their turn in a crowded courtroom.

Most traffic offenders, no matter what their private opinions may be, are usually ready to admit the transgression and close the incident. The new system will bring more convictions, the commissioner believes, than if the cases were left to the court.

It also will permit more traffic policemen to remain on active duty instead of passing the day sitting around court until their particular case comes up. It will speed up the court calendar—may make the policeman quite generous in the distribution of his tickets.

Pilot "Shows Off" Over Auto; Kills 2, Hurts 2

CHATEAUROUX, France, June 30.—(AP)—Sergt. Herve Martin, dare devil military aviator, will be court martialed for his responsibility in the accidental killing of two persons and injuries to two others. He was flying low above an automobile yesterday when the under carriage of the plane struck the occupants, decapitating one of them. He was said to have admitted afterwards that he was showing off for the benefit of a student pilot with him.

Loop Gets More Automobiles as Parking Spaces Increase

BY HAL FOUST.

Chicagoans, more than ever before, are using their private automobiles rather than taxicabs or street cars for transportation within the city, especially in going to and from the loop. Leslie Sorenson, city traffic expert, yesterday gave as an explanation for this trend the development in parking facilities within the business district.

LESLIE SORENSON.

The Chicago Surface Lines reported that during May of this year 119,614,655 persons boarded street cars in Chicago with cash fares, transfers, or passes. During May of 1929 this figure was 139,765,989. This represents a decrease in two years of more than 13 per cent.

The vehicle bureau has licensed 4,510 taxicabs in Chicago so far this year. On June 30, 1929, there were 5,289 taxicabs with 1929 licenses. This is a decrease of almost 15 per cent.

More Autos Enter Loop.

A traffic count by the police a month ago showed an increase of 15 per cent in the number of passenger vehicles entering the business district as compared with two years ago. The figures were 101,831 vehicles entering or leaving the downtown area between 7 a. m. and 7 p. m., as compared with 88,489 during the boom days of 1929.

"More owners are driving their cars to the loop rather than taking a street car or a taxicab," said Mr. Sorenson, "because there are more convenient places to park, more garages and more parking lots. The storage capacity of lots and garages in the central district was increased 52 per cent from 1927 to 1930. Since the city's survey last year there has been a further increase in the number of parking lots downtown."

Aid Sale of Cars.

Al Fashy, general manager of the Chicago Automobile Trade association, declared that the improved parking facilities were a strong influence in keeping up the sales of new cars in this area. Sales have dropped from the boom times, he added, but not as much as they probably would have fallen had not the values of automobile ownership been raised.

The growth in parking facilities started three years ago when curb parking was banned in the business district. When the parking restrictions were enforced garage and parking lots began to spring up. The streets were cleared for moving traffic. Fifteen garages were built in two years. The number of parking lots increased from thirty-four to sixty-four. And now a survey shows that the number of private cars entering the business district is increasing, while street cars and taxicabs have suffered a loss in patronage.

FAMILY POISONED BY FOOD.

Sibley, Ia., June 30.—[Special.]—Millard Joul, farmer near Rushmore, Minn., 12 miles north of here, is in a Sibley hospital in serious condition with ptomaine poisoning. Three other members of the family were treated at the hospital and are out of danger. Meat cooked Sunday and served for the noon day meal Monday is blamed.

ALCOCK MOVES 22 FROM BUREAU IN DAY OF CHANGES

Puts 118 on Patrol Duty in Another Order.

A minor shakeup in the personnel of the detective bureau was effected last night by a transfer order from Commissioner Alcock, sending a lieutenant, nine sergeants and twelve patrolmen from the bureau to outlying stations. Five sergeants and five patrolmen were transferred from other stations to the bureau.

Another order sent four members of the street detective force, two of them veteran lieutenants, to squad duty. A third order, issued earlier in the day, took 118 lockup keepers and members of patrol wagon crews away from their cool assignments and put them on street patrols. These places will not be filled.

Lieut. Barry Asks Transfer.

Lieut. Andrew Barry was transferred, at his own request, from the detective bureau to Woodlawn station. Lieut. John Cartan, a member of the street detective force who for years has been assigned to watch hotels, was sent out in command of a squad. Like assignments were given Lieut. Frank Johnson and Sergt. Andrew Aiken, long in charge of confidence game investigations. Patrolman Roy Van Herik, who arrested a number of hoodlums during the vagrancy drive against public enemies, was assigned to a squad.

Four desk sergeants were transferred from the bureau, following charges that professional bondsmen were being permitted to ply their trade there, in defiance of department regulations. The sergeants and the stations to which they were assigned are: Richard J. Kearns, Town Hall; Harvey Guynn, Summerdale; Michael Lyng, Gresham; and William O'Brien, Central.

Lockup Keeper Transferred.

Sergt. Daniel Geary, who had been lockup keeper at the bureau for twelve years, was sent to the Gresham station. Sergts. Albert E. Jenner and Michael McFadden, squad leaders, were sent to Brighton Park and Burnside, respectively. Sergt. Roumaine Goudie was sent to Rogers Park and Sergt. William O'Neill to Grand Crossing.

New desk sergeants at the bureau will be Daniel McCarney, Cornelius Desmond, Thomas J. McDonald, Henry A. Steinle, and William H. Kelly.

Yarrow's Appeal Ready; Expects Release Saturday

The Rev. Philip Yarrow, president of the Illinois Vigilance association, who is held at the county jail for failure to pay a $5,000 judgment for malicious prosecution to a bookseller who was prosecuted on a charge of selling obscene literature, said yesterday that an appeal of the judgment was ready for filing in the Appellate court. He said his bond of $6,000 had been raised by friends and that he expected to be free by Saturday.

POLICE APOLLOS TO HELP TOURISTS LEARN NEW YORK

New York, June 30.—[Special.]—The appearance of Mid-Manhattan is to be improved Monday by the addition of eighty patrolmen, all rookies, all tall and many of them handsome. From 8 o'clock each morning until 5 o'clock each evening they will stroll the streets between 34th and 60th streets and between Lexington and 6th avenues, their business: to look well and answer questions.

"The section of the city which will be in their particular charge," said Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney today, "is the wealthiest and most congested part of New York and the center of business and amusement activities. It is the part of the city in which New York's visitors, who average a million a day, spend the major portion of their time and get their impressions of the metropolis."

The eighty probationers have been selected for their gentle speech and kindly manners. They have just graduated from the police academy. There will remain the old timers waving autos to and fro on the corners and the usual number of others swinging along in the evening to see that all doors are closed. These old hands can better carry out their established duties, said the commissioner, with the handsome rookies to tell strangers how high the Empire State building is, anyway.

HOOVER ANXIOUS TO HELP SETTLE MINING INDUSTRY

Calls for Information on Conditions.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 30.—[Special.]—President Hoover today asked Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont and Secretary of Labor William N. Doak to advise him as to the manner in which the administration might "contribute helpfully" to the betterment of conditions existing in the coal mining industry.

JOHN LEWIS.

The President's action was prompted by a telegraphic request from John L. Lewis of Indianapolis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, that a conference of coal operators and miners be convened by the government.

In his reply today to Mr. Lewis, the President declared the "administration is desirous of lending every possible assistance to any constructive program put forward by operators and miners."

"The many intricate economic problems and competitive conditions existing in a majority of the bituminous coal mining districts of our country are of general knowledge," he continued, "and it is realized that the difficulties of the industry have been the subject of exhaustive investigation and study by federal and state agencies and commissions, undertaken with the object of aiding those connected, and interested in, this basic industry."

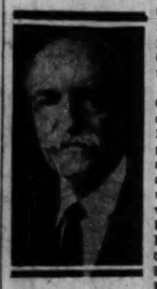
PENNSYLVANIA COAL AND IRON POLICE EXTINCT

Pinchot Puts an End to the Force.

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 30.—[Special.]—The coal and iron policemen, storm centers of industrial warfare in Pennsylvania for years, will cease to exist after midnight tonight.



GOV. PINCHOT. [A. P. Photo.]

By order of Gov. Gifford Pinchot more than 1,000 commissions granted by the state will expire, although the act under which they were granted—known since 1929 by the name of the industrial police act—will still be a statute. A bill to change the system died when house and senate conferees, at loggerheads on the bill's provisions, could not agree on a compromise.

Coal companies in the four counties of the district employ only about 100 industrial police. These may be sworn in as deputy sheriffs while the strike continues. The H. C. Frick coal company in Fayette county, already has its 61 men sworn in as deputy sheriffs.

"Good riddance to bad rubbish," Gov. Pinchot commented today. "The coal and iron police, while it has had many good men on its roll, also has had many unmitigated scoundrels."

Nearly 600 commissions are held in Allegheny, Washington, Fayette, and Westmoreland county. More than 400 are in Allegheny county.

The cancellation of the commissions by the governor is in accordance with a preelection pledge.

Alleged evils of the industrial police system were aired at length during recent session of the legislature, but bills to change the system died when house and senate conferees, at loggerheads on the bills' provisions, could not agree on a compromise.

The coal and iron police system developed from the railroad police, created in 1865.

The following year the legislature amended this act and created the coal and iron police. In 1881, when special police were commissioned for fishing associations, the law was further amended to provide police for charitable associations, and in 1887 for special officers to prevent cruelty.

ENGINEER DENIES SEAWAY PERILED BY POWER CANAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., June 30.—Kenneth M. Cameron, works department engineer, appeared before the Beauharnois probe today and denied previous testimony by Duncan W. McLachlan, chairman of the Canadian section of the international joint board of engineers that the $100,000,000 Beauharnois power canal was endangering the international seaways of the future. Mr. Cameron said the whole flow of the St. Lawrence could safely be diverted and he had no fear of cross currents which McLachlan testified would hamper navigation. Cameron was one of four government engineers responsible for approval given Beauharnois works now under investigation.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE GOVERNOR'S CONFERENCE.

The governor's conference on revenue meets today to consider a situation whose seriousness even now is not generally appreciated.

Ten years ago THE TRIBUNE called attention to the fact that the city was heading straight for bankruptcy. The answer was a $10,000,000 suit filed in the name of the city, alleging that the facts as stated were not true and that the credit of the city had been damaged by THE TRIBUNE'S assertions. THE TRIBUNE won that suit. The local governments managed to stave off the appearance, if not the fact, of insolvency for a number of years through successive tax increases and the concealment in one form or another of the accumulating deficits.

Now in many of the local governments even the appearances of solvency are gone. Cook county has defaulted on the payment of $1,451,000 o principal and $417,400 of interest, a total of $1,868,400, within the month and has been rescued from the disgrace and calamity of repudiation only through the public spirit of the principal bankers of Chicago, who have advanced the money to pay off the bonds. Even so, the credit of Cook county has been grievously impaired. When the county sought to sell a million dollars of its bonds the other day there was only one bidder and he demanded 7½ per cent interest in contrast to the usual 3½ or 4 per cent on municipal issues.

In all, the local governments have some $20,000,000 in bonds falling due in the near future and it is more than a little doubtful whether all or nearly all of the money to pay them is going to be found.

The school teachers of Chicago have not been paid since April 15 and there is no cash in sight with which to pay them. The city and county pay rolls are being met with difficulty and enforced vacations of all employés are being ordered.

Further than that, there are thousands of taxpayers who cannot pay the bills sent them. Next year's bills are to be even higher, which probably means that less rather than more money will be collected when the bills go out.

It is such a situation which the conference is facing. The easy course would be to gloss over the difficulties as has been done now, year after year, for a decade and more. But it is too late for that. It is also too late to hope that the financial affairs of the governments will somehow straighten themselves out. Simple arithmetic proves that they will not. If measures of cure are not devised and put into operation promptly, it must be assumed that before many months have passed many of the essential services of government will be suspended.

No successful cure can be devised which does not take into account the causes which have created the existing situation. These are extremely simple. The government revenues have been spent wastefully and corruptly for the benefit of politicians and their friends. The consequence is that taxes are now so high that they are beyond the means of many of the taxpayers.

Plainly, one thing that the conference can do is to delegate the task of examining the affairs of the various governments to thoroughly responsible and incorruptible men who will be charged with the duty of discovering what services are indispensable and what they ought to cost. When those facts are known the conference can recommend that all other expenses be eliminated. Mayor Cermak has shown a commendable willingness to cooperate in surveys of this sort. The other governments must be forced into line, if necessary.

Meanwhile the conference can recommend legislation for a reduction in the tax rate. At present each of the governments, city, school, county, parks and the state, has its own rate which, together, constitute the tax rate. The average 1929 rate in Chicago was 2.27 per cent of the full value of property. The 1930 rate is 2.58 per cent. The rate for '31, as now established, will be even higher. If the legislature should decree that 1.5 or 1.75 per cent of full value, for example, shall be the maximum which may be collected against any property, taxes will automatically come down, while the percentage of collections may well improve considerably. Legislation of this sort should be accompanied, needless to say, by measures which will restrict the payments of the local governments to conform to their reduced incomes. Incidentally, a definite limitation and reduction of tax rates can go a long way toward reviving the market for real estate, now depressed in part at least because of high and uncertain taxes.

The conference will waste its time if it seeks to find new sources of taxation. The trouble is that taxes are already too high and new taxes can only mean higher taxes. Taxes must come down and expenses must come down even farther to permit the deficits to be absorbed. Upon that basis the revenue problem, as the governor calls it, can be solved.

REAL AGENTS OF PROSPERITY.

From the beginning of the business depression THE TRIBUNE has preached the doctrine of recovery through progressive enterprise. In other words, we have believed business would be restored largely through new methods, new inventions, new improvements, new commodities. THE TRIBUNE itself illustrated what it argued and practiced what it preached by taking the lead in the introduction of color in newspaper advertising. This new resource of advertising appeal is gaining ground steadily. It is of value directly as an aid to merchandising. It also increases employment directly and indirectly. As Scrutator points out in his article on color printing in Tuesday's TRIBUNE, "Each time a color page is printed by THE TRIBUNE one more press unit is used and one man is added to the crew." This amounts to nine men per run. But this new use of color also means more color presses and more men to build them, transport them and care for them. This means a partial conquest of unemployment.

Depression hasn't paralyzed the automobile industry, which is fertile in ideas and always improving its product. Every season there are more reasons for buying automobiles, and new devices to be manufactured. The electric industry is another field of resourceful activity. The use of electricity is being rapidly extended into new territory, in the home, on the farm, in the utilities. This means new business, new wealth for the people. It is an important part of the march back to prosperity. The Pennsylvania railroad has a resourceful management which refuses to be checked by obstructions or depressions. It is pushing electrification. It is expanding its transport services into the new fields of competition of which we hear so much complaint from railroad men, making use of buses and trucks as auxiliaries. The Pullman company has recently put into service a new type of sleeper which has proved popular and has been actively experimenting with air cooling equipment for passenger coaches. The radio industry, the motion picture, aviation, all are energized and moving forward. These are the agencies of business recovery rather than doles or even the spending of public money on public works.

The initiative, the resourcefulness, the daring and energy of the American people as individuals developed American prosperity and they will restore it.

THE PAROLE BOARD.

The reappointment of W. C. Jones as chairman of the pardon board and of the nine other members of the board will have the approval of every one interested in the honest and sensible administration of the parole law. The board has a more difficult task than the public realizes, and in the past some very serious mistakes have been made, in some cases we believe through grossly improper influence. There is always pressure from sentimentalists and frequently from politics which is not sentimental at all. The board has to weigh conflicting evidence and to consider highly speculative prospects of future behavior. At best it may err in any case and the result may be tragic. What society has a right to ask is that doubts shall be resolved in favor of the law abiding and not the criminal, especially where the petitioner for release has shown a disposition to violence. Mr. Jones and the present board, it has seemed to us, are impressed with their responsibility for preventing the parole from being abused, and their service has been one of the most creditable features of Gov. Emmerson's administration.

THE COATS ON THE COPPERS.

The Lincoln park police on the hot job of traffic direction have been allowed to shed their coats and take their duty in blouses. The city police in the same hot spot have been held to the rigor of coats and caps. To a man standing post in the middle of a street intersection the weather bureau temperature readings at the University of Chicago are charming fairy stories. His Fahrenheit is something fifteen or twenty degrees hotter. A Spartan discipline may think it necessary for him to stand and take it, but it misses its point. He is not the better copper for this unnecessary punishment. Body, mind, and soul, he's the worse for it. He does not appear as a snappy John Law, but as a boiled and exasperated victim of society with a justified grouch on the human race. The citizenship will get sympathetic prostration looking at him. A uniform blouse is not abhorrent to discipline. Why burn the coppers at the stake?

Editorial of the Day

MR. STIMSON SUBMITS THE FIGURES.

[Minneapolis Tribune.]

Secretary Stimson no doubt sets a good example when he forwards to the league of nations full data on the military and naval strength of the United States in anticipation of the general disarmament conference which will be held at Geneva early next year. In a formal note to the league Mr. Stimson expresses the hope that "other nations may thus be encouraged to lay their figures before the public without delay" and requests that the data he submits relative to the American forces be made public and distributed among the other powers.

There is something outspoken, ingenuous, and sincere about this note which savors little of the sharp diplomatic practices the world has associated, and in the not so very distant past, with international negotiations of the sort. Secretary Stimson plainly does not intend that the United States shall sit in at the Geneva conference with any statistical data up its sleeves, and he would like to see adopted, by all the participating nations, a policy of full and early publicising of all the essential facts of armament. Unfortunately, however, the obtaining and broadcasting of these facts constitute a problem relatively simple when compared with the problem of deciding just what meaning and interpretation should be given in conference to these same facts. Only those who have followed naval experts as they take a given set of facts and wind deviously through them to entirely different and highly technical conclusions can understand the difficulties which are faced almost at the outset of any disarmament conference. What to the layman appears to be the simple arithmetic of tonnages, classifications, guns, etc., can become, as the experts plead their separate cases, a sort of armament calculus far too involved for a ordinary mortal to begin to comprehend.

More important then than Mr. Stimson's facts would seem to be some invariable and mutually agreeable standard of comparing them. But it is just as well, since facts are an essential ingredient to conference success, that they be given the early airing the American secretary of state desires. Certainly nothing can be lost, and very much might be gained, by an intelligent, informal approach to Geneva.

PERSPIRATION AS A COOLING MEASURE.

If a person is working in hot weather he gets a great amount of heat, and about the only way of getting rid of it is by sweating. He cannot lose much of the excess if the air of the atmospheric temperature is 98 or within 15 degrees thereof. He cannot lose it to the ground he stands on, or the solid objects he touches, or to his shoes, coat or trousers if these objects are about as warm as he is.

The amount he can lose to the air or to objects he touches because of wind movement or air currents is considerable if the air is cool. But when the heat of the air passes 95, from that time on winds, currents and fan action do more harm than good. A cool wind is pleasant, but a hot wind!

Perspiration is the salvation of the workingman when the air becomes hot. As perspiration evaporates it picks up heat from the skin and in that way cools the body. The sweat glands are working all the time. They even do some work in cold weather. As the water pours from the mouth of the ducts on to the skin it evaporates.

If the outpouring is moderate in amount and the air is dry and moderately warm, evaporation is rapid enough to lick up all the liquid that flows out and as it flows. In these circumstances we say that perspiration is insensible. It does not accumulate in drops nor can wetting of the skin be detected by ordinary methods. When there is an excess and the skin feels wet, or when drops of perspiration accumulate, we say perspiration is appreciable. As a matter of fact, the cooling effect of insensible perspiration nearly equals that of perspiration which is perceptible.

Perspiration which stands in beads on the brow or which wets the hands is a total loss in so far as it is not evaporated. That which drops on the ground or which is picked up by the pocket handkerchief does not help to cool. In truth, that which makes the garments sopping wet is liable to interfere with the cooling process to some extent. For instance, a sopping wet undershirt that has its pores full of water and that sticks to the body may prevent cooling or keeping air currents from reaching the skin. The stoker recognizes this and works without any shirt.

In the recently held International Golden Gloves contests the American boys who wore no shirts had the advantage of the French boys who wore a shirt like that of a bathing suit.

What gets the perspiring man into trouble is humid air. When the humidity passes ninety he is in trouble. On the other hand, men can work hard in the hot, dry air of Arizona, New Mexico and the Rocky mountain region without feeling the heat much.

NO HARM IS DONE.

B. M. writes: I drink three glasses of water about an hour after breakfast, followed by a daily dozen, and repeat the same thing before going to bed at night. I feel fine after it and seem to have more pep, but my mother claims drinking three glasses of water in succession is not good for me. What harm is there connected with it?

REPLY.

None.

SLEEPINESS.

M. E. H. writes:

1. I am greatly troubled with sleepiness during the day. I have many hours of good sleep at night. Is this torturing drowsiness caused by some poison in the system?
2. Would Raynaud's disease cause it?

REPLY.

1. It may be the result of lack of exercise, work, and purpose in life. It may be due to deficiency in thyroid secretion.
2. No.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

Letters to this department must be signed with names and addresses of writers.

Chicago, June 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I bought a home under contract, the payment being $500 down and $45 per month, which included interest. I paid the $500 and three monthly payments, but was unable to keep up the paymenis. Am now in arrears for ten months, and the owner sued me for $500. The case was called on June 11 and the court ruled I must pay $15 as rent money to July 11, and vacate by that time and turn the property over to the owner. I heard the proper steps were not taken, as the owner should have sued for possession by foreclosure, instead of suing for money. J. P.

We would agree that a judgment for possession would not be proper on a suit brought to enforce the contract by collecting the agreed purchase price, but it seems possible that you may have misunderstood what they were suing for. We cannot advise to advantage without having the court pleadings before us.

If the buyer has merely a contract then the seller could forfeit it for default without allowing the fifteen month redemption period which is allowed in case of foreclosure of a mortgage.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

A ROOMER'S TROUBLES.

Chicago, June 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have been rooming with my cousin and he paid my share of the rent. As some of our roommates were behind $18 we left, and the landlord held my clothes. How can I get my clothes? Should I ask aid from the police? 2. Have been out of work four and a half months. R. C.

If you joined with other persons in renting the room, then the landlord is probably entitled to hold you for the entire rent, leaving you to enforce contribution against the other parties. The landlord is not entitled to hold your belongings without court proceedings, but if you started such proceedings he could also start proceedings to authorize the retention. We cannot advise to advantage without knowing your facts more specifically.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

NOT LEGAL HEIR.

Chicago, June 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is a boy, taken out of an orphanage, but not legally adopted, considered a man's son, after fifteen years of care? 2. Would the boy share in the estate in the absence of a will? 3. Would he receive the same rights as the man's own son? 4. If said man marries a woman having a child by a former marriage, would the daughter share equal rights to the man's estate? S. F.

1. No, as far as inheritance is concerned.
2. No.
3. See 1 and 2.
4. No. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

AND IF WE WIN we lose. Comes Senator Reed Smoot and sense that even if Mr. Hoover's debt holiday goes over and Old Man Prosperity is snaked from behind that corner by his hind legs and compelled to do his stuff then that automatically creates a loss in the U. S. treasury of $250,000,000 (two hundred and fifty million bucks) that will be made up in the usual manner. And the usual manner, class, is how? By increasing our taxes! Right. But the taxes are already heavier than we think we can bear. Wait! Prosperity, maybe you'd better stay back behind that corner after all.

"REPUBLICANS CARRY ELECTION IN SPAIN."—New York Times. Well, maybe they can carry the election in Spain, but if that moratorium thing falls down they'll carry no election over here in the U. S. A. Not even for keeper of the dog pound or assistant collector of waste paper in the Fourteenth ward. Or maybe, even if it doesn't.

"FINDING THE PERSONAL WEAKNESS of your adversary," says the Trib's Paris reporter, "is the cardinal principle of European diplomacy. The French tried out Mellon yesterday with wine, food, horses, flattery, and beautiful women, but the immediate results were not very satisfactory—to France." Certainly not. Uncle Andy is too old a bird to fall for wine, food, horses, flattery, or beautiful women. France, you should have talked about aluminum if you wanted to see Uncle Andy's eyes brighten and a face wreath in delighted smiles. Aluminum, that's his weakness now.

DESTINY.

She shuffled the cards, and she laid them down,—
The wrinkled old crone from gypsy town—
And she leered, and said, "Today you will ride,
And Death is galloping by your side."
And I answered, "I do not ride today.
Shuffle the cards, and see what they say."
So she shuffled the cards. And she said, "I see
A tryst in the forest beneath the old tree.
And you stroll laggard to meet your fate;
But your tryst is with Death, and he will wait."
And I answered, "I do not stroll today.
Shuffle again, and see what they say."
So she shuffled again, and she said, once more
"Through the window or through the door
Comes Death. No matter if you should go
Or stay. 'Tis in the cards. They know."
Then I threw the cards to the floor, and cried
"Begone," and pushed the old crone outside,
But she called from the step, "If you go or stay,
It is in the cards. You will die today.
You may stroll or ride by vale or hill,
But Death can find you whenever he will.
And you cannot hide, and you need not weep.

AN ANSWER to the question, "I Wonder What They're Like at Home," is furnished in the case of the w. k. cartoonist and comical picture maker, Mr. Peter Arno. Mrs. Arno in her suit for divorce says that Peter would drag her out from parties if she danced with men of whom he didn't approve and would then wrangle with her until three or four o'clock in the morning. On one occasion when she was dining in a restaurant with a gentleman friend Mr. Arno dragged her forth and slapped her in the face. But it may have been some of these occasions that gave Mr. Arno the inspiration for a lot of his most side splitting pictures. That art is greatest which is closest to nature. Perhaps, Laura, you had best tie the can to your artist boy friend and marry the bootlegger.

DOWN IN SMART, sophisticated New York more than thirty school teachers, private tutors, high school students, and college undergraduates sat around on or near their luggage all day Monday at 42d street and Broadway. They were waiting the arrival of two de luxe buses which were to take them to a dude ranch in Wyoming for a 50 day vacation. A smooth spoken slicker had talked the dude ranch idea to the eager group and taken their money in advance. He hasn't arrived yet, nor have the buses, and at last account some of the vacationists were still waiting on the corner of 42d street and Broadway.

IT USED TO BE the reubens and the hicks from the country that the city slickers snared, but times have changed, and now it is the city dwellers, and especially the intelligent, educated city dwellers, that fall the easiest and the hardest. Those hardy lads, Post and Gatty, are flying around the world in less than ten days. But humans don't seem to be very much smarter than when Columbus was considered insane because he said the world was round.

GAYETY.

I do not like old memories,
I hate the smell of musk,
And every now and then I weep
When there's a rainy dusk.

I like clowns and carnivals,
Jazz and lollipops,
A ferris wheel that goes around,
And never, never stops.

I have learned just why it is
Silly people play,
Mirth's an antedote for pain. . . .
I like circus day.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 1, 1915.

LONDON.—The Dominion freight liner Armenian was sunk by the German submarine U-33 off Cornwall, England. Twenty Americans are reported missing. They were in charge of the 1,422 mules which the Armenian was carrying from Newport News to England for use by the British army. In all 29 lives were lost and ten others of the crew were injured.

LONDON.—A British official statement dealing with the operations in the Dardanelles announces that two lines of Turkish trenches have been captured to the east of Saghir Dere and three lines have been stormed to the west of that place. The capture of Kritchia is expected in the near future, according to an Athens report.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—Attending physicians believe Archbishop Quigley will live through the night. The prelate rallied somewhat, but it was believed the end was near. Chancellor Edward F. Hoban of Chicago sent a message to the Very Rev. M. J. Fitzsimmons, also of Chicago, giving the archbishop's condition as generally improved, but physicians are not prepared to hope for his recovery. Anthony Czarnecki of Chicago, a close friend of the archbishop, was a caller.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 1, 1901.

CHICAGO.—Preliminary skirmishing of the annual Fourth of July celebration is in progress, and physicians and hospitals are preparing to care for the wounded and dying. The casualties of the event usually exceed those of a small battle. The record last year was 72 killed and 2,791 injured. Of the killed, twenty-two lived in Chicago and of the injured seventy-five.

CHICAGO.—Yesterday was the hottest day of the year, the thermometer registering 97 degrees on the Auditorium tower. Many prostrations were reported. The only hotter June day recorded in Chicago was in 1872. On June 19 of that year the temperature was 98 degrees. The heat yesterday extended all over the central and eastern states. In Pittsburgh eleven persons died and in New York more than a dozen.

LONDON.—Mrs. Matthew Arnold, widow of the British poet, critic, and "apostle of culture," is dead.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Today the last of the magnificent volunteer army of the United States was mustered out of service and the majority of the 35,000 officers and men of that organization returned to civil life. Enlistment of these volunteers began under Secretary of War Alger on July 19, 1898, and was completed under Secretary Root.

SAN FRANCISCO.—Maj. Gen. W. R. Shafter retired at noon today and formally took his leave of the army, never to wear a uniform again. He retired as major general of volunteers, his retirement from the regular army taking place some time ago.

JULY 1, 1881.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Gen. Raum, commissioner of internal revenue, made an exceedingly close estimate of the reports from internal revenue sources for the present fiscal year. His estimate at the beginning of the year was $135,000,000. When the books were closed today, they lacked but about $100,000 of the $135,000,000, and if the back taxes decided to be due from the Canadian banks in Chicago had been paid, the receipts would have been greater than the estimates.

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—Judge Jackson of the Circuit court here has just decided a case of more than ordinary interest. The judge takes ground that a state cannot pass laws stopping railroads from running on Sundays, as such action would interfere with or obstruct the interstate commerce, and no such restriction can be placed upon the traffic of the country.

WHAT A HOUSEWIFE WOULD BUY.

St. Joseph, Mich., June 27.—In my occupation [housewife] I can think of many, many things we have struggled with for years and nobody does anything about it.

There's can covers. Why, oh why, does not some one make a coffee or baking powder can that can be opened without ruining the point of your best paring knife, to say nothing of scattering the contents all over the place trying to get the darned lid off? Why couldn't there be a little lever thing that would pry the top off at the touch of a delicate finger?

Then there's the olive bottle. How many more centuries have we got to go on spilling olive juice on our clothes?

And another thing: Why are kitchen utensils made so big? Just try and get the standard sized pancake turners, egg beaters, etc., to fit into the modern kitchenette and have room left for anything else. A size between the toy ones and the usual size would be swell.

If any one starts making these things I want a cut on the royalties! MRS. D.

THE REV. MR. YARROW'S PLIGHT.

Chicago, June 27.—I was astounded to read the news on the front page today that the Rev. Philip Yarrow was committed to the county jail.

Your readers will remember that it was not as an individual but as the representative of the Illinois Vigilance association he arranged to have a book purchased that he sincerely believed was obscene under any definition of the word, so that he would have necessary evidence to produce in court. Such prosecution is encouraged by law, which gives the complainant the amount of the fine imposed. When, however, the case was decided, the book was judged not obscene within the meaning of the law.

After being cleared the book seller was successful in securing a judgment for $5,000 against Mr. Yarrow as an individual, alleging malicious prosecution. How such a case brought by a reputable organization could be considered malicious and what was the strength of the evidence to prove it is a matter that might be considered by the bar association. The conviction on the count that malice entered into the prosecution allows the book seller to imprison Mr. Yarrow for nonpayment. I believe that this last move will cause the larger jury of fathers and mothers to consider the Rev. Mr. Yarrow a martyr, and raise a host of friends for him.

SAMUEL H. KANE.

FOR MATHEMATICIANS.

Gary, Ind., June 22.—Forty years ago I saw the following problem in the Scientific American:

"In the center of a field stands a pole 20 feet high, 3 feet 6 inches in diameter at the bottom, and 6 inches in diameter at the top. Around the pole from top to bottom is coiled a rope 1 inch in diameter, each coil fitting snugly against each other and at right angles to the pole. A man takes the end of the rope and travels around the pole until it is all unwound. How far does the man travel?"

I have tried this problem for many years but failed to calculate it. Maybe some of the thousands of graduates this year might try it. J. L. F.

MOVING THE LAKE.

Chicago, June 28.—When the heat makes almost unbearable life in the loop these days it makes one wonder why the lake, with its delightful cooling air even when the sun is hottest, was ever pushed away from the downtown district. The few who have a sports field or a sleeping place are little compared with the thousands upon thousands in big office buildings whose work would be much easier; and then, too, with a nice yacht harbor immediately at our door, would any city have such an attraction?

CITIZEN.

ANOTHER AMENDMENT.

Chicago, June 28.—Can't we adopt a constitutional amendment to forbid this hot weather? It would be as enforceable as the 18th and would cost less money.

EDDIE.

POLICEMEN IN HOT WEATHER.

Chicago, June 28.—Why are the Chicago city police officers forced to wear their coats and white gloves while on duty whereas the south and west park police officers are permitted to work without coats or gloves in this extremely hot weather? O. H. GLOVER.

PROSPERITY ADVANCING.

Chicago, June 27.—We have just returned from a three week business trip through the east. The tone is so entirely different and refreshing that it seemed impossible that we could have been in the same part of the world.

Let there be no doubt in the minds of the populace in the country west of Pennsylvania that better conditions are in the immediate future. The east has ceased complaining for the very apparent reason that the wheels of progress are turning and production is going forward.

This is not the report of any board of directors; it is based upon our visit to many factories working not only full time, but in a few cases 24 hours a day. We sat in the office of the president of one of the concerns when he held a telephone conversation with one of his salesmen, in which he instructed him to return to the office at once and not take any more orders.

Another factory, already covering a large area, is entering upon a building program to make provision for the increased business. There can be no doubt that the effects will be felt in the middle west before the end of the summer, and we may as well prepare for it.

C. A. B.

THEY WANT A BEACH.

Chicago, June 22.—The great majority of people are against having any kind of an airport or landing at the foot of Montrose or any other place in the neighborhood of Parkview, Chicago. The noise from the planes, and the danger to bathers and people enjoying and resting themselves in the park would be terrible.

The people do want and need a bathing beach, and would like the commissioners of Lincoln park to fill in the lake about a hundred feet out between Grace and Roscoe streets. This can be done without making it dangerous for boats sailing in and out of Belmont harbor and the new harbor north of Grace street. CHARLES RUDOLPHY,
President Parkview Civic League.

FAMILY BEFORE GRAND JURORS IN FAITHFULL CASE

New York, June 30.—[Special.]—The Nassau county grand jury's investigation into the mysterious drowning three weeks ago of Starr Faithfull entered its final stages today when Stanley E. Faithfull, the stepfather, his wife and Tucker Faithfull appeared at Mineola to explain away some conflicting discrepancies in their first statements.

The only other witness examined today was Erwin J. Smith who runs a private detective agency at 799 Broadway. District Attorney Elvin N. Edwards was informed early in the investigation that Smith appeared to be busily engaged on the Starr Faithfull mystery with seeming design to establish that the young woman drowned herself. The district attorney wants to find out, if possible, if Smith was retained by somebody or if he chiseled into the case for publicity purposes.

PLEA TO HOLD ITS WHEAT REFUSED BY FARM BOARD

Answers Hoover's Call for "Definite Policy."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 30.—[Special.]—Faced with President Hoover's suggestion that it adopt a more definite policy with respect to its wheat holdings, the federal farm board this evening made reply with a statement that was virtually a restatement of its policy announced March 23.

To the demands from Kansas and the southwest that it definitely commit itself to keep its wheat holdings off the market, either for a stated period or under a fixed price level, the board turned a deaf ear.

The farm board agreed to sell no more than 5,000,000 bushels a month, this limit to run on a cumulative basis, unused portions of the quota to be good for succeeding months. But it excepted important contracts with foreign purchasers now under consideration.

Leaves Another Loophole.

And it left a wide back door through which to escape in an emergency by stipulating that if world conditions should change it might change its policy after due notice.

Coming after a flood of rumors that the executive power was using pressure on the board—rumors similar to those heard at the time the Wickersham commission made its prohibition report—the board's statement was considered proof that the pressure, if any, had been ineffectual.

The board's statement was reported ready this afternoon. Then Chairman James C. Stone visited the White House. No sooner had he emerged than it was announced that the statement was not ready.

It was finally give out at 9 o'clock. Mr. Stone said that it had the President's approval.

To the problem of the wheat surplus there is only one answer, and that is acreage reduction, the board declared. Hope was seen for an improved export market in smaller productions in other countries and in the prospect for better world conditions that will be created by the President's debt plan."

The board was now prepared, the statement said, to announce its plan and recommendations in carrying out the policy of March 23.

Declines to Fix Prices.

It refused to commit itself not to sell below any fixed price, pointing out the dangers of such a step.

What it would do, the statement said, was to limit its sales for the next year "to a cumulative maximum of 5,000,000 bushels per month."

"This limitation, however, shall not apply to sales to foreign governments or their agencies now being considered," the board said.

"The sales program will be conducted in such fashion as not to depress the movement in prices. It is not the purpose of the corporation to make any immediate sales, even of those limited amounts, at the present range of prices.

See No Cause for Alarm.

"It is the view of the board that, taking into consideration the world situation, sales of such moderate amounts can be made without interference to the general market."

"It must be understood," the statement went on, "that if the world production should be altered radically, by which the whole surplus could be disposed of, it is in the interest of the farmer that this should be done, but no such policy will be undertaken without ample notice and until the farmers' representatives can be consulted."

TRADE IS ENCOURAGED.

Wheat traders last night were inclined to place a slightly bullish construction on the news that the farm board had agreed, with reservations, to limit the sale of stabilization wheat to a cumulative maximum of 5,000,000 monthly.

Knowing exactly how much old wheat will appear on the market at the same time the new crop is moving, traders will feel more secure in any transaction they may make, it was asserted.

Eight Sentenced to Jail for Rioting at School

A jury in the Municipal court yesterday convicted eight persons of rioting at the Wendell Phillips High school on June 14 when Congressman Oscar DePriest delivered a speech before a meeting of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. The defendants, who were sentenced to six months in jail by Judge Justin F. McCarthy, are: Miss Muria Algeo, 2683 Orchard street; Mrs. Meana Degroot, 1201 East Marquette road, her husband, Charles Degroot; Anna Mae Ward, colored, 4316 Vincennes avenue; Anton Harbin, 3071 North Marshfield avenue; Arthur Williams, colored, 435 Bowen avenue; his brother, Edward, and Squire Brown, colored, 3911 South Dearborn street.

KILLED AS HE MOVES PIANO.

William Crestwell, 64 years old, 516 North Laramie avenue, was killed yesterday when, in moving a piano, he fell and crushed his head against a wall. The accident occurred in the Henry Booth Settlement house, 701 West 14th street.

GRAIN MEN MOVE TO HALT SALE OF SURPLUS WHEAT

Join Farm Leaders in Pleas to U. S. Board.

BY PAUL POTTER.

The announcement last night from Washington that the federal farm board had refused to keep surplus wheat off the market came shortly after grain growers of the west and southwest had joined with farm leaders and members of the Chicago Board of Trade in pleas to the federal board to heed President Hoover's advice against marketing the grain.

Telegrams and resolutions were rushed to Chairman James C. Stone and others of the federal administration in Washington, calling for immediate action in holding all sales of surplus wheat for year.

The tenor of these messages was influenced by a further decline in grain prices on the Chicago Board of Trade as harvesting went on in full force to the south, and Illinois grain stood ready to cut within one week.

In a technical maneuver of the final day for June delivery on the Board of Trade, June wheat prices jumped 8 cents per bushel, forcing many traders "caught short" to take heavy losses. However, wheat, corn, and small grains for July deliveries were 1 to 3 cents lower.

One of the pleas forwarded to the farm board yesterday came from a group of Illinois farmers and officials, headed by Harvey J. Sconce, Siddell, Ill., farmer and agricultural chief of a Century of Progress exposition. The situation was discussed in a conference on June 9 with former Gov. John G. Oglesby, Silas Strawn, Chicago Board of Trade counsel; Stuart Pierson, state director of agriculture; Sconce and others.

Following this meeting, the farm board had been urged by the leaders to declare a one year moratorium on its wheat holdings as the one immediate step favoring relief of farmers.

THIRSTS BRING RECORD SALES OF CITRUS FRUITS

Consumption of citrus fruits, particularly in beverages, set an all time high record in Chicago Monday as heat sufferers sought relief for parched throats. More lemons were sold on Monday than on any day in Chicago's history, according to H. M. Pitt, district manager of the California Fruit Growers' exchange. Last week set a record for sales of lemons, despite rising prices.

Oranges and limes were also included in the heavy buying. The Florida Citrus exchange office in Chicago declared that while its fruit was passing out of season there had been as high as 3,000 six ounce glasses of pure orange juice sold in a single loop drug store. Retail prices on all citrus fruits, because of heavy demand and the in between season of production, have advanced from the lowest prices for years, as recorded this spring, to prices above normal for these products, distributors reported.

Canadian Commons Told Western Farmers Starve

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., June 30.—Federal financial assistance was promised the western wheat growing provinces of Canada by Premier Bennett today after Thomas Donnelly of Saskatchewan had described conditions in that province as involving "starvation." He mentioned municipalities in which 98 per cent of the inhabitants were drawing provincial relief. Mr. Bennett said the conditions painted, if true, amounted to national calamity.

HURT BY FALLING BUILDING.

An old one story brick and frame building at 1612 North Halsted street collapsed yesterday while Patrick Splett, 1635 Clybourn avenue, was in the building gathering wood. Splett was slightly injured.

U. S. PREPARES TO TEST BRITISH ARMS FIGURES

Washington, D. C., June 30.—[Special.]—Studies were ordered by navy and army officials today to test the accuracy of the assertion by Prime Minister MacDonald that Great Britain is the only power which has reduced its naval and military establishments in recent years. Considerable surprise was occasioned in army and navy circles by the MacDonald announcement but no official comment will be forthcoming until a further study of the prime minister's figures has been completed.

The studies will cover the exact total, military and naval expenditures made by the United States and Great Britain since 1922, when the movement towards disarmament began.

Figures also are being prepared to show the comparative costs of maintaining military and naval establishments in Great Britain and the United States. Statistics prepared in former years have disclosed that Great Britain needs to expend only about 65 per cent as much money as the United States to maintain the same size establishment, due to lower living costs and pay in Great Britain.

The cost of building war ships is from 50 to 100 per cent cheaper in Great Britain than in the United States. Considerable mystery existed today as to the character of the figures published by Mr. MacDonald. Doubt existed as to whether the British air establishment costs had been included in the figures given for Britain's army and navy military costs. MacDonald gave the annual naval expenditures for 1930 as 260 millions, compared with 390 millions for the United States.

Wave of Cold Weather Damages Crops in Brazil

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAO PAULO, Brazil, June 30.—Severe cold weather is causing considerable damage to crops in this state. Some regions of the northeast coffee zone have been badly hit.

IF HEAT BOTHERS YOU, BLAME IT ON THE HUMIDITY

The high humidity is blamed by Meteorologist C. A. Donnel for the discomfort caused by the heat during the last week, and yet, Mr. Donnel declares, it is the humidity that keeps Chicago's temperature from going from five to ten degrees higher each day.

This phenomenon is explained by the fact that moist air heats more slowly than dry air. Thus, Mr. Donnel said, if the same conditions obtained here as in western Nebraska, where the relative humidity ranges from 15 to 20 per cent during the afternoon, Chicago's temperatures for June might have reached 105 or 110 degrees.

The average relative humidity for the year here is 74 per cent of saturation, but this is based on the average temperature of 49.1 degrees for the year around. Warm air holds more moisture than cold so that the average humidity must be taken in relation to the temperature.

Chicago's relative humidity is a little above the average for the country because of the proximity of the great lakes, Mr. Donnel said. Even if our daily maximum temperatures were from five to ten degrees higher, he said, there would be greater comfort with a low relative humidity.

Medicine Men Forecast Floods; Indians Flee

HIS EXCELLENCY

Louis L. Emmerson

Governor of the State of Illinois

July 1, 1931.

Your Excellency:

Today the hopes and destinies of four million Chicagoans—and the fate of six billion five hundred million dollars' worth of Cook County real estate and all allied businesses—depend upon the exercise of your judgment and courage in forcing the issue on Cook County's finances.

In the extremely grave crisis which faces Chicago and Cook County you have called an emergency executive meeting for 10:00 A. M. today at the Stevens Hotel. To it you have invited forty-two citizens, including many of our acknowledged leaders in business, banking, publishing, and real estate.

But before this conference opens, while you are enjoying your breakfast, we desire to again remind you of the basic facts in this crisis, which actually is without a parallel in the history of the world. We wish the other forty gentlemen who are to meet with you also to realize these facts beforehand. We also hope every man and woman in Cook County will read this letter—that they may judge fairly and remember always what we do today.

Briefly, the salient facts are these:

The Constitution of Illinois, written in 1870, says that "every person or corporation shall pay a tax in proportion to the value of his or her property." Property, under the law, means not only real estate, but also cash, stocks, bonds, and other forms of wealth. That is the law.

Yet, for years past, real estate—which represents but 25% of the vast wealth of this community—is expected to bear 85% of the total tax burden.

Your Excellency—it cannot—will not be paid!

Taxes were paid—to a large extent—during the boom times from 1920 to 1929—simply because the steadily increasing value of real estate enabled owners to pay or borrow, each year, more and more money to pay these exorbitant taxes, and because in the then active market many taxes were paid from profits resulting from the sales of property.

But it can't be done today. The staggering series of bank failures in Chicago proves it beyond a shadow of a doubt. Real estate in Cook County, worth $10,000,000,000.00 in 1929, has slumped to 63% of its former value. $3,700,000,000.00 in value has vanished utterly. In thousands of instances the present market value of a property does not equal the mortgage on it. Why, then, should the "owner" try to pay his taxes? He has lost his equity, which in many instances represented his life's savings. Why should he pay taxes on what he has lost? So reason thousands of citizens, their depreciated property still taxed on the basis of a peak valuation of over ten billion dollars. Rents have come tumbling, stores and flats are vacant, the market for real estate securities has crashed. Tens of thousands of once valuable properties are now in foreclosure. The bonds on fine Chicago buildings go begging at 50-20-10 cents on the dollar. Owners of real estate must sacrifice their holdings for little or nothing to escape confiscation.

As a result the building industry is stagnated in Cook County. Building was the basis of our prosperity. Lumber and material yards are inactive. Steel mills are idle. Employees of countless allied businesses are out of work; their families face privation. No one can get blood out of a turnip, Governor Emmerson. Of the $219,000,000.00 tax bill for 1928, $51,000,000.00 remains to be collected. Of the $264,000,000.00 tax bill for 1929, $115,000,000.00 remains to be collected. Less than half of this will ever be collected. The rest can't be. The money isn't there. And we solemnly predict to you that of the $284,000,000.00 tax bill for 1930 $150,000,000.00 will never be collected—a staggering total of $316,000,000.00 which government hopes to collect but won't.

What, then, do we propose? This:

1. Fund the accumulated indebtedness of Cook County's governments. Chicago is potentially one of the wealthiest communities in the world. A bond issue bearing 4% interest will be oversubscribed if it is backed by a new, fair, and workable system of taxation. Fund this huge debt and you will put an end to the exorbitant annual interest bill the city is paying for short term borrowings, tax anticipation warrants, and all other costly and wasteful expedients of a government desperate for money and forced to pay any interest, however high, to get it.
2. Then wipe out the cumbersome, antiquated, discriminatory machinery of present day Illinois taxation, and set up in its place an efficient, honest assessing machinery that will tax all wealth on an equal basis—the man with a half-vacant apartment building and the man living in a rented home with a safety deposit box full of gilt edge bonds and stocks.

Do these things and you will not only be dealing fairly with all citizens, but you will put an end to the monstrous orgy of wastefulness, inefficiency, and open-handed graft that has resulted in our absurdly high cost of government. When all citizens pay taxes, public opinion will put a sudden stop to graft and wastefulness. The "boys" will cease to "get theirs." A new era will dawn in Illinois politics. Taxes will tumble amazingly.

What we have stated above are facts. The injustice of present taxation methods is admitted by all business and political leaders. The average citizen, reading this page, may therefore be pardoned for wondering why—if the remedy for our dilemma is so apparent—it hasn't been put into effect months ago. You, Governor Emmerson, know why. Permit us, in this letter to you, to inform the public.

The vested interests and industries of this city don't want to pay their share of the tax—just yet. Why should they? Every day's delay brings profit. Labor, out of work, is being "brought to terms." Properties, going daily under the hammer, are being bought for a fraction of their cost or value. Banks, most of them small, which befriended real estate, are closing their doors by the dozen. Their cash deposits are gravitating to a few fortunate large banks. The "necessity" for the passage of a branch banking law in Illinois becomes "more apparent" every day.

When the bottom has been reached, when more than three or four billion dollars' worth of real estate has been sacrificed to make a Roman holiday, when the life's savings of thousands have vanished utterly—then, of course, this inequality will be adjusted, for the benefit of the survivors!

But we real estate owners and allied businesses want it done now! Moreover, we say it must be done now. There is no other way out. Justice and fairness must prevail. If it isn't done now we predict that the public schools will not open in September and that the social and economic consequences of further issue-dodging on the part of a powerful few will bring Chicago to an actual receivership.

These are measured words, spoken carefully and in deadly earnest. The way out of this crisis is stated at the bottom of the second column.

We look forward hopefully to this meeting, Governor Emmerson, knowing your zeal for fairness, and feeling that the others at this conference will not allow temporary personal gain to blind them to the real and crying needs of this community.

Governor Emmerson, we welcome you to Chicago. The citizens of Cook County are depending upon you.

GERMANY CLEARS FREEMASONS OF STARTING WAR

Explodes Charge Made by Gen. Ludendorff.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GOTHA, Germany, June 30.—The theory that it was a world plot by Free Masons, who allegedly arranged for the murder of the Austrian heir, Archduke Franz Ferdinand, to start the world war, was exploded in court here today. The theory had been propounded by Gen. Friedrich Ludendorff, former quartermaster general, since the end of the world war.

Gen. Ludendorff is on trial for slander because he had publicly accused the old grand seigneur, Count Theobald zu Dohna, veteran of the Franco-German war, of knowing as early as 1911 of the Serbian plan to murder the Austrian crown prince and precipitate a world war. Count zu Dohna was grand master of German Free Masons, and as such Gen. Ludendorff singled him out in his attacks charging high treason.

Professor Withdraws Charges.

Gen. Ludendorff based his charges on statements made by Dr. Koethener, a university lecturer, who today on oath withdrew all of his former allegations.

Count zu Dohna's lawyers branded Gen. Ludendorff as a "neurasthenic of the worst type," while others used stronger words. In an effort to bolster up his case, Gen. Ludendorff dug up musty documents of the past century, seeking to prove the always close relations of German, French and Italian Free Masons, and thus drawing the conclusion that "therefore Count zu Dohna must have known of the Serbian plot."

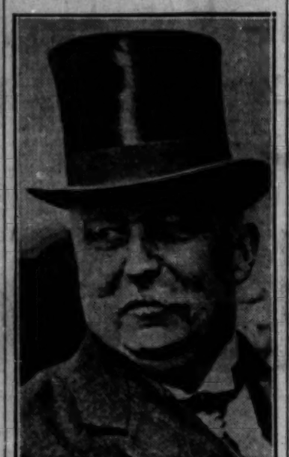
While the Serajevo assassination was in the foreground at Gotha, a hitherto unknown detail of this event, about which so much of Europe's history hinges, was described by an eyewitness.

Throws Bomb Out of Car.

Otto Mers, automobile racer, drove the motor car of Count Boos-Waldeck, which followed that of the archduke, on the day of the assassination. When the bomb fell on Franz Ferdinand's car, Mers describes how the archduke instantly grasped it and flung it backwards in the road, where it exploded at the front wheels of Count Boos-Waldeck's car.

According to Mers, the assassin's bullet struck a star on the collar of Franz Ferdinand's jacket. Franz Ferdinand's last words were of endearment to his wife: "Sophie, don't die."

Charges Exploded



GEN. LUDENDORFF.

ALLEGED KILLER OF POLICEMAN GOES ON TRIAL

The trial of Harry Yetter, 28 year old gunman, on a charge of slaying Policeman John J. Guiltanane of the Morgan Park police after a robbery a year ago, was begun in Judge Peter M. Schwaba's court yesterday. The state is demanding the death penalty.

Yetter and another alleged robber, William Nevrosky, who has not been captured, are charged with killing Guiltanane and wounding Policeman Anthony Wistort when they sought to arrest them as they were fleeing from the holdup of the Morgan Park Motor Sales company on July 18 last year. The state contends that Guiltanane and Wistort were shot while a third policeman, Fred Jurgens, was telephoning for a patrol wagon. Wistort, who is still disabled as a result of his wounds, is expected to be taken into court today on a stretcher to testify against Yetter. Jurgens testified yesterday.

SURFACE LINES RESCIND ORDER TO LAY OFF 400

Resume Wage Dicker —Strike Talk Scouted.

Following a conference yesterday with officials of the Street Car Men's union, Guy A. Richardson vice president and general manager of the Chicago Surface Lines, announced that the order laying off some 400 men will be rescinded and that existing conditions will not be disturbed. The lay off order, issued on Monday, was to have taken effect last night.

At the same time it was stated that an agreement has been reached by the trainmen's union and officials of the Surface Lines that negotiations for a new wage contract will be resumed. It is expected that the contract will be worked out at a joint meeting the end of the week.

The union is said to be seeking a renewal of the contract which expired on June 1, while the company desires some adjustments in working conditions that will reduce labor costs. The management proposed modification of certain rules relating to overtime, the guarantee of pay for eight hours as a minimum, and pay during split periods.

Scout Talk of Strike.

The suggestion that a strike might be called if difficulties are met in putting out the new contract was scouted by union leaders and company executives.

It was pointed out that in the last eighteen months no additional employes have been hired by the street car company, which has had the effect of giving more work to men on its extra list. However, with the curtailed summer schedule about to go into effect, a number of street cars will be taken out of service and unemployment will increase.

Union officials say that such unemployment can be relieved by instituting a six day week to supplant the present seven day working basis. It is understood the company offers no very serious objection to such a plan, beyond the fact that it would increase insurance costs. The company pays premiums of $34 annually on men employed regularly, and the six day week plan would place many now classed as extras on the regular payrolls.

Officials at Conference.

The conference yesterday was attended by William Quinlan, president, William Tabor, financial secretary, Joseph E. Kehoe, recording secretary of Division 241 of the union; L. D. Bell, editor of the Union Leader and member of the international union; G. Richardson and C. H. Evenson, superintendent of transportation for the surface lines.

Negotiations for a new contract will be resumed today by rapid transit lines and officials of the elevated railway employes union.

Bricklayers to Work on 5 Day Week After Aug. 1

Bricklayers in Chicago will operate under the five day week starting Aug. 1, it was announced yesterday after a meeting of the joint arbitration board of the Builders' association and the officers of the local union. The bricklayers will be the fifth major building union group in Chicago to adopt the five day week. The others are carpenters, painters, lathers and plasterers.

Judge Appoints Receiver for Medinah Athletic Club

Fred B. Optner was appointed receiver for the Medinah Athletic club yesterday by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson. The action was asked by the Seneca Security Corporation of Delaware and the suit charged default on four promissory notes totaling $1,000,000. The club also has failed to pay $30,000 taxes to Cook county. The receiver's bond was fixed at $75,000.

Joseph Andreich, 61 years old, hanged himself yesterday in the basement of his home at 9038 East 96th street. He was despondent because he had been unable to find work, his son, Joseph Jr., told police.

GROUP PREPARES TO MAKE BID FOR '32 CONVENTIONS

Hopes High as Real Work Starts.

With Illinois a political battleground of 1932 and Chicago offering the best facilities for conventions of any city in the country, the citizens' committee that has been organized to bring both national party conventions here next summer announced yesterday that it is now ready to get down to hard work, with encouraging prospects of success.

R. N. HURLEY. [A. P. Photo.]

The executive committee, of which Edward N. Hurley is chairman, was completed yesterday and an inspection was made of the Stadium as a convention hall. Seating twice as many as the old Coliseum, where half a dozen national conventions have met, and offering plenty of committee rooms, the committee feels that it has a good talking point.

Walter J. Malatesta has been selected as treasurer and will have charge of the raising of funds. He was vice treasurer under the late Fred Upham for four conventions.

Large Sum Is Needed.

"It will be necessary to raise the largest sum ever subscribed in Chicago for this purpose," Malatesta said yesterday. "As treasurer of the committee I have agreed to undertake the raising of this fund with the distinct understanding that subscriptions are nonpolitical and the money raised will be used only for convention purposes. Any surplus funds remaining will be returned to subscribers pro rata. Any tickets allotted to the Chicago committee are for distribution to the contributors of this fund.

"Definite steps to secure subscriptions will be undertaken on completion of the budget of estimated expenses and funds necessary, and the sources from which the funds will be solicited.

"We are on the threshold of a great reconstruction period. Proceedings of both conventions will be of historic importance and of vital interest to all. There will surely be an unprecedented demand for admissions."

Others on Committee.

On the executive committee with Mr. Hurley are A. D. Lasker, vice chairman; Omer N. Custer, Michael L. Igoe, Robert Isham Randolph, B. E. Sunny, Roy O. West, William Wrigley Jr., Robert Maynard Hutchins, and William H. Sexton. On the women's committee are Mrs. Bertha D. Baur, chairman; Mrs. Elizabeth A. Conkey, vice chairman; Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, Mrs. Carter H. Harrison, Mrs. W. S. Hefferan, Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis and Mrs. Frederic W. Upham. Walter J. Hennessy is executive secretary of the main committee.

Republican conventions have been held in Chicago in 1860, 1884, 1888, 1904, 1908, 1912, 1916 and 1920. Democratic conventions have met here in 1864, 1892, and 1896. During 50 years Chicago has had eleven national political conventions, St. Louis, four, Kansas City, two, and the other cities one, of a total of 26.

"We have all the natural advantages for conventions and now have a fine meeting place," said Mr. Hurley. "We are going to fight hard for both the conventions this year, and feel that we have a good chance of success."

S.W. STRAUS & CO. SUED BY SISSON FOR ACCOUNTING

Charges of Conspiracy and Usury Made.

S. W. Straus & Co., mortgage bankers at 306 South Michigan avenue, are charged with usury and conspiracy to defraud in a suit filed in the federal District court yesterday on behalf of Harry W. Sisson of Hammond, builder of the Sisson hotel, 53d street and the outer drive. The bill, which demands an accounting, charges the Straus partners forced Sisson out of the management of the hotel.

According to the petition, Sisson borrowed $800,000 from the Straus company with which to build the hotel in 1917. He was charged 6½ per cent commission for the underwriting of this loan, the petition states.

Other Loans Made.

Later, it is charged, Sisson was forced to increase his indebtedness to $1,250,000 in connection with a refinancing and still later he was induced to take a third loan of $50,000, secured by junior mortgage.

Altogether, the petition alleges, the Straus company retained $357,964 in unlawful commissions, and the suit demands the return of $459,000.

False Reports Charged.

The petition charges that the Straus partners spread rumors that the Sisson hotel was the headquarters of the Ku Klux Klan and that this caused many Jewish guests to move out.

In 1923, when Dr. Hiram Wesley Evans, imperial wizard of the klan, maintained headquarters with his staff at the hotel, several prominent Jews living there reported that they had received threats.

FOUND DEAD ON FARM.

Peoria, Ill., June 30.—(AP)—The death of Joseph Fuller, 82, was investigated by Coroner A. E. Allen of Tazewell county today at the request of the man's son, Chester C. Fuller, who said he believed his father had been killed. Fuller was found dead on his farm near Pekin last night.

Briton Views India Rule as Whites' Burden

Wonders Why the British Ever Assumed It.

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

In the recent deluge of books about Russia, India and its situation has been somewhat forgotten. Not since "A Passage to India," by E. M. Forster, has a more intriguing novel appeared about the country, its strange folk, and the English who live and struggle there than "A Farewell to India," by Edward Thompson, published today by Dutton.

Mr. Thompson has many friends in this country, as he recently spent a year at Vassar as guest professor, and debated for the Foreign Policy association on India at Baltimore, New York, Boston, Philadelphia, and other cities. He is now a lecturer at Oxford.

Of his life in India the author says: "I spent my childhood in South India. From 1910 to 1922 I was in Bengal in a missionary college and lately its president, serving through the year of agitation after Gen. Dyer's action at Amritsar and the noncooperation movement of Mr. Gandhi."

Gen. Dyer turned machine guns on a crowd; Gandhi's methods are fa- affair.

Mr. Thompson is, therefore, because of his experience and long res- dence in the country, and his a- quaintance with Indian National- leaders, extremely well qualified writs on the problems of India. T- he does in an informal, entertaini- manner made especially readable b- cause of his ever present sense humor, his tolerance, and that qual- rarely absent in any Englishman, best sense of fair play.

"A Farewell to India" gives one a- excellent view of that great countr- made up of so many varied types o- people, people who bicker among them- selves, yet who grow more and mo- united in their front to England, wh- vows to be self-governing, independ- ent. In watching the daily life of thi- community, in observing the chil- like natives, with their age old sup- erstitions and fears, their secre- rings, and their swift means o- fying what they term wrongs, sees clearly what the English hav- put up with in India. And wi- more intelligent and educated la- speak one is given to see what the- have to put up with from the English Both angles of the problem are sure- to prove enlightening to the average American.

Alden, the chief British cha- in the book, is charged with pe- rating the tradition of paternalism by the Indians. They feel he represents an epoch that has passed, that he is obsolete and out of date. When he asks an Indian if there is going to be peace between the two countr- the Indian replies: "Not till Eng- and India come face to face."

"You mean?"

"He means," said Findlay [- or Briton], 'not while the nonv- bumbog talks to the look what we have done for India bumbug.'

"Then there'll be a chance when the unbragging India comes face to face with the unbragging England.'

"Yes. If one Indian can ju- ge complex and full of anaris- question of British rule in Indi- at least one Englishman despa- any satisfactory outcome. He th- 'the Indian job" has ceased to b- worth the infinite bother it has be- come, and all the hatred, lying and misery it brings along.

JOHN DAY New York

Movie Gossip from Hollywood

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., June 30.—[Special.] In replacing Joseph Schenck as the big boss of United Artists, Sam Goldwyn replaced Schenck's system of wholesale picture distribution. This means that under Goldwyn the United Artists return to the original idea of the founders of the organization, Pickford, Fairbanks, Chaplin, and Griffith, each of whom wanted to produce and sell his own pictures as a single proposition, instead of doing as other studios had done and combining all the films made at one studio to be marketed in the mass.

When Joseph Schenck went to the United Artists five years ago to act as the group's directing head, Schenck brought his own ideas along, and instead of selling each picture individually, as had been done before, he began to group theaters together about the country and to arrange that all the United Artists pictures should be sold to exhibitors on a mass proposition.

Charley Chaplin was the only one who declined to accept Schenck's plan. After four or five years under Schenck's plan, Fairbanks, Pickford, Gloria Swanson and others have been pleased to return to their original idea, each making and selling his own picture on its own merits. Producer Goldwyn says:

"It insures a uniformly high standard of pictures, when we get each picture individually. We could not attempt to market any film which is not a high class picture, and we have found out that a high class picture will always bring a good price when sold on its own merit, usually a price better than under an arrangement where many ordinary pictures have to be contracted for in order to dispose of a few very good ones."

This man Goldwyn, although he started his business career in the clothing trade, is one of the sure fire hit makers in pictures. This is because he uses common sense, which is a rare quality in Hollywood. Goldwyn has never released a motion picture that was a financial flop. There are very few such 100 per cent records in Hollywood.

Right at this time Goldwyn is puncturing one of the film producers' chief "don'ts" of the last year and a half. He's putting $800,000 into a musical comedy picture. All the other studios threw musical comedies overboard in 1929, taking it for granted that musicals never could be made to pay again, merely because many inferior musicals had been released to tire the public on the heels of two or three which, like "Broadway Melody," coined a fortune.

Goldwyn is frank to say he expects to coin another comfortable fortune out of his current venture, which is "Palmy Days," with Eddie Cantor and Charlotte Greenwood. Watching them make "Bend Down, Sister," one of the musical numbers in this film yesterday, we predict it to be one scene that at least will not betray Goldwyn's expectations. Sixty good looking girls in green shorts and tan flannel jerseys went through a gymnasium scene with Miss Greenwood, who twirled her long legs in long purple velvet Turkish pajamas.

Church School Head Explains Divorce Views

'Bootleg Marriages' Are Hit by Dr. Grant.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Relaxation of the laws of the Episcopal church regarding divorce has as a stout defender in the Very Rev. Frederick C. Grant, president of Western Theological seminary, Evanston. He is a member of the commission on marriage and divorce of the general convention of that church. Yesterday he referred to the proposals of the commission, given to the press on Monday. He commended its efforts toward placing responsibility for the remarriage of divorced persons on the shoulders of Episcopal rectors.

Dean Grant will be a member of the church's general convention, to meet in Denver in mid-September. Throughout the American Episcopal church, President Grant is regarded as having great influence. He cites the commission's proposals as the "most sane and most humane ever put forth by that church."

Dr. Grant particularly commended the elimination of what he called "bootleg" marriages that would result, he said, from earlier proposals. Such proposals of the commission would have authorized Episcopal clergy to remarry divorced persons "outside the church and with some service other than that provided by the prayer book."

The commission's unwillingness to provide for such weddings, Dr. Grant added, "will be welcomed generally throughout the church as eliminating any other place than the church for the second marriage of persons whose former marriage has been nullified.

"Three members of the commission asked the privilege of presenting a minority report favoring 'bootleg' nuptials."

"The canon law now states impediments to remarriage," Dr. Grant continued. The existence of these impediments, under present church laws, prevent marriage, if known at the time, and later may nullify it, if the case is brought into a church court.

Since many divorces, obtained under the civil law are granted for ostensible, though perhaps not real causes, Dr. Grant argued that a church court would be left free to determine the real cause.

The Evanston dean said that in many divorce cases the real cause—adultery, which the church recognizes as the only valid ground for divorce—is not disclosed in civil court proceedings for the sake of avoiding scandal.

"We do not think our proposed canon is perfect," Dr. Grant added, "but we think it a step in the right direction. In dealing with matters of this kind there are no higher laws than justice and charity, and the two are not opposed. If the church is to legislate at all, it must deal in absolute fairness. As far as I know, no better proposal has been put forth. It combines the best modern critical knowledge of the teachings of the New Testament with a sane, practical view of the problem of marriage."

Gov. Roosevelt Aids Chicago 1933 Fair; State Will Exhibit

Albany, N. Y., June 30.—[Special.]—Gov. Roosevelt discussed today with Christopher Vandeventer of Chicago, the participation of New York state in the World's Fair in 1933.

Thus far thirty-four states have voted to participate or signified their intention by appointment of commissions. Eight other states, Mr. Vandeventer said, will take action in 1932. Instead of separate buildings the states will exhibit in a single hall of states. Foreign countries will conduct their exhibits in old Europe.

"New York will have an opportunity to tell the world the story of its industries," said Mr. Vandeventer, after his conference with the governor. "The importance of New York state to the economic structure of the nation could well be emphasized in the state's exhibit. It is the plan of a Century of Progress as far as possible to portray the drama of human progress in the last hundred years through animated moving exhibits. New York has many features that can be made intensely interesting in such a portrayal."

Consul Explains How Mussolini Turned Socialism to Fascism

Fascism was portrayed as an exalted and improved Socialism yesterday in an address by Giuseppe Castruccio, consul general for Italy in Chicago. He spoke before 500 Rotarians and their wives at a luncheon in the Hotel Sherman.

As a young man Mussolini was an ardent Socialist and considered dangerous by his government, but later realized the narrowness of Socialism and expanded his ideas to include what is now known as Fascism, the consul general said.

"Fascism is a fraternity, a government of coöperation where all classes have the same rights," he said. "In his conception of Italy as a great nation, Mussolini felt that there always would be room for more people. He believes that as long as we have courage, faith, and ideals the world will always be big enough to care for our children."

BISHOP WOULD REVISE "3 STORY PICTURE, HEAVEN, EARTH, HELL"

LONDON, June 30.—(AP)—A desire for restatement of the apostles' creed was voiced by the Rt. Rev. Ernest William Barnes, bishop of Birmingham, in a diocesan conference yesterday.

The three story picture of heaven, earth and hell implied in the apostles' creed belongs to obsolete thought, the bishop said. He also called for articles of religion to repudiate modern errors no less than ancient errors, and to affirm philosophical and psychological truths such as the moral freedom of the individual.

Methodist Group O. K.'s Birth Control on Economic Grounds

Delaware, O., June 30.—(AP)—Leaders of the Methodist Episcopal church meeting here are in favor of physicians and social workers giving birth control information to "duly married couples."

They adopted a report yesterday of a commission headed by Dr. Wilson G. Cole of Brooklyn, N. Y., which based its recommendations on economics and health, and changing family life.

The report said that if the church keeps silent about sex relationships it does not mean that other agencies will keep silent.

"It is time that some pioneering religious body take the leadership in a humane and righteous campaign for the education of the people in the ethics of birth control," the report said.

"It is becoming increasingly clear to many leaders of Christian thought that the proper guidance and most reliable information in this vital subject should come either from the church or with the sanction of the church. We believe that it is ethical to determine the coming of children to husband and wife by choice rather than by chance, a choice which has in mind the safeguarding of the health of the mother and the highest development of the child and the best interests of family life."

Seattle, Wash., June 30.—(AP)—With only two dissenting votes from 110 members, birth control was indorsed today by the seminar on "the family and youth" at the national convention of the Congregational and Christian church.

The seminar voted its approval of the statement on birth control given in the majority report of the committee on marriage and home of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America and recommended that the general council of the Congregational and Christian church commend the federal council's committee report.

Lady Cynthia Urges Youths to Avert War's

Says Britain Has "Death Dew" for Battle Use.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 30.—Lady Cynthia Mosley, co-founder of the New party and a granddaughter of the late Levi Z. Leiter, Chicago merchant, has profound faith in the good works of youth. The young, she believes, will revive and reconstitute politics in such forms that they will inherit an earth cured of its old reckless ways of force and war, and will live in the harmony of eternal peace.

Her conclusions are based on innumerable meetings where she has appeared to expound the Mosley creed. She and her young husband, Sir Oswald, who is known in British politics as "A Young Man in a Hurry," have cast themselves adrift from the Labor party and hope to root their dogmas in the brains of youth. The beautiful exponent of the new faith, with the classic profile and the assurance of deep conviction, knows the only way to end all warfare.

"My method for preventing war and that of the New party, started by my husband and myself, is to have a definitely planned and organized country," she says. "If that could be achieved with all it implies in the way of improving economic, industrial and diplomatic relations with other nations there could hardly be another war for us."

Lady Cynthia paints terrible pictures of war in her many speeches.

"England has possession of an invention," she adds. "It is a liquid. One spoonful of it would kill a million people. It creates an atmosphere that is deadly. It is known as 'The Dew of Death.'

"I know also of an explosive so potent that just enough to fill a woman's handbag would raze London to the ground.

"I cannot disclose the source of my information on these points, but it is really reliable. If there is another war noncombatants as we know them now will suffer more than the fighting men. I mention these things at my meetings because there are two ways of showing the necessity for peace—the emotional appeal and the cold blooded facts. By using the two methods you get at the 'sloppies' and the 'heroes.'"

Most of Lady Cynthia's speeches are made before youthful audiences, composed of Boy Scouts, Girl Guides, Church Lads Brigades and the like. She believes that not 10 per cent of those present at her most recent meeting were over 25. She is hesitant on the probability of another war.

ROSCOE POUND, DEAN OF LAW AT HARVARD, WEDS INDIANA WIDOW

Washington, D. C., June 30.—[Special.]—Dean Roscoe Pound of Harvard law school was married at noon today to Mrs. James E. Miller, widow of a prominent physician, following a romance which developed during Dean Pound's residence in Washington as a member of the commission on law observance and enforcement. Mrs. Miller came to Washington from Indiana.

Dean Pound, who is sixty, had known Mrs. Miller and her former husband for years, but their close association was said to have been due to the coincidence that he chose the Lafayette hotel, Mrs. Miller's home since her widowhood, for his own Washington residence.

The ceremony was performed at St. John's Episcopal church, by Canon E. S. Dunlap of the Washington Cathedral. The couple left Washington for New York late today. It is understood they soon will depart for a European tour.

Dean Pound, one of America's best known legal experts, has headed Harvard law school since 1916. He is the author of almost a score of books on legal subjects, a member of numerous legal societies and was accounted the most prominent member of the law enforcement commission, aside from George W. Wickersham, its chairman.

Mrs. Pound is the former Lucy Berry of Indiana. In applying for a marriage license, she gave her age as 49. Her sister, Miss Lillian G. Berry, is a professor in the University of Indiana.

13 of Family of 14 Tour in Five Passenger Car

Pittsfield, Mass., June 30.—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Iverson and eleven of their twelve children, traveling in a five passenger automobile, made a brief stop here today before resuming the last leg of their trip from Spooner, Minn., to Boston. The 12th child is in school in Boston.

Canned Foods Sell for Less, Inquiry Shows

Market Is in Favor of Housewives Now.

The housewife who keeps an emergency shelf of canned foods in her pantry will find, if she pauses to do some mental arithmetic on her next daily shopping tour, that for the same amount of money she spent last year she can now add from 5 to 25 per cent more tins.

A survey yesterday of retail stores representing both chain and independent stores with delivery service indicated that canned fruits and vegetables can now be purchased in many cases for 75 per cent of the cost a year ago. Merchants say the price reduction has increased quantity buying for household use.

"The housewife who formerly bought, for example, two cans of peas, this year is not only buying the peas but adding a can of carrots, beans, or corn for the same money she spent last year for the peas," said an executive of a large chain system. "She goes in for more variety with the reduced prices because her money now has more variety buying power."

The same executive, quoting prices on standard canned goods, No. 2 size can, gave as example of the reductions in prices the following comparisons of 1930 prices with the present ones.

Beets	$ .12½	$ .08½
Tomatoes	.12½	.08½
Peas	.13	.09½
Corn	.14½	.09½
String beans	.14½	.12½
Pineapple	.27	.23
Grapefruit	.23	.15
Peaches	.19	.15

Although peaches and apricots have not as yet been detailed a formal price, it was said, it is evident that the price will drop considerably below last year's. Asparagus, grocers agreed, is remaing about the same as it was last year because of a short crop.

Concern was felt in several quarters over the 1931 pea crop. The extremely hot weather with possible destruction by pea louse is endangering the crop, much of which is raised in Wisconsin.

That similar drops in canned fruits and vegetable prices have taken place among the independent groceries is indicated in a price list comparison with last year of one of the large loop concerns dealing in both standard and fancy goods. For the standard, good quality No. 2 size can, these prices were reported:

Peas	$ .17	$ .12
Corn	.15	.11
String beans	.19	.15
Beets	.21	.12½
Pineapple	.35	.25
Peaches	.35	.19
Pears	.30	.25

"We are experiencing a substantial increase in the volume of business," an executive said. This outlook was echoed by others, none of whom voiced any protests over the lowering of food costs.

Wise Charlie Chan to Solve Mystery for Sally's Guests

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Have you heard, boys and girls, about Charlie Chan, that super sleuth to whom no mystery is too baffling? Well, we're going to see and hear him in the person of Warner Oland when his latest picture arrives at the Oriental theater next week. You read my announcement yesterday, didn't you, that the plans for our party on July 9 have been changed? We're going to the Oriental theater instead of the United Artists to see and hear the most recent of the Charlie Chan talkies, "The Black Camel."

"It's a very thrilling mystery play from the story by Earl Derr Biggers and when your hair isn't standing on end I'm afraid there will be a chill or two traveling up your spine. The story takes us to Honolulu where Sheiah Fane, a motion picture star, has gone to make a picture. What happens to her there provides the plot of the picture with a mystery and complications that only Charlie Chan could unravel.

Don't you want to see this exciting show? Well, to be one of the hundred girls and boys who will be invited to the Oriental next Thursday, a week from tomorrow, you must write a letter telling me why you like to go. From what they write to me, I shall select the winners. Every letter must reach me by tomorrow morning so this is your last chance to write and win.

Invitations have been sent to the guests of my White City party and you should have them by this time. Are you looking forward to a rollicking good time at the south side park tomorrow? I am.

WOTTA LIFE! WOTTA LIFE!

I THINK YOU'RE A GOOF. IF YOU PAY FULL FARE FOR HIM!- WHAT IF HIS BIRTHDAY WAS YESTERDAY; WHO'S GOIN' T' KNOW IT? NOW YOU GET A ONE HALF FARE TICKET, MIND WHAT I SAY!!

Teachers Tell Where Schools Win or Fail

One Says 'Perfect Child' Must Be Ailing.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 30.—(AP)—Twenty thousand educators went to school today to learn why a child becomes a psychological runaway, despite American's plan of education.

The educators, assembled for the fifty-sixth annual National Education association convention, heard speakers place personality above the three R's and outline what constitutes a good teacher of the young.

William J. Bogan, superintendent of Chicago schools, said it was easy to criticize schools for their failure to teach foreigners "a kind of spelling that is largely the result of accident, and literature for the intelligentsia," but decency, he added, required commendation for the success of schools in developing "things of the spirit."

Through America's "cafeteria plan of education" children have learned to specialize and meet their own individual needs, he said. Through direct teaching by the schools and social contact in classrooms and playgrounds, Bogan said, descendants of peoples who in older civilizations "killed their fellow men with great enthusiasm for the love of God have learned the lesson of sympathy and tolerance."

"They may not love one another any more than their ancestors did," he said, "but at least it may be said they have come to look upon religious persecution and massacre as bad form."

Growth of personality, Goodwin Watson, assistant professor of education, teachers college, Columbia university, said, is the main subject in the curriculum for young children.

"Good teachers know why pupils are good or bad," he said. "They help them keep close to reality, avoiding pious pretenses or becoming psychological runaways. They avoid comparisons; they realize each child is an individual and that control is coöperative and democratic."

If a child's behavior is perfect he isn't normal, according to Dr. Virgil E. Dickson of the University of California. He quoted statistics from observation of 500 boys and as many girls for a semester showing that 74 per cent of the boys and 57 per cent of the girls were guilty of inattention, restlessness, talking, day dreaming, laziness and other forms of misbehavior.

"But behind all misbehavior there is a cause," he said. "Take the case of the poor schoolgirl who wore second rate clothes and was left out of groups of other girls. One day she surprised everybody by letting out a string of profanity. She simply was hungry for some sort of recognition and took that means of getting it."

The "self-made man who becomes a captain of industry" was described by Paul F. Cadman, executive secretary of the San Francisco stock exchange, as being among the vanishing Americans.

In his place, Cadman said, has arisen a determined, well educated man who at the helm of a large business has assumed a critical attitude toward the trained student.

Cadman said an exceedingly small percentage of successful business men in American industry, commerce and finance have been denied the opportunity of at least a few years of formal training, and cited the instance of a university graduate who applied for a bank position.

"He applied to a typical self-made industrial captain for employment," Cadman said, "and when he was asked for his credentials the youth presented his diploma and proclaimed possession of his A. B., to which the battle scarred industrialist answered: 'All right! Go out in the shop and learn the rest of the alphabet.'"

Mrs. Charles W. Sewell, director of home and community work of the American Farm Bureau Federation, Chicago, said:

"The little red schoolhouse has long been the symbol of all that we hold sacred in our national ideas on education. But while the nation has progressed materially, the little red schoolhouse has fallen further and further behind in this much-vaunted progress."

The convention delegates adopted resolutions as follows:

For a federal department of education, with a place in the cabinet.

Against proposed cuts in school budgets, reductions in teachers' salaries, or other shortsighted policies advocated because of the present economic depression.

For revision of rural school curricula.

For education by radio, through legislation which "will safeguard for the uses of education and government a reasonable share of the radio broadcasting channels of the United States."

For teaching the pact of Paris in the schools and favoring the accession of the United States to the permanent court of international justice under the terms of the protocols now awaiting approval by the United States senate.

In favor of the eighteenth amendment.

Teachers Declare Social Science Lags Behind Machine Age

The annual convention of the American Federation of Teachers was opened at the Congress hotel yesterday with addresses by Mary C. Barker, its president, and John P. Frey, representative of the American Federation of Labor.

Miss Barker said the present business depression emphasizes the fact that our civilization is a one sided development—that knowledge of the natural sciences has advanced more rapidly than that of the social sciences. She declared that educational lack is the teacher's responsibility.

Mr. Frey pointed out that it is within the power of the teachers to instill into the citizens of tomorrow the sense of social responsibility which trade unions seek.

THE CLICK OF THE GATE

By Alice Campbell

SYNOPSIS.

Clare, young daughter of Iris de Bertincourt, is kidnaped and held for ransom. Iris has been separated for years from her dissolute husband, Marcel. They are cousins and the possible heirs of their tyrannical aunt, the Comtesse de Castelmaurou. Iris planned to divorce Marcel and marry Maj. Alan Charnwood. After a long and dangerous search Charnwood and his friend, Tommy Rostetter, a journalist, find out that it was Clare's father who instigated the kidnaping; with a pair of criminals, Yetta and Pietro, the actual abductors, the motive being the monetary reward. Alan and Tommy engage in a battle with Marcel and his partners in crime in a deserted quarry near their hideout just as they are about to do away with a boy known as the half witted son of the couple to prevent his disclosing information detrimental to them. Marcel is killed. The couple escape. The supposed boy is rescued and discovered to be Clare, who is in a state of exhaustion. She is put under the care of a local physician.

INSTALLMENT LXIII.

A LOST CHILD RESTORED.

The local physician of Antoine-Eglise had two rooms attached to his villa which he used as an infirmary. In one of these Clare was put to bed, her wound dressed, and restoratives applied. She continued to breathe, but remained sunk in a stupor, from which it was feared she might never rouse. While the doctor and a middle aged village nurse busied themselves over her unconscious form Charnwood got through on the telephone to Paris and informed Helen Roderick, who was sharing Iris' vigil, of the rescue. The two women would arrive by midnight.

Charnwood was stunned by the knowledge that he had actually seen Clare face to face, spoken to her, and never remotely guessed her identity. Over and over again he reviewed the evidences of his own stupidity, unable to excuse himself.

Tommy read his thoughts.

"Any one might have made the same mistake, Alan," he said sensibly. "Remember you'd only seen her once, and nothing could be less like her normal self than a starved creature in boy's clothes, with black, short hair, an iron on the leg, and the appearance of an idiot. How could you have known?"

"But you knew," Charnwood muttered.

"I wasn't positive. At best it was only a wild suspicion, based on the feeling I'd had from the start that those scoundrels must have had some strong motive for bringing the boy here. Parental devotion was a washout. My first real hunch came when you told me about seeing them burn Clare's clothing. Why on earth should they wait twelve days to do that? If she had really been dead they would obviously have destroyed everything at once. When you gave it as your opinion that they'd been dragging the pond, and described their haste to get off after the neighbor's visit—taking De Bertincourt with them, too, which they would never have done if it had been a case of their own child—the truth struck me broadside. Of course, they made

"Alan! Is she alive?"

De Bertincourt come along. That was because he wasn't to be let out of his share of the responsibility."

"Then you think they set out tonight with the deliberate intention of murder?"

"Probably. Anyhow, when they found her and saw the state she was in—unconscious from a fall over the cliff—there was jolly little choice left them. Already they were badly frightened; to stay behind and nurse a dying girl was madness pure and simple. Safer far to dispose of her at once. As for De Bertincourt, he was in the same boat with themselves. He had to fall in with the woman's scheme to save his own skin."

"So the swine was prepared to stand by and allow his daughter to be butchered in cold blood!" whispered Charnwood.

"You saw him, didn't you?" retorted Tommy grimly. "Worse than that, he was ready, when the others were trapped, to do the trick himself. When he saw us determined to hunt him down, he knew that murdering the girl wasn't going to be enough. He had to kill us as well. He did his damnedest, too, I'll say that for him."

The doctor's bonne-à-tout-faire shuffled in and set hot coffee, eggs, and a bottle of Burgundy upon the table. Tommy fell upon the feast with avidity.

"Occasionally things happen for the best," he said reflectively. "On the whole, I'm glad it was I and not you who shot the brute. Not that I want to claim credit for it—but—well, you understand."

Charnwood only half heard. He was thinking of the poor child in the adjoining room, hovering between life and death, of the terrible blow to Iris if she arrived to find that rescue had come too late. He was still abstracted, sipping his coffee slowly, when the doctor entered to see how he was faring.

"It's mademoiselle I am bothered about," he replied, brushing the inquiry aside. "What chance of recovery do you consider she has?"

The physician pursed his lips and stroked his pointed beard. "It is impossible to answer that question yet, monsieur. Her general exhaustion is against her, but she has youth in her favor. She appears to be suffering from the prolonged administration of some drug, the effects of which will take some overcoming."

"What drug do you think was used?" asked Charnwood suddenly.

"One of the veronal group—perhaps luminol, which has a cumulative effect in the system and produces many strange vagaries. It stupefies, but it also causes delusions and unaccountable behavior, varying with the individual. What you say about her escaping and wandering about in partial somnambulism all goes to support my belief."

Charnwood glanced at his friend.

"Do you hear that?" he said. "The time before when she walked in her sleep and tried to get out of doors she was under the influence of veronal."

"Ah, you see?" The little man looked pleased with his diagnosis. "That shows she is a bad subject for that particular class of narcotic, which perhaps produces with her a form of claustrophobia, in this instance augmented by her subconscious instinct of self-preservation."

He looked expectantly from one to the other, plainly hoping for further enlightenment. He knew that Mademoiselle de Bertincourt had been held a prisoner by a pair of ruffians, also that the dead man low lying under a sheet in the chilly salon was her father, but that was all he had been told. He felt cheated when the smaller of the two Englishmen dropped back into his own tongue.

"Here's what must have happened," said Tommy, addressing Charnwood. "While Yetta was off last night, getting the money from De Bertincourt, she left Lepin in charge. He promptly celebrated her absence by getting nicely stewed, in which state he probably left the door of the attic room unlocked. Clare, who was no longer completely deadened—for they had to slack up on the drug towards the last in order to prepare her for going home—must have roused sufficiently to get out, though not enough to become wholly rational. If she'd been mentally sound she'd have welcomed you as a deliverer, but as it was she shrank away, afraid of being caught and taken back."

The doctor coughed provocatively, nor was it difficult to read his emotions. Here was he, suddenly sprung into fame because a turn of fate had brought the heroine of a noted case under his care. The village would buzz over the story, all France would get to know him—yet he was excluded from the inner facts like the veriest nonentity!

There was an awkward silence, then Charnwood jumped up like a spring released.

"Is that the car?"

It was. Hurrying to the door he encountered Iris, trembling and breathless, her eyes burning like coals in her white face. Behind her came Helen, older by ten years since he had last seen her.

Iris clutched his arm.

"Alan! Is she alive?"

"Thank God, yes. Come with me; you shall see her, but don't be shocked by her appearance."

In the small bare room a light burned, shaded by white paper. Its tempered rays fell on the narrow bed where, above smooth sheets, Clare's bandaged head showed. The skin was drawn and greyish, the dark lashes rested in pools of mauve shadow.

With a gasp the mother sank to her knees, sought and found the limp hand nearest her, and covered it with kisses, while her eyes hungrily devoured every sharpened line of the well loved face.

Charnwood turned away. When he looked again Iris had buried her own face in the coverlet, and for the first and only time since Clare's disappearance was weeping floods of tears.

He left the room quietly, and as he did so an intolerable burden slipped from his spirit.

Would Give Dog Away.

"I have a pedigreed German police dog for whom I am anxious to find a good home. I am leaving the city almost immediately and must dispose of it at once. I should prefer giving the dog to some family who will be going to the country this summer or who live near the lake. It is a male, seven months old, in good health, of a happy disposition and extremely fond of children. R. L."

This splendid animal with all its qualities really deserves a good home and not one where he won't have room to run about. If you'd like to have it, write me; please do not telephone.

Wringer Needed.

Do you think one of your readers has a wringer to give away? I have a large family and much laundry to do. My husband has been out of work for some time and we haven't the money to buy a wringer.

"MRS. J. B."

Since acquiring that new washing machine you have no further use for your wringer and it is only taking up space in your laundry or store room which could be put to better use. May not Mrs. J. B. have it?

Doris Advises This Couple to Leave the Parental Rooftree

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"My husband lost his position shortly after we were married. We intended to stay with his family only until we got our furniture and household things together. But we are forced to stay on, as he has not found anything to do yet.

"His mother is continually nagging him for not finding work, and although she refuses to take board from me, as I am working, she doesn't fail to let him know she is keeping us. One thing leads to another until life is becoming just one big argument, and I feel like leaving, as I cannot stand this wrangling, and work, too.

"What would you do? Speak up to the mother-in-law? She has such a temper I don't know what tactics to use.—M. G."

I'd do one of two things. Either I would insist upon giving the mother-in-law a stipulated amount every week, regardless of her protests, or I'd take myself and husband off to some furnished room, if need be, and live there. Perhaps the very fact that you remove the feeling of security about a home that the son may have in his mother's abode, despite her remarks, may be his incentive to try harder to get work, although I know that that may be an unfair thing to say under the present employment conditions.

The point is that a young man might seek employment here and there and because of a few turndowns, coupled with the fact that he has a mother's home to go to, he might give in to discouragement more quickly. Anyway, away from the mother-in-law you and he could work out your situation more agreeably. You could give the boy courage which his mother's ill timed remarks deprive him of.

Of course, you don't want to forget, either, that you were using this same mother's home as a convenience. You admit staying only until you could get your own furniture together. So you owe her something. Consequently you should avoid quarreling with her.

Be firm about making her take some money, weekly, if you decide to remain there, but if it is possible to manage at all, you would be better off in a cheap furnished room of your own and your husband's.

Wise Parents Make Summer Count For, Not Against, a Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Of course, children adore the summer. Summer means so many kinds of delight to them. No fussy dressing in coats and galoshes. Freedom, outdoors, no school, sports, leisure.

Because they love it, they're apt to go it pretty hard and many doctors find children thinner and not so well at the end of a summer as at the beginning. Now, if there's one season of the year when we ought to pile up health for our children, it's in the summer. With good food, exercising, and the chance to soak in sunshine, summer should be an unqualified benefit for them.

But is not always so. And two of the reasons why summer isn't entirely an asset are heat and insufficient rest. Children are growing. Their vitality has to be considered. Yet most of them will go, regardless of the heat, until they drop. Heat takes it out of children. Constant activity takes it out of them. Fatigue lowers their vitality.

They won't save themselves, so we must save them—and certain types of children more than others. Some children for instance, feel the heat and actually become overheated more easily than others. They must be especially watched.

And some children just don't sleep as much as others. It's not a question of tantrums, or poor habits, but more one of temperament or constitution. In summer as well as in winter, their sleep has to be kept track of—though even then they will probably never sleep quite as much as charts and tables specify.

A helpful list of short readings on physical care for mothers of babies is contained in a reference sheet called "Keeping the Well Baby Well," which will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Assistant Plumbing Prof.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Win Mother's Approval.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am 18 years old and my mother will not allow me to go with any boys. CYNTHIA."

See if you can't have your mother realize that now is the time to make friends. If you can't encourage their attentions now, they won't be interested in you later on, dear.

Sweet Words Acceptable.

"Dear Miss Blake: The boy I love never tells me he loves me. He says, 'Action speak louder than words.' Does he love me? ANGIE."

He must, if his actions so indicate. However, tell him you do not question his love, but it's mighty sweet to hear about it occasionally.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

A. G. S.: THE WHITE OF AN egg applied as a coating on the face and allowed to dry is a facial mask of astringent value. Some find a second coating even more satisfactory. A tightening of the sagging skin is produced.

D. N.: MEALS MAY BE USED for softening hard water. Almond meal and oatmeal may be used. Bran is excellent. Boil a pound of bran in a gallon of water, strain, and add enough to the water to make it milky in appearance.

Watch Your Colors, Gals, for They Can Make or Mar Beauty

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

A girl was telling me the other day that she had to stop going to a certain beauty salon because the color scheme there got so on her nerves she simply couldn't stand it. You'll understand why when I tell you the colors used in merciless patterns were raw red and green. Imagine trying to woo the calm so beneficial to facial treatment with one eye glued on a railroad station red and the other on a Paris green.

Reaction to color is being given serious study in circles beyond the usual ones. By which is meant where women foregather and talk becoming shades of frocks; the new color scheme for their boudoirs, etc. A solemn body of engineers, as you may have noted, after study on the subject, asserts that colors exert a profound influence over the majority of us. Here's an idea of the mood influence that various color provoke:

Red—warm, exciting, passionate.

Orange—warm, exciting, suffocating, flowing, lively.

Yellow—warm, exciting, joyous, gay, merry.

Yellow-green—cheerful.

Green—neutral, tranquil, peaceful, soothing.

Blue-green—sober, sedate.

Blue—cold, grave, tranquil, serene.

Violet—sole[illegible], melancholy, neutral, depressing.

Purple — neutral, solemn, stately, pompous, impressive.

Now, I'm going to tell one on how certain colors can give a good looking darling a badly washed out look. Just take the white, that is, the whitewash white that has a current vogue. Unless you bolster it up with a gay belt, hat, purse, shoes or hankie, it's liable to give that washed out look. Unless, of course, one has preserved the pristine freshness of youth in eyes and skin, or, unless one has naturally striking color. Or, for one more unless—unless you make your makeup foil the dead or high toned frock that drains the color out of cheek, eye and hair.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Enthusiasm Wasn't Shared.

I had been in the south some time and had a lonesome for home [Chicago] feeling. To pass the time I went to a movie. During the news reel, several familiar scenes, State street, Michigan avenue, etc., were shown. During the silence—my "O Chicago!" burst forth.

A very nice [?] man several rows down turned around and said, "Why don't you go home if you like it so well?"

Had the exit been a knothole I am sure I could have gotten out.

South Park Board to Consider Action on Shell for Band

South park commissioners are expected to consider today whether they will immediately award contracts for the construction of the new band shell in Grant park. There a series of forty free band concerts are to be given this summer starting the latter part of the month.

The concerts are to be given by a 70 piece band, sponsored by the recently formed Chicago Band Concert association, a group of leading citizens desiring to establish a civic band in Chicago.

"The bids have been received for the shell, and contracts will be awarded as soon as the commissioners give the authority," explained George T. Donoghue, superintendent of the south parks, yesterday. "I am reasonably certain that we will be given the authority to go ahead since $25,000 of the fund being raised to assure the concerts, has been underwritten."

Mr. Donoghue said that the shell will be a portable one. While the concerts are to be given south of Buckingham fountain and north of the Field museum, the shell will be so constructed, he said, that it can be removed within three days to another location such as Soldiers' field. The shell will provide room for as many as 100 musicians, and benches around it will seat from 25,000 to 30,000 persons.

Miss Eleanor Follansbee Is Engaged

BY THALIA ——.

MR. AND MRS. MITCHELL DAVIS FOLLANSBEE of East Schiller street announce the engagement of their daughter, Eleanor, to Helmuth H. Frelh[illegible] von Erffa of Schloss Ahorn, Germany and Cambridge, Mass. No date is announced for the wedding.

Miss Follansbee was graduated from Miss Madeira's in Washington, D. C., and is also a graduate of Bryn Mawr, class of 1926. She is a serious and high minded young lady and is the author of a volume entitled "Heavenly History," which was published the year after her graduation. For a time she took a job in the Walden book shop and has, I believe, continued her writing. She and her mother are at the Follansbees' summer place, "Acropolis, the Lake," at Traverse City, Mich.

Mr. Von Erffa was graduated from the Humanistische gymnasium in Hamburg and was a member of the Constructivist group of artists at the Bauhaus at Weimar. He has just taken a degree at Harvard and is to teach in the fine arts department there.

Country Club Tennis Under Special Rules.

Tennis is so popular at South Shore Country club this year that the tennis committee, of which Carlos Allin is chairman, has had to get out quite an elaborate set of regulations for the use of the courts. Several of the rules, such as the one prohibiting playing with spiked shoes or any kind of heels are the same as those in force at most supervised courts, but there are also some new ones, necessitated by the large number of players.

Excerpts—"Because of the large number of guests and the possibility of outsiders using the courts unaccompanied by members, all players are required to register. . . . Ladies, juniors, members, and children are asked to give way cheerfully and promptly to the rights of senior members. . . . When all the courts are occupied and there are players waiting, time of play is limited to one hour, and singles matches must double up. . . . The club are requested to wear white cloth shoes or golf knickers. . . . There is now a practice board this year, located behind the golf house, and it can be used for a half an hour only if players are waiting. . . . Wednesday is ladies' day, and members are requested to decide every advantage to the ladies on that day. . . . Children under 16 can't play unless under supervision.

A ladies' tennis handicap tournament will be played this summer beginning on Thursday, July 9, with registrations closing on the 7th.

Argentine Polo Players Will Arrive on Sunday.

International polo challenge matches — The Santa Paula team of Argentina is to arrive next Sunday for a week's practice before their opening game with the Old Aiken four on Saturday, the eleventh. . . . Mr. Juan Reynal will be accompanied by his wife, and Mr. José Reynal, by his sister. . . . They are to stop at the Dunwath inn, and the other members of the team, Mr. Harrington, Mr. Ashmead, and Mr. Gazzotti, will be put up in one of the cottages at the Onwentsia club. . . . There is to be a party at the Onwentsia club on the day of their arrivals, to greet the Argentines.

MRS. K. K. KNICKERBOCKER.
[Du Bois Photo.]

For her wedding yesterday to Kenneth K. Knickerbocker, Miss Dorothy Cardwell wore a white satin gown and a tulle veil that fell from a coronet headdress embroidered in pearls. The ceremony was performed at 4:30 o'clock in the gardens of Oak Knolls, the summer residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Cardwell, at Barrington. Mr. and Mrs. Knickerbocker are to reside in Cheyenne, Wyo.

JERUSALEM'S WALL FOUND BY BRITISH AMID ROMAN RUINS?

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

JERUSALEM, June 30.—What is believed to be part of the wall of ancient Jerusalem, dating back to 1200 B. C., was discovered today by British and Palestinian engineers. While repairing an old Roman sewer inside the old city of Jerusalem they came across a line of huge stones thirty feet underground.

Some time ago it was found necessary to reconstruct the old Roman sewer which passes near the mosque of Omar and empties into the valley of Kedron because the dilapidated condition of the sewer endangered the houses above it. In the course of excavations by the sewer repairers many archaeological discoveries were made, including an old Roman road, jars and coins.

While nearing the end of a 250 foot stretch of sewer today the engineers struck a firm rock and bit by bit uncovered a wall of stones, each about 4 feet by 2 feet. Tunnels cut through the wall allowed the passage of ancient sewers.

Ice Wagons' Noise Music in These Days

Among all the rumbling, grating noises that fill the ears of city dwellers twofold in summertime, there is one that is as music to housewives in certain neighborhoods known as tenements. Each morning at a certain hour they find themselves listening for it—the rattle of the ice man's wagon.

Most anywhere in certain neighborhoods you might see a perspiring ice man halt at a tumble down three flat building, hoist a square of precious ice to his back and enter the door of the apartment three flights up or the second floor rear. More than one ice bearer receives the grateful blessing of a household where sickness has been a visitor to the tiniest members because with no ice, milk had soured.

With more visible enthusiasm the children of these neighborhoods greet the ice man. The ice man doesn't mind in the least if tenement children make way with stray chips of ice, because he is a jolly sort who remembers his own youth. He even has a gay remark for the children as they cluster around his wagon.

To send more and more ice wagons into more and more neighborhoods is the purpose this year of The Tribune free ice fund. Every one knows the ravages of last winter, that the families visited by unemployment, sickness and death, are still in dire need. Distributing ice in these homes will save lives. It will not only keep the baby's milk from souring but will keep food fresh for the whole family.

Friends of the ice fund rushed their gifts to the fund yesterday as the thermometer continued close to the 100 degree mark. Along with the gifts from twenty-six contributors, came expressions of sympathy and hope that some of the suffering may be alleviated with the initial visit of the ice man.

"If this weather should continue even small amounts will be needed," wrote one woman who sent $2.

"Enclosed please find small check for ice fund. Wish I could make it larger," wrote another, and from a third: "Please receive a small check to help your good work."

A person who signed a dollar contribution as "Thankful," wrote: "Other dollars will follow at intervals. It is not much, but I am happy to have even a small contribution for such a splendid cause."

Bright Sayings of the Children

Dorothy, 4, has the habit of playing in neighbors' yards instead of her own. One day while she was playing in Mrs. J's yard her mother called her three times in fifteen minutes without any result. Mrs. J., having heard Dorothy's mother calling, asked Dorothy if she had not heard her mother call, and why she didn't obey.

Dorothy's answer was, "Yes, I heard her, Mrs. J., but she didn't say 'this is the last time.'" M. H.

Zionist Session Votes to Lessen Discussion; Topics Are Reduced

BASLE, June 30.—(AP)—The Jewish telegraphic agency reported that shortly before the 17th Zionist congress was to open tonight, the Zionist actions committee, by a majority vote, sharply curtailed the agenda of the congress and reduced the number of days it will be in session from eleven to seven.

The sudden change was the result of a recommendation by Richard Lichtheim, leader of the German revisionists, who introduced a resolution asking the actions committee to cut the program by curtailing the time allotted to speeches and discussion.

As a result of the decision the revised agenda is now as follows: Opening tonight with addresses by Nahum Sokolow, chairman of the Zionist executive, and Dr. Arthur Ruppin, colonization expert.

Tomorrow will be devoted to the speeches of Dr. Chaim Weizmann, Prof. Selig Brodetsky and Felix Rosenblueth and others; Thursday and Friday will be given over to general debate; commission reports will take up most of Sunday and Monday; the adoption of resolutions, election of the new executive, actions committee, Zionist members of the Jewish agency and the closing of the congress will be held on Tuesday, July 7.

Louis Lipsky, former president of the Zionist Organization of America will be the American member on the new actions committee. Judge Julian W. Mack was elected as the American member of the presidium.

'FAUST' ADDS ANOTHER HIT TO SUMMER'S LIST AT RAVINIA

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Gounod's "Faust" with manner, not to say with manners, was the Ravinia attraction last night. Two of the cast, Yvonne Gall as Marguerite and Leon Rothier were thoroughly imbued with all the French traditions of the opera and they were apt and brilliant pupils in the refinements of their school. But they were not the only striking figures.

There was Edward Johnson in the name rôle. He, though Canadian by birth and Italian by operatic training, has a brain that takes in the salient points of all schools. His address at Marguerite's dwelling during the garden scene was a marvel of distinguished elegance. That solo and Miss Gall's Jewel song, not only beautifully sung, but full of the spirit of youth, stand out as two of the high points of the performance. In fact the whole garden scene stood out as a great interpretation of the one of the finest love songs in all music.

In fact this mannerliness of performance went pretty well through the whole performance. It applied particularly to Mario Basiola's Valentine and Ada Paggi's Siebel, both parts done with excellent singing and equally excellent dignity. The chorus, it is true, was a little wabbly in the Kermesse scene, but to compensate for that, the orchestra played tones of pure gold under the talented baton of Louis Hasselmans.

It is by no means a hardship during a hot spell to drop in at the Punch & Judy theater to listen to Rudolph Ganz while he plays Chopin. A series of summer morning recitals began there yesterday. Mr. Ganz, white trousered and coatless, gave deft and illumimting interpretations not only of a group of Chopin, but other groups by himself and by Liszt, first class playing done under circumstances of the greatest physical comfort to artist and hearers. Arch Bailey, baritone, will give a song recital tomorrow morning.

Judge and Mrs. Porter will reside at 822 Dobson street, Evanston.

Paris Defines New Modes for Evening

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—New formal evening ensembles being shown in Paris now have a number of unmistakable signs that show they are the last sartorial words spoken by the great couturiers.

First of all, you may know them by their décolletés, which, though they are ultra modest in front, dwindle to a mere necklace that hugs the neck closely and leaves the shoulders and back bare to the waistline.

Next, many of them have some effect of being two piece, by means of contrasting uppers, peplums, and coat tails, and, finally, their brief jackets make a composition with this upper skirt arrangement so that often you don't know where the jacket ends until it is removed.

The skirt or jacket is often trimmed with fox, which is returning to the fashionable limelight after a longish absence.

The Lenief evening ensemble, sketched today, combines all the aforementioned style points. Both frock and jacket are of pale green satin and the luxurious collar is of black fox. The jacket is a short, fitted cutaway in front that melts into the cutaway drapery on the skirt front. It's sleeveless and has a loose cape back.

The skirt is ankle length in front trailing toward the sides and back, a hem treatment favored for midsummer and fall by Chanel, among others. The décolleté is held up by a strasse necklace and a strasse buckle fastens the narrow green satin belt.

Food Talk

To prepare lemonade as nearly perfect as possible one should use a sugar sirup instead of plain sugar. Boil 4 cups of sugar and 4 cups of water for ten minutes. Pour into a jar and seal for future use. It will keep in a cool place. For a quart of lemonade use four fresh lemons of medium size. Lemons soon deteriorate in warm weather. The skin becomes dry and loses some of its pleasing aromatic quality and it does not take long for the juice to acquire a moldy flavor.

Peel the rind from one lemon—only the yellow part. Squeeze out the juice from the four lemons, add the removed rind cut into shreds, and make the lemonade as soon as the juice is squeezed. It does not take long for lemon juice to lose its edge. The juice from four medium sized lemons should make about ¾ cup. Then add 1 cup of cold water and at least 1½ cups of finely chipped ice. The addition of ice is where many people fail to make the best of lemonade. They add too much for the water and the lemon that has been used.

A definite amount of water is pleasingly flavored when a definite amount of lemon juice is added. Remember that ice soon changes to water and dilutes the lemon flavor. If a very cold beverage is desired, less water and more ice may be used. Add the sirup to suit the taste—from ¾ to 1 cup. Good lemonade must have a lemon flavor and not enough sugar to kill the lemon flavor.

Here is another old method and a good one. Take for a quart of lemonade the juice of four lemons and the rind of one. Carefully peel off the rind to remove just the yellow outside part and cut this into small pieces and add to the juice. Put the juice into a pitcher or jar with 6 tablespoons of sugar. Pour on enough water just brought to the boiling point to dissolve the sugar. Add the ice cold water and ice to make a quart. Turn into a pitcher in which are thin orange slices and bits of fresh pineapple.

CREAMED CUCUMBERS

2 medium sized cucumbers
½ teaspoon salt
1 pint boiling water
1 cup milk
1 cup chicken stock
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons butter
½ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper

Pare, then cut cucumbers in ½ inch dice. Cook in boiling water to which salt has been added. About 5 minutes are required for cooking. Drain and add white sauce prepared of milk, stock, flour, butter, salt, and pepper. Serve hot.

Yield: Six servings.

COFFEE SAUCE

¾ cup finely ground coffee
3 egg yolks
One-third cup sugar
2 cups sweet cream
Pinch of salt

Steep the coffee in half the cream. Strain it through a cheesecloth over a fine strainer. Add the sugar, a pinch of salt, the rest of the cream, and the yolks of the eggs, beaten lightly. Put this all together in a hot double boiler and stir constantly until it thickens. Serve hot or cold.

Nothing stops Sunburn Pain so quickly as UNGUENTINE

UNGUENTINE eases pain the minute you spread it on. The suffering stops—quicker than with anything else. Because Unguentine penetrates! Unlike lotions and toilet preparations which only reach the outer surface of the skin—Unguentine sinks down to the inflamed tissues that cause the pain.

with lotions and toilet preparations

Severe sunburn is just as painful as any other burn—and it too may become infected. Your doctor wouldn't think of treating a burn with a toilet lotion or cream. Neither should you. Never use anything but UNGUENTINE, the famous antiseptic remedy used in 8 out of 10 hospitals for burns and scalds. Unguentine changes unsightly, painful red to a glowing, healthful tan. Be Cautious when offered a substitute for Kotex

SOME day you'll be tempted to try a substitute for Kotex. It may look the same.

But where was this substitute made? How? By whom? What do you know of its cleanliness—would a hospital consider it safe to use?

All these things, you see, are implied in the careless phrase, "just like Kotex." That is why you must be careful. Kotex is adjustable. It is treated to deodorize.

The safe thing to do is to insist on Kotex. Genuine Kotex. Then you know you're safe. Kotex is used by hospitals from coast to coast.

HORNSBY'S BOSS; HE'LL STAY BOSS—WRIGLEY

FOOEY PUNCH IS BEST WEAPON OF MAX STRIBLING

Nonbrutal Wallop Numbs Foe.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[As told to W. L. Schmeling-Stribling.]

Conneaut Lake Park, Pa., June 30.—Who will win the great stellar pugilistic classic for the world's high-est honor in the diadem of the fistic sport?

That is the question that countless readers of the red blooded element of this line in all parts of the world are asking one another just now, and I can truthfully say, without trying to evade the issue, "Fans, time will tell."

I might use profanity in any way, shape or form, but in all seriousness I can only say that the answer is sitting in the lap of the gods. But one thing I can fearlessly assure every man, woman, and child with a drop of sporting blood coursing in their veins, and that is that he or she, respectively, can rest assured that I am going in there to fight to the last ditch.

Traditions to Uphold.

I believe I am superior enough over my opponent in all respects, considering the proposition from every angle, to gloriously uphold the great fighting traditions and heritage which it is my privilege and honor to try to make myself in every way a worthy successor to those historic heroes of the leghood of the world such as John L. Sullivan, Jack Dempsey, and Gene Tunney.

I have been reading some interesting newspaper articles written by my opponent with regards to a secret punch that he has been practicing under privacy of darkness in his training camp with the gates barred against my spies, but aside from the absurd falsehood of my resorting to such unsportsmanlike means as spies to sulk around an opponent's quarters, I might drop a hint that I will be the one who will have a surprise in store for my followers Friday night.

Interesting to Say the Least.

It makes an interesting story that may be of interest to the fans the way I happened to discover my new mysterious punch which I have perfected to a high degree of perfection in my secret workouts without anybody knowing that I was doing any work except what the public witnessed in the ring at my camp. But I can tell you this much that I learned it from an old Japanese wrestler who was running a bowling game for little coins such as salt cellars and kewpie doll headaches in an amusement park and turned out to be an old member of the Japanese imperial wrestling corps who used to wrestle for the kings and counts of Apple Blossom empire when he was a young man.

Without giving the secret away I think I can let the fans know that the punch has an effect on a certain nerve in that when a person is hit with it they immediately have to lie down, unable to get up, although they are not unconscious and do not lose consciousness thus removing the element of brutality from the sport.

Old Fooey Falls Hard.

Old Fooey, or Fooey, as I affectionately named him, used to sit by the hour telling me about his great bouts in the ring for the entertainment of the king of Japan, who would sit on a cushion with his geisha girls dancing the yoshawari and watching the members of the imperial wrestling corps wrestle. But old Fooey fell in love with one of the geisha girls and one night one of the king's aides caught them stealing out to innocently take a stroll in the moonlight beneath the scent of apple blossoms with the honorable intention of making her his bride and the alarm was sounded, chasing old Fooey out of the flowery kingdom.

"And the geisha girl——?" I would say to old Fooey.

"Geisha girl die," Fooey would murmur, wiping away a tear. "Break old Fooey's heart. Old Fooey, he come United States, after long time get se letter say sese what you got very pretty geisha girl allee samee me.

Get Down to Work.

"But come, it is all in life and we must take the bitter with the sweet," old Fooey would explain, suddenly putting all thoughts of sadness and the sad tragedy which stalked his life out of his mind. "We must get to work soon because it is getting late and the great spirit will be angry with old Fooey if he does not make use."

WGN to Carry Schmeling and Stribling Fight

Chicago fight fans who will be unable to attend the Max Schmeling-Stribling heavyweight championship boxing match at Cleveland Friday night will hear the bout over WGN, the Chicago Tribune station in the Drake hotel, which will broadcast a nation-wide hookup of the National Broadcasting company. Descriptions of the crowd will be given by Floyd Gibbons, war correspondent, starting at 10 p. m. Chicago time. Graham McNamee, sports announcer, will give a blow by blow description of the bout and between rounds Tom Taub, New York sports writer, will speak.

HOW POLO WAS PLAYED IN 1872

This picture appeared in the Illustrated London News on July 20, 1872, three years after polo was introduced in England. You will observe that field hockey sticks were still used for mallets. The field was not well policed, judging from the boy in the foreground, who is scampering out of the way.

It's Old Story of Mother Love with Ma Stribling

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Geauga Lake, O., June 30.—"Ma, how does a mother feel when her son is being knocked about and hurt by an opponent in the prize ring?"

We popped this question to the mother of the challenger as we sat under the trees in front of the Stribling cottage at Geauga Lake awaiting W. L.'s final public appearance before his Friday night bout with Max Schmeling for the world's title.

Without a second's hesitation, or apparent stage effect, Ma answered:

"I don't know. I nevah saw anybody hurt my boy in the ring."

"But take that fight at Miami Beach, where Sharkey beat W. L. Surely——"

We got no farther before Ma interrupted. "Sharkey didn't win that fight at Miami Beach, and you can say in your newspaper that Ma Stribling says so and always will say so.

"I was there and I kept count of the rounds. My boy had a knockdown, and under Queensberry rules that ought to be equal to two rounds, and only in one round, the seventh, did Sharkey have any advantage, and I'm not entirely sure he had an advantage there, but I try to be fair. That referee was there for a purpose. Well, W. L. didn't get the decision, but he won."

The Boxing Game Is O. K.

We pursued that subject no farther, but asked: "Well, Ma, what do you think of fighting as a career for a young man? Don't you think there is a stigma attached to the profession and sinister associates?"

"No, I don't," replied Ma. "Boxing is a perfectly respectable business if you want to be respectable. Every young man should be in good condition and know how to defend himself. It's because my boy has no bad habits and always is in condition that he never has been hurt. Look at him, sitting over there. His nose is all right and his ears are all right."

"But some of the people you meet in the fight game have pretty bad records."

"Well, it's that way in anything. In the show business we met many people we didn't care for as friends, but we did what business was necessary with them and that was all."

Ma Boxes Masher's Ears.

Here Ma took occasion to explain that stories of the family in circus troupes were newspaper chatter and "The Four Novelty Grahams," who toured all the states and appeared abroad, was a vaudeville acrobatic act in which she and Pa appeared sparring a round together in a boxing bout, and ended with W. L. and Baby Stribling.

"Were you a good boxer, Ma?" we asked.

"I can hardly answer that myself," Ma answered. "I never had occasion to use boxing but once. That was in Pittsburgh when a chap became obnoxious when Pa wasn't around just because I was in the show business. They tell me I didn't take down second money," and Ma's dark eyes twinkled.

"You know," she continued, "I boxed with my boy every day until he was 14 years old."

Pa Almost Went to War.

"And you stopped stage work when W. L. turned professional ten years ago?" we suggested.

"No, that isn't so, either," returned Ma, evidently resenting the implied impression that W. L. was being exploited for the family benefit rather than his own.

"We stopped our stage work in 1917 when W. L. was 12 years old. We wanted him to get a good education. That was during the world war. Although he had two children, Pa was in the fourth class and would have been called in the next quota if the Armistice had not come. While not wealthy, there was enough money to care for my boys and meanwhile Pa was away."

"But Ma," we queried again, "some people think there is too much family around W. L., that it makes him cautious, and that he might do better if he had a brute in his corner urging him to be vicious."

Ma's eyes flashed as she answered: "Yes, those are the same people who hope he won't defeat Schmeling. They mean my boy hasn't courage. I know he has. Why, he's a licensed pilot, a lieutenant in the air reserve who's had nearly 1,000 hours in the air. I've been with him in his plane when he had to make two forced

ARABIAN DOCTOR STARTED POLO AS MEDICINAL CURE

In view of the international matches to be played at Onwentsia between Old Aiken and the Santa Paula team of Argentina, starting July 11, the following sketch of the origin of polo may be of particular interest:

King Yunan, according to a story in The Thousand and One Nights, was suffering from an incurable malady. His physician had tried every remedy at his disposal without results, when one day there came a foreign doctor who pleaded for permission to attempt a cure. Permission was granted on the condition that no ointment would be applied nor drugs administered.

The King Went for It.

The wandering physician fashioned a hollow club or mallet and a ball. Into the handle of the mallet, he placed his drugs. He then instructed the king to mount his horse and while riding at a gallop to strike the ball, repeating the action until his hand was wet with perspiration. The remedy, according to the story, entered the pores of the king's hand and the cure was effected.

In the course of the cure, the king became so interested in his new game that he continued to play. What the king did, so did the court and thus was polo established in Bagdad. This was in the seventh century. The game traveled east and west into Turkestan, China, India and Tibet. It was called pulu in Tibet. It was played extensively in India and there the English planters of Bengal first took it up. The army officers soon adopted the game.

So Did the Hussars.

In 1869 the Tenth Hussars were relieved from duty in India and returned to England. There they introduced polo. Having neither mallets nor balls, they used hockey sticks and billiard balls. Interest in the new sport continued to grow and four years later was taken up by the Burlingham club. Rules were established and under the guidance of this club, polo rapidly increased in popularity until it now is played in most of the leading countries.

James Gordon Bennett of the New York Herald, became fascinated with the game on one of his visits to England and on his return brought with him the first polo mallets, thus introducing the sport in the United States. This was in 1880.

CON AMORE WINS ARLINGTON PURSE OVER COUSIN JO

Stewards Start War on Rough Riding.

BY FRENCH LANE.
[OTHER RACE NEWS ON PAGE 28.]

The Chattanooga purse was run before a crowd of 10,000 at Arlington Park yesterday in an effort to determine which 3 year old filly is going to be American champion.

And when Con Amore, a 4 year old filly won, the 3 year old championship ratings became more scrambled than ever.

Cousin Jo, the Kentucky Oaks winner, finished second to Con Amore and beat Risque, from the Hertz stable, which had come to be regarded as the best 3 year old filly in the east, by three lengths. Tambour, the Coaching Club Oaks winner at Belmont Park, did not run. If she had started the dope probably would have been even more muddled.

Cousin Jo Finishes Strong.

Con Amore ran a spirited race to win. She ran head and head with Risque for the first five furlongs of the six furlong dash. She was on the outside and had to travel a bit further than Risque. Their ding dong battle thrilled the crowd, but as they headed into the stretch for the short run home, Con Amore had conquered Risque and it seemed certain the daughter of High Cloud-Billet Doux was going to triumph.

But just about here Cousin Jo, which had been plodding along in third place, began to move like the wind. Her dash soon carried her past the faltering Risque and up within striking distance of Con Amore. But Con Amore had something left, and when Jockey Bobby Jones went to the whip, she pulled away slightly to win by three quarters of a length.

Con Amore stepped the six furlongs in 1:10 4-5, within a fifth of a second of the track record. Risque was the favorite, but Con Amore also had been heavily backed and paid $6.70.

Allen Saves Dark Sea.

The most improved horse in America this year is Dark Sea, a 4 year old son of Traumer-Dinah Meur, which races for Herbert M. Woolf of Kansas City. Dark Sea started his campaign early last spring by running in a $2,500 claiming race, which he won. He was pitched higher and higher in the races which followed, winning $5,000 claiming races, then $7,000 claiming races. He was making his seventh start of the season yesterday in the Lexington purse, a dash at a mile.

When he went flying past the finish line a head in front of The Nut, with Nostaw third, he had achieved his fifth straight victory and his sixth out of the seven races in which he has started this year.

Jockey Charley Allen was at his best on Dark Sea. It was his hard riding finish that ultimately won. The Nut, making his first start of the year, came with one of his old time dashes in the stretch. It all but overhauled Dark Sea, which had been leading from the early stages. Sunvir, from Mrs. Katherine Elkins Hitts' stable, had been highly regarded, but he was not up to such a race. He finished far back and probably needed the race to put him in top condition.

Set Down Two Jockeys.

The racing stewards went on the war path against rough riding jockeys. They disqualified two horses. One was Joe Leiter's Princess Camelia, after she had won the Alabama purse.

Jockey Landolt, who rode her, crossed over sharply in front of the field on the back stretch and nearly threw three fillies over the fence into the infield. He was set down for ten days and as a result of the disqualifications Butter Beans was moved up as the winner. Dark Seeker got second money and Nevada Queen was third.

In the preceding race More Power, after finishing second, was disqualified. Tred Avon won it in handy fashion, but More Power, ridden by Hanford, had roughed up a lot of the others as he made his way to the front. When More Power was disqualified Eighty Twenty took down second money and Egypt was moved into third place.

The crowd appreciated this effort to stamp out the rough riding, which has marred so many races in Chicago this season, it actually shamed the judges.

Hornsby Hits Two Homers as Cubs Crush Phils, 14-3

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., June 30.—The Pat Malone-Rogers Hornsby reconciliation act this afternoon was a wow. The big jollification saw Pat return to pitching form under the inspiration of Rog's No. 13 and No. 14 homers and a single in the first six innings, by means of which the Cubs' boss drove in seven of his team's first eight runs. The Cubs beat the Phils, 14 to 3.

PAT MALONE.

Hornsby would driven in all the first eight runs under normal circumstances, but Cuyler got home on an error just before Rog smacked his No. 13. Les Bell, who took Hornsby's place in the batting order after the skipper's retirement at the end of the sixth, singled with the bases full to drive in the Cubs' ninth and tenth runs.

Stops Phils Sluggers.

While Malone allowed 11 hits, he never was in danger. He held the Phils to no runs and two hits until Hornsby's second home run. Pat also had the satisfaction of stopping Davis, who has been leading the National league hitters for a week or so, and he held the talented Chuck Klein, second in the National league standings for a week, to one harmless infield single. Malone also went in for offensive play, contributing three hits and three runs to the Cubs' totals. His last single drove in two runs.

The Cubs made 19 hits this afternoon to bring their total for the two games of the series here to 34. D. Taylor, with two doubles and a single, was runnerup to Hornsby in the slugging department.

The Cubs will play the next to last game of the eastern trip here tomorrow. Sweetland and J. Elliott are slated to oppose each other.

The Cubs had three runs home before the first put out of the game had been accomplished. Cuyler and English singled off the right field fence, and when Koster threw past third in an effort to get Kl, the latter dashed home while Woody pulled up at third. Hornsby then socked that No. 13, English walking in ahead of him.

Hornsby Cleans Bases.

The circumstances leading up to Hornsby's second homer of the game and fourteenth of the season follow: Malone's second single was a skimmer which Whitney knocked down back of third. Pat stopped at second on Cuyler's single to center. The bases were full when Dudley hit English with a pitched ball. It was at this point that Rogers cracked No. 14. Wilson got his first hit of the series,

Sox Fail to Hit; Boston Wins, 7 to 1

There is something about 24 year old bespectacled Danny MacFayden that the White Sox can't fathom. At stated intervals he calls around and causes them no end of trouble. Yesterday was one of his calling days and he proved so much of an annoyance that his delivery yielded only six hits. Because of this variety of pitching, coupled with their own frequent wallops, the Boston Hose experienced no trouble in carrying off the series opener, 7 to 1.

Caraway Goes to Showers.

So that the assembled fans wouldn't have to strain themselves in the heat by worrying about the eventual outcome, the tourists settled everything by doing their shopping early. They pushed Pat Caraway out of the picture with two runs in the second inning. With MacFayden pitching almost flawlessly this would have been enough for winning purposes, but for good measure Red Faber was frisked for a run in his three round workout and Garland Braxton, who finished, was knocked into a melancholy state by four runs in the seventh.

Caraway's finish began to take form when Miller opened the second with a single to center. Pickering tripled to score Miller. Berry sent Pickering home on a single to center. The hit also sent Caraway to an early shower.

Faber, who did well cleaning up his inheritance from Caraway, also was effective in the third, but he didn't get by the fourth without giving up a run. Pickering led off with a single to center and Simons let the ball bounce past, Pickering to third on the error, and registered on a hit by Berry.

Braxton Also Jarred.

The home Sox shook off their shyness in their portion of the fourth and negotiated three hits, their lone run of the show being the outcome. Simons singled through Rhyne and Cissell singled to right, Simons going to third. He scored on a hit by Jeffries. Tate then tried to sacrifice, but MacFayden goabbed the bunt and thtew out Cissell at thied. That ruined the rally.

Braxton managed to dodge serious complications for the first two innings in which he labored, but not much could be said in his favor after the visiting troops manhandled him in the seventh.

Jim Moore is going to make another start for the Sox today. John Collins, the Boston boss, is thinking of coming up with Bob Kline.

'WAYWARD CUBS PLAY OR PAY,' OWNER'S EDICT

Thinks Wilson's Eye for Ball Impaired.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Rogers Hornsby may have a couple or more nocturnal playboys to worry about, but he doesn't have to worry about his job as Cub manager. The man who picked him for the place last September was William Wrigley Jr., principal owner of the team, and William Wrigley Jr. declared yesterday that "Hornsby will still be around after most of the others have gone."

WILLIAM WRIGLEY JR.

"Make that as strong as you can," he added. "It might stop the rumors that are bound to come up in a few more weeks. I've heard every other kind of rumor about the team and have been expecting to hear any day that I was going to fire Rog."

And after giving out this bad news for the Anti-Hornsby Mischief Makers, Wrigley went on to reveal his disappointments in the team to date, his hopes and a few other things which the average club owner foolishly fears to make known.

They'll Play Or Pay.

For one thing, if Hack Wilson or anybody else on the Cub pay roll stays out later than is good for his health he will have to take whatever medicine Hornsby hands him. But because the boys have misbehaved isn't Hornsby's fault. At least, not according to the way William Wrigley looks at it.

"Just a hangover from last season," he termed it.

"I have said before that Joe McCarthy became a bit too lenient last season," he declared. "Some of the boys took advantage of it. They got into habits that can't be broken over night. Hornsby will stop them or there will be some huge slices in salaries. Wilson gets a monthly pay check in excess of $6,000, but he isn't earning it."

Thinks Hack Hurt Eyes.

It seems that the opinion of the Cub officials, Wrigley included, is that Hack, by not watching his physical well being, has injured his eyes, not for ordinary purposes but enough to affect his batting skill and his ability as a fielder. That may explain why the home run king of last season is now just another ball player.

Wrigley, being a steam heated fan, as well as an owner, naturally is confident that the present difficulties of the Cubs are only temporary. He is hoping so, not only because he wants a winner but because it will relieve him of the endless task of explaining to Pullman porters, barbers, hotel managers, elevator starters, and bankers and others that the many evil rumors circulated about the Cubs have no foundation in fact.

Pitchers Only Weak Spot.

"We sell gum in every corner of the globe," he said, "but nobody ever asks me whether we have an office in Mesopotamia or whether the Chinese, between revolutions, are good, enthusiastic gum chewers. It always is something about the Cubs. When we are winning I can answer questions faster than they can be thrown at me, but just now I am in a slump."

"What makes me hopeful is that, even with Wilson slowed down, the Cubs are weak in only one spot. That's pitching. The pitchers are there, but they can't get going. In other years we always went fine and blew up in September. The pitchers always were worn out. This year they haven't done enough to make themselves sleepy so there is a good chance that they will have enough strength to finish with a rush."

"Nobody ever heard of this before but the Cubs almost had Chuck Klein, the clouting Philly, last winter. A roll

Malone Works Off 8¾ Lbs.; Hornsby Loses 3 Laughing

Philadelphia, Pa., June 30.—[Special.]—Pat Malone, the corpulent Cub, lost 8¾ pounds during this afternoon's game with the Phillies and Manager Hornsby lost three laughing at his discomfiture.

The first two days the Cubs were in Boston while the rest of the United States was sweltering several hundred persons appeared at the games wearing topcoats. The other two days Boston enjoyed moderate temperatures.

Yesterday was the first break Philadelphia had had in a broiling spell, but today, Pat's day, it was 95 in the shade and 102 on the field.

Rog went to the shade at the end of the sixth inning, after driving in seven runs for Pat. At intervals Mr. Hornsby from his cold shower sent out to inquire how Pat was frying.

"It did him a world of good," said Rog this evening. "I hope it gets cool until his time to pitch again."

Adams, Blades, Frisch Hit for Circuit.

New York, June 30.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals won their second straight game from the Giants today and increased their lead to 3½ games as they pounded out an 11 to 10 victory in a 22 hit slugfest. Frank Frisch was the big gun of the Cardinals' attack, driving in four runs and scoring twice. Allen, pinch hitting for the Giants, hit a home run with the bases full, to tie the score in the fifth inning. The Cards scored three more in the seventh to win. Score:

Hornsby Hits Two Homers as Cubs Win

and was so happy that he tried to stretch his single into a double. He was out at second by ten feet. D. Taylor doubled and went to third while Whitney was throwing out Hartnett, but died when Grimm popped to Davis.

The Phillies scored in their half of the fifth. Mallon doubled off the right field fence, went to third on Brickell's single to center and scored while Bartell was forcing Brickell.

Hornsby Calls It a Day.

Hornsby drove in another run in the sixth, then knocked off for the day. Jurges opened the inning with a single, which caused Dudley to withdraw for Fallenstein. Malone sacrificed. Cuyler fanned. English was safe on Mallon's fumble. Hornsby then singled off the right field wall, scoring Jurges and putting English on third. A double steal went awry and English was run down between third and home.

When Hornsby left the game, Jurges moved to second and Bell went to third. And with Rogers out of the lineup Malone seemed to lose some of his inspiration. The Phillies in their sixth forthwith made two runs on a double and three successive singles. Further damage was averted by a double play, English to Jurges to Grimm.

The Cubs made two runs in the eighth on singles by Grimm and Jurges, a walk to English and a single by Bell.

The Cubs made four runs in the ninth on singles by D. Taylor and Hartnett, a walk to Blair, Jurges' force, a single by Malone and an error by Koster on English's fly.

FREAK BASEBALL HAPPENINGS
by Irving Vaughan

It isn't every batter who can be retired in an inning and yet score the winning run in the same inning. Steve O'Neill, then the regular catcher of the Cleveland Indians, did it fifteen years ago in a game with the White Sox at Comiskey park.

The stunt wasn't legal, of course, and eventually resulted in a replay, but it actually happened because Umpire Billy Evans, now general manager of the Cleveland club; Umpire Ollie Chill, the managers of the contending teams, a bevy of sports writers, and a flock of players had a momentary mental lapse.

It was the only time in Evans' 22 years career as an arbiter that he was caught sleeping on the rules on which he was, and still is, considered the final authority.

The game in which O'Neill made his illegal trip around the bases was played on a Saturday, the day before the close of the season. Neither team was particularly interested in winning, as nothing was at stake. This feature may explain why nobody was on the alert. But everybody involved paid for the oversight. Ban Johnson, league president, ordered the game replayed, and it was, as part of a double header the following afternoon.

Along about the fifth inning with one out and a runner on first base, O'Neill stepped into the batter's box and ran out his string to 3 and 2. The next pitch was a wild pitch, but O'Neill swung at it and, naturally, missed. The ball went past Catcher Schalk and rolled to the front of the stand. O'Neill immediately made a dash for first base. In reality he was automatically out under one of baseball's simplest rules which provides that with first base occupied and less than two out, the batter is out on a third strike whether or not the ball is held by the catcher. O'Neill kept running until he had reached second. The man who had been on first went to third.

Evans, in explaining the play afterwards, said that he was watching Schalk pursue and retrieve the wild pitch and entirely forgot about O'Neill. And everybody else present did the same thing.

The batter following O'Neill popped to the infield and this was actually the third out of the inning but play continued. The next Cleveland batter singled, scoring two runs, the second of which was carried home by O'Neill. The two runs made it possible for Cleveland to win, 5 to 4.

About three innings after the lapse, some one awoke to the fact that O'Neill had put one over and that Cleveland, by being accorded four outs instead of three, had scored the tying and winning runs after the side was legally retired.

The Chicago club filed notice that a protest would be made to league headquarters and as a result the players and umpires had to labor through nine extra innings the next afternoon.

REDMOND GIVES AN EXHIBITION OF TRICK GOLF SHOTS

Jack Redmond, Canadian trick shot golfer, gave a demonstration of his skill at the Chicago Meadows daily fee course yesterday before 400 spectators. Before the exhibition, Redmond, playing with Jack White, finished two down to Lee Craigen and Jim McPhaill in an 18 hole best ball match. Redmond, who has played on hundreds of courses throughout the world, pronounced the Chicago Meadows layout a difficult one.

EDDIE LOOS BACK IN OPEN TOURNEY; CUTS PAR IN DRILL

Re-enters Meet on Orders of Golf Club.

Toledo, O., June 30.—(AP)—Eddie Loos, professional at the Lake Shore Golf club of Chicago, whose withdrawal from the National open tournament after he had qualified in the Chicago district trials created a furor, appeared at the Inverness Country club ready for action when the tournament opens Thursday.

After Loos had withdrawn, thereby depriving the Chicago district of one of its places among the qualifiers, his club commanded him to reenter the tournament and gave him a check for $500. Loos then settled the storm aroused by his action and came here after all.

His practice round over the second nine today indicated that his change of mind was well advised. He ripped the course to pieces with a 32, four under par.

Others Crack Par.

Loos' sub-par game, however, was not the only low score of the practice drills that got under way today. Leonard Schmutte, Lima, O., professional, and Harold Samson of Burlingame, Cal., beat par by a good margin, despite the sweltering, sultry heat, which again beat down on the course.

Schmutte breezed over the course with a 68, three under par, while Samson came back to the clubhouse with a 69 and a confident grin. Both played leisurely golf and confirmed the reports of the others that the championship layout required well-hit balls off the tees, and well-placed iron shots. Schmutte went out in 33, and came back in 35 for his round, which was one shot under the competitive course record.

Wild Bill Mehlhorn of New York clicked off four straight birdies, and quit after nine holes with a 34, two under par, on the backward stretch.

Whitcombe May Not Play.

There was some prospect tonight that Charles Whitcombe, captain of the British Ryder cup team, would not play in the championship. He went to a Detroit specialist yesterday with a bad knee and was ordered to take a complete rest for 48 hours or more. He was on deck today, but took it easy.

Except for Tommy Armour and Walter Hagen, Detroit's two contenders, virtually the entire field worked out over the championship Inverness layout today. The British Ryder cup team arrived at noon, mumbled something uncomplimentary about the weather, and the narrow fairways, and sauntered over the course. Augusto Boyer of France, got acquainted with the stretch with a 71, taking only 33 strokes going out.

Carnera Forces Gorman to Take Count in 1st Round

PETERS DEFEATED IN DAMAGE SUIT AGAINST SHRINE

San Francisco, Cal., June 30.—(AP)—Superior Judge Daniel C. Deasy today denied damages to Frosty Peters, former Illinois football player, who recently sued the Olympic club and the Shrine for $23,900 alleged damages because he said participation in the 1930 East-West football game here kept him from graduating.

Peters alleged the Olympic club promised him a job so he could complete his education at the University of California, but failed to keep its promise. The defense contended several jobs had been offered Peters, but he turned them down.

CRUISING SCOUTS PORTAGE PAST HUGE LOG JAM

Visit Lumber Camp in Flambeau Country.

BY BOB BECKER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Babb's Island, Flambeau River, Wis., June 30.—Undaunted by a tropical sun that still is scorching the Flambeau valley, the Chicago Boy Scouts on THE TRIBUNE'S annual canoeing and camping trip dipped their paddles in the Flambeau today for 17 miles, including one portage around a log jam. It was the longest run the expedition has made to date.

Arriving here at this isolated point, the Scouts found a large welcoming committee of mosquitoes waiting in the shady grove close to the river, but in spite of these annoying camp followers the boys soon had their tents up and then tackled supper with appetites that only outdoor fans who have paddled 26 miles and swum for an hour can appreciate.

Another River Lesson.

The long but interesting trip down this wild river, which growls and talks over numerous rapids, was another day of education and entertainment for the 19 Chicago Scouts. The boys are seeing new sights, new animals of the northern forests, and even trees that they have not observed before.

But the climax of this northern woods exploring program came when they portaged around the big log drive in the river. Here they saw the river packed solid from the bottom of the stream with huge hemlock, maple, basswood, spruce, and other logs, the kind of picture they had read about in fiction.

Pulling their canoes to the shore close to the jam, the boys saw the specially built 80 foot railroad cars in which the lumberjacks are living, while at the river's edge, half buried in the water and the mud, lay two logs, part of the live stock which has the run of the lumbering camp. Grunting and squealing, these animals lumbered ahead of the excited Scouts, who immediately were invited to inspect the camp.

With Pancake John, the famous lumber camp cook, leading the way and the men, three brothers, two experienced lumber cruisers and river guides, explaining the workings of the camp, the Scouts made a quick tour of dining car, kitchen and bunkrooms. They saw the double deck bunks, the drying line for the lumberjacks' clothing and the big kitchen where Pancake John tossed his thin browned cakes to the ceiling in a demonstration of his skill.

Boys See Log Jam.

Following this interesting tour of the camp the Scouts were taken to the log jam so they could see how the big timbers are loaded on flat cars. Although the sun was hot, the lads forgot the heat as they watched the lumberjacks tie chains to the logs so the hoisting engine could snake them up high and drop them on cars. After watching all these operations and portaging around the blockade in the river, the boys stepped into their canoes and came to Babb's island. One minute after the canoes had been tied up the entire gang was wallowing in the cool water of the Flambeau.

If a city dweller could have stopped at this camp he would have received a concentrated lesson in campcraft from the Scouts because mosquito nets and pup tents had to be set up for the maximum amount of protection against mosquitoes. The tent pitching job was a dandy and every boy slept like a top after a campfire and story telling hour.

Levinsky and Hudkins Swing Rights Tonight

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Ace Hudkins, who tonight completes his eight year trip from the lightweight ranks to the heavyweight division, and King Levinsky, his opponent at Mills' stadium, are ready for their ten round battle. And Jim Mullen, who is bringing these wild swinging fighters together in the hope that one of them would be stretched on the floor, a position neither ever has assumed, took time off yesterday to add a new worry.

Mullen has experienced every worry in the fight business. Or he thought he had. Now, with assurance that Chicago's west side once more would rally in force to see the King of the Ghetto meet the Ace, Mullen was wondering when the heat wave would break.

Wants Cooler Weather.

Mullen wants cooler weather. Personally he has found the Randolph street temperature a bit nerve racking. But yesterday he wondered if a thunderstorm tonight would wipe out his most promising outdoor show. So far, however, it seems as if the unseasonable weather would hold on, which is another worry concerning gross receipts.

So far boxing outdoors this season has not been accorded average success. Approximately 2,500 saw Mullen's last show and the neighborhood promoters of professional shows have not approached that mark. Only 300 saw the bouts at Logan Square Monday night, and Irish Kennedy, the winner of the main match against Lary Kaufman, fought eight rounds for 18 per cent of a $200 gate.

Carry Right Hand Wallops.

Hudkins and Levinsky should put on a show. Not a boxing show, perhaps, for neither, and in particular Levinsky, ever has done much boxing. But both have fought a rather inaccurate right hand swinging attack which carries a finality worth seeing.

Levinsky will have an advantage in his youth. Hudkins is the more experienced, and some say the more courageous, although the King never has run away from trouble.

There also will be six bouts of five rounds each, so all things considered, the show tonight should be worth one-eighth the price which will be charged at Cleveland Friday night.

landings. I never saw finer nerve and courage. Before that he rode a motorcycle and was such a speedster we asked him to stop and he never yet has done anything when I asked him not to. And he's been in nearly 300 fights."

"Does he smoke when not in training?"

"The Striblings haven't smoked for five generations."

"Does he drink when not in training?"

"No."

"Not even beer?"

"Well, he has taken a glass of beer at times, but it seems to upset him so he doesn't like it."

"Well, Ma, many people think it strange a mother can be around a fight camp and see her boy fight and all that."

"Oh, I suppose many people have queer opinions of me," Ma replied. "My boy is a boxer. If I prepare his food and look after his welfare I know it is well done. When Pa looks after his affairs, we know it's loyal service. We Striblings are called clannish and we are. Possibly someone else could do more for him, but certainly none could be more interested than his own family.

It's The Old, Old Story.

"We know he's getting honest advice and honest training. Why, you know since I left the theater business, I have nothing to live for but Pa and the two boys and our grandchildren."

Here was the age old story of mothers. It was expressed in behalf of a mother guilding her boy in a hazardous profession and in a profession which most mothers would not wish their sons to engage. Yet Ma's tone of sincerity was such you could not doubt it. The outsider just has to like these Striblings for what they admit is their clannishness.

Contrary to what might be popular impression, the mother of the challenger is anything but masculine. She is thoroughly feminine in appearance and all her actions, except possibly of those preparing a son for a championship prize fight, are of the same order. As this writer has said before, the Striblings of Scotch-Irish stock on the Stribling side many generations ago, and of German-Irish stock on Ma's side, are a most unusual and colorful family.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

MAX SCHMELING.

CLEVELAND, O., June 30.—[Special.]—Max Schmeling, who will defend his heavyweight boxing title against Young Stribling on Friday night, was born at Klein Lockow, Germany, Sept. 28, 1905. He is, therefore, about nine months younger than his challenger.

The Schmeling family for generations had been house and sign painters. Max's father, however, before his death, which occurred five years ago, broke away from the traditional family employment and for twenty years was helmsman on Hamburg-American sailing vessels. During the world war he was stationed at a patrol boat on the Hamburg river, which never saw action.

The family now consists of Max, his mother, for whom he has provided an apartment in Berlin; a brother, Rudy, who shows no penchant for boxing, and an unmarried sister.

The champion is credited with a high school education, and while in school showed prowess in soccer, swimming and tennis. At 13 years old he won an amateur wrestling championship, and sometimes wonders whether he might have been successful if he had turned professional in that sport of grunts and groans.

To supplement the family income, Schmeling, after school hours, worked as typist for an advertising agent in Hamburg, thus proving he was "good to his folks," an essential for all prominent characters in the game of fisticuffs.

School days ended, Max was seized with wanderlust and wandered about the fatherland seeking work wherever it might be obtained and thus having a variety of employments which included farm laborer, steel worker, coal miner and circus strong man. According to these various yarns there were times when he was broke and adopted the hobo rôles similar to the stories of Jack Dempsey's early career.

Various stories circulate as to how Max first took up boxing. One is as good as another. At any rate, he became known as an amateur of promise and finally drifted into the professional game, where he acquired three titles—middleweight champion of Europe, light heavyweight champion of Germany and then heavy champion of Europe—if there is any such title.

Jack Dempsey is supposed to have given Max his ambition to come to this country and seek world honors. Touring Europe on his moneymoon with Estelle Taylor, Dempsey gave boxing exhibitions abroad in countries he visited. At Cologne, Max, then a middleweight, sought opportunity to be one of Jack's three opponents who stepped one round each. Schmeling's showing was such that Dempsey invited him to dinner."

Schmeling's principal bouts in this country have been a nine round knock out of Johnny Risko, which gave him his first serious recognition, a ten round decision over Paulino Uscudun, both of these bouts in 1929, and his battle against Jack Sharkey a year ago in which he won the title on a foul in the fourth round. He has not fought since that time.

you allee samee champion of the world with secret punch."

Then Fooey would tap me on this nerve, the location of which I naturally am not likely to prematurely reveal, although I wouldn't mind the fans knowing it if it were not for the danger of my opponent stumbling on the guard for it. Many times I found myself suddenly thrown absolutely prone in the twinkling of an eye, and, although I knew what was going on and was not in any pain whatsoever, I could not get up from my prostrate position for ten seconds. Finally I learned to use it myself and Fooey used to let me knock him prostrate with it, sometimes just to encourage me. Then he showed me the way to guard against it, and after that I could never knock him prostrate again, but neither could he knock me prostrate, either.

Reserves Punch for Title Bout.

Poor Fooey, he is now gathered to the great spirit now and I suppose he is strolling down some apple blossom lane in the Elysian fields with the sweet romance scent of the apple blossoms reviving young love with his beloved geisha fiancée. I have never used this punch in the ring because old Fooey made me promise on his death bed that I would never use it except for the highest titular honor that can come to crown a man's life work in the realm of fistiana, the heavyweight championship of the world.

So, as I go into the ring Friday evening in Cleveland before one of the most elite and refined gatherings of the wealthiest governors, bankers, railroad presidents and fashionable brokers with their wives, that ever attended an encounter of the boxing science, you may see my lips move in a silent, reverent word of homage to one who I will always remember. And that word will be:

"Fooey."

7—New York, June 30.—[Special.]—Flying Heels, the colt which as a juvenile had the distinction of beginning and ending his racing year with Futurity victories, today at Aqueduct added the Carter handicap, worth $7,400, to his mounting score of winnings which now stands above $100,000. He bore the colors of John J. Curtis, a comparative newcomer to racing, who acquired the son of the Derby winner, Flying Ebony, and the good mare Heel Taps at the recent dispersal sale of the Gifford A. Cochran string.

It was for Mr. Cochran in 1929 that Flying Heels started out with a victory in the Tia Juana Futurity and ended the season with a nose victory over Spinach in the Pimlico Futurity. Today he had four lengths the best of Joseph E. Widner's Mr. Sponge which just got up in the last sixteenth to take the place by a head from George D. Widner's Hi Jack. Then in order finished Arab, Beau Jolie, and Polygamous.

Flying Heels won the Carter last year in 1:24 2-5 under 118 pounds, and his improvement as a 4 year old may be noted from the fact that he raced today under 125 pounds and finished the seven furlongs in 1:24 1-5. Charlie Kurtsinger was the winning rider and he could afford to look back in the stretch at the struggle of the others.

Balko, top weight of the field with 133 pounds, was scratched, leaving Hi Jack's impost of 128 the greatest. The dash was a contest between the high weights, for Mr. Sponge's 116 pounds was third highest after Hi Jack and Flying Heels. Mr. Sponge ran a game race after being away none too well.

Court Releases Kearns from Divorce Attachment

The Appellate court issued a supersedeas yesterday releasing Jack Kearns, fight manager, from the attachment issued for his arrest because of his refusal to pay $500 a month temporary alimony to Mrs. Legana Kearns. She has a bill for divorce pending, while Kearns contends that they never were legally married. The supersedeas operates until the Appellate court rules on Kearns' appeal from the order of Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude, who issued the attachment for his arrest.

18 WILL START IN ARLINGTON'S RICH HYDE PARK STAKE

The best 3 year old field to go to the post in America this year will clash in the $10,000 added Hyde Park stakes at Arlington this afternoon.

Twenty-six were named overnight. The stake will gross $24,200 if 20 go to the post. There was every indication that more than 18 will face Starter Dickerson.

Osculator, which won the National stallion stakes at Belmont and the Great American at Aqueduct last Saturday, will run with Jambalaya as the W. R. Coe entry. Osculator has beaten every good colt brought out in the east this season. He is a son of Pompey and his grandparents were Sun Briar and Cleopatra.

Proteus, the western juvenile champion; Sun's Son, the California champion; The Bull, a star in the Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney stable; Americana and Phantom Legion, from the east, are others which will have a following. The field, arranged in the order of post positions, follows:

Twenty Grand, Kentucky Derby and Belmont Stakes winner, will leave New York Sunday morning for Arlington Park. The Mrs. Helen Hay Whitney stable will travel west in two cars. Besides Twenty Grand, the party will include Surf Board, Anchors Aweigh, St. Brideaux, Mokatam, and a flock of home bred 2 year olds. James Rowe will be in charge of the shipment and Jockey Charley Kurtsinger is coming along to do the riding.

Spanish Play, which won a Louisiana Derby at Jefferson Park in March and the Latonia Derby last Saturday, got back yesterday. So did Joey Bibb, one of the contenders in the American Derby, but a flop at Latonia.

BETTY NUTHALL IS BEATEN BY HELEN JACOBS

BY EUGENE SPECK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WIMBLEDON, England, June 30.—Helen Jacobs of the United States removed England's last hope of a women's championship in the annual Wimbledon tennis tournament today by eliminating Miss Betty Nuthall in straight sets in the quarter finals.

The scores were 6-2, 6-3.

The victory reversed the Paris championships, overthrew the holder of the American title, and gave the crowd the bitterest dose it has had this year. Germany and France also carried on and tonight not a single British entrant is left for the semi-finals.

Franlein Krahwinkel of Germany next disposed of Doris Round, 7-5 and 6-3, and then, just as the galleries had fastened its hope on the 18 year old Peggy Scriven, who won her first set from Mme. Mathieu, the little girl weakened and the French woman took the match, 1-6, 6-2, and 7-5.

The semi-final bracket will be completed tomorrow in a match between Cilly Aussem of Germany and Mlle. Louise Payot of Switzerland. Mme. Mathieu plays the winner of this match and Miss Jacobs meets Fraulein Krahwinkel.

Helen Jacobs never played better tennis than she did today. Miss Nuthall won just 16 points in the first set and only 23 in the second. Conceded an advantage in service, she was no match for Helen at the net.

Great Britain's day was made worse by the doubles defeat Frank Shields and Syd Wood inflicted on J. C. Gregory and I. G. Collins by 3-6, 6-3, 3-6, 6-4 and 6-3.

George Lott and Johnny Van Ryn beat B. Dekehrling and H. W. Artens, 6-3, 6-2 and 8-6. Mrs. Harper and Mrs. John Van Ryn climbed up a notch in the women's doubles by a 3-6, 6-1, 6-3 victory over Mrs. A. D. Stocks and Miss Norah Lyle.

DAN O'LEARY, 92, CELEBRATES BY HIKING 102 MILES

Chester, Pa., June 30.—(AP)—Dan O'Leary was 92 years old Monday so he went for his annual stroll.

He left the Jersey City post office, 102 miles away and arrived at the post office here today, 24 and a half hours later, a half hour longer than it took him for the same distance on his 91st birthday.

"The autos, traffic and heat held me up," O'Leary said. "If it hadn't been for those three I'd have done it in less than that."

The aged pedestrian was paced by seven young men who worked by shifts and complained of their feet after matching pace for pace with the veteran.

British Ryder Cup Team Will Play at Bryn Mawr

The British Ryder cup team, which was defeated in its matches with the American team at Columbus last week, will endeavor to regain its prestige in a series of matches against a picked team of Chicago professionals at the Bryn Mawr Country club Sunday afternoon.

Five best ball foursomes will be played by the stars, who will proceed to Chicago immediately after the National Open at Toledo Saturday. The entire British team will be on hand for the competition here, the ten players being headed by Charles Whitcombe, captain and veteran of three British Ryder cup matches.

A strong team of Chicago pros has been picked to meet the visitors. Al Espinosa will captain the home team, the other members of which are Harry Cooper, Glen Oak; Harry Hampton, Beverly; Eddie Loos, Lake Shore; Bob McDonald, unattached; Laurie Ayton, Evanston; Abe Espinosa, Medinah; Jock Hutchinson, Glenview; Frank Walsh, Bryn Mawr, and George Smith.

W. H. Davies, the British star who defeated Johnny Farrell, 4 and 3, in the Ryder cup matches, is paired with his captain, Charles Whitcombe, against Laurie Ayton and Abe Espinosa. The other pairings are:

Archie Compston and S. R. Esterbrook vs. Harry Cooper and George Smith.
Bert Hodson and Fred Robson vs. Harry Hampton and Eddie Loos.
Abe Mitchell and E. R. Whitcomb vs. Al Espinosa and Bob McDonald.
Arthur Havers and George Duncan vs. Jock Hutchinson and Frank Walsh.

4,000 CATHOLIC YOUTH ENROLL FOR PLAY COURSE

Approximately 4,000 children will begin six weeks' study in recreation at four community centers next Tuesday, the opening day of the second annual Holy Spirit Vacation courses sponsored by the Catholic Youth Organization.

The courses will be held at St. Francis Assisi parish, 12th and Newberry; All Saints, 25th place and Wallace; Holy Name cathedral, State and Superior streets, and St. Rose of Lima, 47th and Ashland. Rt. Rev. B. J. Sheil, D. D., auxiliary bishop of Chicago, will be in charge.

Children will be divided into three groups, according to age, for the studies in manual training, toy building, gymnastics, scout craft, athletics, religion, domestic science, dancing, art, health, and singing. The keynote of the entire course is play. Attendance is not compulsory at any of the classes.

Trips to nearby lakes, recreation centers and scenic spots are being planned as inducements for attendance. The courses are indorsed by Cardinal Mundelein.

HORNSBY'S BOSS; HE'LL STAY BOSS, WRIGLEY SAYS

of $150,000 and two players was the bait.

"And I believe we would have landed the player if President William Baker hadn't died," added Wrigley.

Another who came close to getting himself togged out in a Cubs' uniform last winter was Red Lucas, the Cincinnati pitcher and all around handy man. The Cubs wanted him and made a bid. This was rumored at the time. The Cincinnati owner thought it was a swell idea but he asked $250,000 and the Cubs quit negotiating.

Wrigley tactfully avoided any hint that there might have been any discussions by him, Hornsby and President William Veeck about what should be done next fall with the present good time Charlies if they don't mend their ways.

"If any of the men are sent away it will be because Hornsby thinks he doesn't need them," he said. "Hornsby is the manager even though some insist he takes orders from the office. Naturally he consults Veeck and me in important moves, but there is no interference. I put him in there as manager because I felt he knew how to run a ball team and I still believe he is equal to the task.

"Nobody ever thought up the story of front office interference while Joe McCarthy was manager. There wasn't any and it's the same now."

AUTO DEATHS UP 30 PER CENT; GUN KILLINGS DOUBLE

Coroner Submits Record for Six Months.

Automobile deaths in Cook county increased 30 per cent in the first six months of 1931 as compared with the corresponding period in 1930. At the same time gun killings increased 107 per cent. This was revealed yesterday by Coroner Herman N. Bundesen.

Three deaths yesterday raised the total Cook county motor toll to 562. The victims:

Robert Murphy, 61 years old, 6621 South Seeley avenue. Died in the Washburn hospital of auto injuries received March 13.

Alvin Manning, 25 years old, 1437 West Cullerton street, died at the Illinois Central hospital last evening after having been struck at 55th street and the outer drive by a car driven by George Koupal, 2318 South Kedzie avenue. Koupal was held.

Unidentified man, about 45 years old, struck and killed by a hit-and-run auto last night at Western avenue and Polk street. The man had alighted from a street car and was crossing the street when struck by the automobile which continued northward without stopping.

Coroner Submits Record.

Monthly statistics on automobile deaths for the first six months of 1930 and 1931, as prepared by the coroner, are as follows:

	1930.	1931.
January	55	113
February	64	95
March	66	89
April	79	98
May	75	96
June	87	91
Totals	426	562

The increase in motor deaths in 1931 was attributed largely to the mild winter. Records of the coroner's office disclose accidents tend to increase in weather favorable for driving.

Figures on Killings.

	1930.	1931.
January	20	32
February	11	43
March	15	36
April	18	43
May	19	39
June	30	43
Totals	103	214

The figures include murders and justifiable homicides, the killing of a bandit by a citizen or policeman or killing in self defense. A large percentage of the 1931 increase is due to war on crime, the coroner said.

The total of deaths by guns in Cook county for 1931 is 317 as against 202 in the first six months of 1930. These are swelled from the homicide figures by 34 gun suicides in 1930 and 99 in 1931.

G. B. S. TO VISIT RED RUSSIA; WHY? HE DOESN'T KNOW

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 30.—George Bernard Shaw, who is, among other things, a communist, plans to visit soviet Russia. The dramatist deplores the fact that he has only been able to visit capitalistic countries, and thinks he ought to see Russia before he dies.

"Why shouldn't I go to Russia?" he said. "If I had given the slightest thought to the trip I don't think I would take it. It is the worst season in years, and I am sure I will be everything but comfortable.

"When I have been there I will, perhaps, be able to tell you why I went. At least I will know then what I got out of the visit. For the moment I have no definite object in going. But after all I want to see Russia before I die. I have been only in capitalistic countries, and it would surely be interesting to see a communist country."

Three children, Mrs. Lucy Avery and Emery Washburn of Burbank, Calif., and Mrs. Anderson, survive. Another son, William D. Washburn, a Chicago attorney, died two years ago.

SOUND AND ITS ECHO VISIBLE ON CAMERA SCREEN

Takes 40,000 Pictures Per Second.

New York, June 30.—(AP)—Sound and even its echo made visible by a camera taking 40,000 pictures a second were exhibited on a movie screen tonight to army and navy ballistics and aviation experts.

The picture was part of an exhibition of air movements, ordinarily invisible, at the New York Museum of Science and Industry.

On the screen the sound was a moving shadow, behaving much like the waves that come from dropping a pebble into water. This sound was produced by an electric spark in a transparent, oily liquid. Before the sound nothing was to be seen on the screen except a dark spot, which was the spark apparatus and the outline of the glass vessel holding the liquid.

Too Rapid for Eye.

The effect of the spark was to compress the invisible particles in contact with it. This momentary change in their compression altered the angle of the light rays shining through them. Such an alteration ordinarily is invisible, being too rapid for the eye. But at 40,000 pictures a second, the light changes showed plainly as shadows ranging from a smoky looking line to occasional blackness. This shadow at the start always was ring shaped, widening rapidly.

All the sounds were made in glass containers so that when the widening ring reached the glass walls it rebounded. This rebound also could be seen plainly. Actually it was the picture of an echo.

In some of these pictures the original sound bounded to and fro as many as twenty times, in the form of reverberations, before the shadow faded from view. Queer patterns these echoing sounds made. Some were a fretwork of moving angles and squares; others circular or eggshaped; and some like cloudlets in the sky. The shapes depended on the form of the walls from which the sounds echoed.

Phenomenon of Whisper.

One picture showed the famous phenomenon of the whisper, which when breathed at the right spot in a great auditorium, can be heard at a certain place on the opposite side, but nowhere in between.

In this picture the container was elliptical. The sound was produced near one end of the ellipse, actually at one focus. The ring of sound traveled so that at the opposite focus the wave, instead of spreading in every direction, reversed itself and contracted until it was just a dark spot, no bigger than the original spark. At that dark spot the whisper can be heard.

The pictures were taken with the ultra-rapid camera designed by Baron Shiba in the Japanese Imperial institute in Tokio. They are made by producing 40,000 intense flashes of light per second in front of a moving film and lens.

PAIR ACQUITTED OF MURDER OF VIVIAN GORDON

Greenberg Kisses Jury That Freed Him.

New York, June 30.—[Special.]—After only three and a half hours' deliberation a jury in the Bronx Supreme court today absolved Harry Stein and Samuel Greenburg of the charge of murdering Vivian Gordon, Broadway butterfly, found strangled to death in Van Cortland park last spring.

SAMUEL GREENBERG.

Greenburg was so overjoyed at the verdict that he insisted on kissing each juror as they filed in coatless array out of the box. He followed them out a free man, but his pal, Stein, was held for another trial on a robbery charge.

The state's star witness was one, Harry Schlitten, a chauffeur, who testified that he was employed to drive the car in which the two defendants took the beauty for a drive and in which they strangled her on the way through the park.

CHICAGO STOCKS YIELD MORE OF RECENT ADVANCE

..ocess Corp. Shares in 3 Point Gain.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Stocks sweated through another session on the Chicago exchange yesterday giving up a bit more of the price accumulation of the last ten days. The market pursued a zig-zag course during the day and when the session ended buyers were getting the concessions which were slight enough in most instances.

The crucial stage reached in the international debt negotiations failed to bring out any important volume of selling. The financial community continues to display outward confidence that a program containing the essentials of President Hoover's plan will be agreed upon in the near future.

Further Steel Recession.

The report of a further recession of steel activity in the Chicago district was rather disconcerting to those looking for a further rise in prices. Street sentiment continues moderately bullish, however, with many brokers advising caution pending news from abroad.

The net price changes in Chicago stocks in most cases did not exceed a point or so. Nearly all the active stocks shared in the recession.

One or two issues were able to move up in defiance of the general trend. One of these was Process corporation which pushed ahead nearly 3 points to 6¾ on the first important movement in the issue in several weeks. Ironically enough, this is an off season for the firm, whose main activity is the manufacture and distribution of Christmas and greeting cards.

The movement in the stock was purely technical. With a minimum of offerings the stock moved up easily on trades involving 550 shares. Officials of the company, however, feel that the company is in a better position to make a favorable earnings showing this year. In 1930 the firm reported net profit of $37,581.

Statement About Bendix.

The recent strength and activity in Bendix prompts the following from a house in touch with the company; "Very rigid economies have been inaugurated and the 1931 program as outlined by the company calls for a development of an intensive sales program to secure new accounts for products now being manufactured. Through a new subsidiary, is the intention of the company to carry out the development of new products and improve on the present ones. . . . The present divided of $1 a share promises to be continued indefinitely, with an excellent possibility that the old $2 rate will be restored with the coming year."

The monthly report on sales by the exchange shows a total of 2,937,000 shares traded in during the month as compared with 8,236,100 shares in the corresponding month a year ago, and 3,167,000 in June, 1929. Par value of bonds traded in during the month was $1,013,000, against $3,153,000 last year, and $351,000 in the corresponding period of 1929.

CHICAGO BOARD OF TRADE STOCKS

Stocks were lower at the close of a rather dull day of trading yesterday. Electric Bond and Share was off 1⅞ and Standard had a net loss of ½. Allied Mills retired 52,305 shares of common stock, leaving 903,740 shares outstanding. Total sales of securities on the Board of Trade for the month were 153,651 shares, having a monetary value of $3,325,00.

Board of Trade directors yesterday voted to de-list U. S. Cold Storage shares. This was one of the first stocks listed when the grain board began trading in securities.

LOOK TO FUTURE AS YEAR ATTAINS HALFWAY MARK

Business Sentiment More Cheerful.

BY O. A. MATHER.

American business and industry start out on the second half of the year today. While forecasts vary widely, it is on the score of how much general conditions will improve. Sentiment is undoubtedly more cheerful, with the belief commonly expressed that the bottom of depression has been passed, and that improvement is in order.

Conservative Chicago financiers predict gradual and steady improvement. They believe such a prospect is in line with the progress made in the last six months. But they hope for even greater improvement next autumn and next year than they are willing to look for at the present time. This view is based on the fact that money is abnormally plentiful and cheap, and that the long decline in commodity prices apparently is at an end or close at hand.

Reynolds Gives Viewpoint.

"We do know that there is a vast amount of money in the country awaiting both investment and purchasing," said Reynolds, chairman of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, said yesterday. "We do know that the country really needs a vast amount of goods for replacements. There is plenty of purchasing power, but it has been dammed back pending stability of commodity prices. People always want to be sure they are getting the full worth of their money. If commodity prices in the last fortnight have reversed their long decline, and if now they become stable or even stronger, we may expect a resumption of purchasing. It would also appear that public sentiment is undergoing a change for the better. Whether the proposal of President Hoover for a war debt holiday is accepted entirely or in modified form, its plan has caused a much more cheerful sentiment throughout the world. And at the present time all that is needed is some event or influence to complete the change in public sentiment and start the ball rolling toward recovery."

Carloadings Increase.

There were several bits of news yesterday pointing to improvement in trade. The weekly report of the railroad movement of commodities was one such straw in the wind. Loading of revenue freight for the week ended June 20 totaled 739,116 cars, an increase of 4,983 over the preceding week, although a decline of 181,529 cars from the corresponding week in 1930.

A number of lines in the packing industry also showed improvement last month, according to the Institute of American Meat Packers. Cattle and hog prices advanced from the low levels of May as the result of a better consumer demand for pork and lard. The hide and leather industry improved and there was a firmer demand for meat products.

There also was adverse news, however. The steel industry is in the summer doldrums, with steel ingot production down to an average of 36 per cent of capacity, according to the American Metal Market. This marks a decline of three points in the last week and of six points in the last five weeks.

BILLS TREASURY BILLS

Another illustration of the vast amount of money seeking short term investments was afforded yesterday when the United States government broke up another record for economical financing. It sold approximately $100,000,000 of treasury bills at so small a discount as to afford an annual yield of only about five-eighths of 1 per cent, based on a bank discount basis.

The offering was divided into two series, one being for 90 days and the other for 91 days. Like other issues of treasury bills, the current obligations bear no interest, but are sold on a discount basis to the highest bidders. The total amount of bills applied for exceeded $281,000,000, but allotments were only $100,076,000. Bids for the $50,000,000 ninety day bills ranged from 99.833 to 99.848, while bids for the $50,050,000 ninety-one day bills ranged from 99.835 to 99.850.

Advances in Commodity Prices Exceed Declines

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 30.—The wholesale price index of the National Fertilizer association for the week ended June 27 rose two fractional points from the previous week. This is the second week in June that an advance has been reported.

The index June 27 stands at 88.7 as compared with 88.5 the preceding week.

During the week 23 commodities advanced and 19 showed declines. Among the important commodities that advanced were cotton, cotton yarn, silk, lard, butter, raw sugar, pork, light weight hogs, copper, lead, zinc, silver, petroleum, coffee, cottonseed meal, and rubber. Among the declining commodities were wool, potatoes, apples, wheat, cattle, heavy hogs, rosin, turpentine, calcium cyanamid, and gasoline.

Farm Prices Recede.

The general level of farm prices dropped to the lowest point on record [1910-1931] during the thirty day period from May 15 to June 15, the department of agriculture announced today, when on the latter date the index was only 80 per cent of the pre-war level. On June 15, the department said, the index was 6 points below the level of May 15 and 43 points lower than a year ago.

The principal reason for the 6 point drop during the month was attributed to lower prices of all agricultural commodities except apples, eggs, and chickens. June 15 indices of prices of farm products by groups showed the following declines from May 15: Cotton and cottonseed, 9 points; meat animals, 8 points; grains, 7 points; fruits and vegetables, 5 points, and dairy products, 5 points. The index of farm prices of poultry and poultry products advanced 4 points during the period.

All Below Year Ago.

Price indices for these groups were all considerably below those of a year ago. Fruits and vegetables were 79 points lower; the indices for both meat animals and cottonseed, 50 points down; grains, down 237 points; dairy products, 32 points, and poultry and poultry products, 22 points.

The June 15 farm price of wheat averaged 51.9 cents a bushel, a decline of 13 per cent since May 15, and of approximately 41 per cent since June 15, 1930.

Broadly considered, commodity prices during the last month have continued to gravitate toward slightly lower levels, a survey by Standard Statistics company says. "At the same time," the survey adds, "a counter tendency of resistance to decline has been registered in an increasing number of individual instances, and half of forty-four important items are currently slightly above the lows of the last two months. This tendency has been fairly well distributed throughout the list."

HEAR ANACONDA COPPER PLANS 50 MILLION ISSUE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 30.—[Special.]—The first important industrial financing to follow the revival of interest in securities is expected to be a $50,000,000 note issue of the Anaconda Copper company.

The National City company has headed past syndicates underwriting Anaconda Copper issues, but at the offices of the bank today nothing could be learned of the proposed new issue. An inquiry at the office of John D. Ryan, chairman of the board of the Anaconda company, elicited the reply that "Mr. Ryan has nothing to say."

It is believed that with a more stabilized copper market the Anaconda Copper Mining company may decide that this is a good time to sell short term notes. There is a good market for notes at this time. The report that this financing would be arranged as soon as conditions warranted it has been in circulation in Wall street for several months. One report had it that Anaconda would sell a convertible bond issue.

Nor'west Bancorporation Nets $1.25 Share in 5 Mos.

The Northwest Bancorporation yesterday reported operating income for the first five months of the year of $2,100,000, equivalent to $1.25 a share, or 70 per cent of dividend requirements for the entire year. Comparable figures for last year are not available, but during the full fiscal period the company earned $6,744,007, or $3.20 a share.

EVANSTON BANK MERGER TAKES EFFECT TODAY

Consolidation of two Evanston banks was announced last night. The City National Bank and Trust company acquired the Central State bank, thereby assuming the deposit liabilities and taking over the business of the latter institution. The merger resulted from negotiations under way for some time and was accomplished with the assistance of the Evanston Clearing House association.

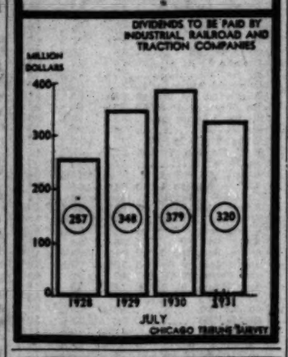
The consolidation will give the City National Bank and Trust company total resources of nearly $9,000,000. The bank's statement on March 25, the date of the last official report, showed total resources of $7,903,000, with deposits of $6,854,000; capital of $300,000 and surplus and undivided profits of $531,000. The Central State bank had total resources of $1,044,000, with deposits of $868,000; capital of $100,000 and surplus and undivided profits of $44,000.

Effective today, the business of the Central State bank will be conducted in the banking quarters of the City National Bank and Trust company. Charles N. Stevens is president of the bank, while W. L. McKay has been president of the Central State bank.

General American Tank Car Gets Navy Contract

Washington, June 30.—(AP)—The general American Tank corporation of Chicago today was awarded a navy contract totaling $201,000 for six hellum tank cars. The new cars will enable the navy to take care of the requirements of the dirigible Akron, which soon will be completed.

DIVIDENDS TO BE PAID IN JULY WILL BE LARGER THAN IN 1928



Ten Years Ago in Finance

George E. Roberts, vice president of the National City bank of New York, denied that the wealth of America was increased by the world war. "The United States," he said, "was growing in wealth prior to the war, but the war checked its growth. After America's entrance into the conflict the country suffered and now is experiencing idle industries, depression, unemployment, forced bankruptcies and reaction costing an immeasurable amount."

Chicago bank clearings for June were $2,105,603,263, a decline of $24,469,077 from the May total and of $629,725,814 from the June, 1920, total.

Crude oil production in the United States for the week ended June 25 was 1,316,000 barrels, compared with 1,339,000 barrels for the previous week.

The stock market rebels against a new tariff bill putting up higher barriers against the importation of European goods. The insertion of a 35 cents a barrel duty on oil precipitates the break in which Mexican Petroleum shares dropped 14 points. A rally in the railroad section of the list later checked the reaction.

Car loadings for the week are reported to be 8,256 less than the total of 780,741 reported in the previous week.

S. L. Castle Will Manage National City Office Here

Sidney L. Castle, formerly vice president in the investment banking house of Lane, Roloson & Co., has become associated with the National City company as Chicago manager effective today.

In returning to the National City company, Mr. Castle resumes an association which started in 1917, when he was employed as a salesman. Later, Mr. Castle was appointed district sales manager in Minneapolis and on April 24, 1924, he was transferred to the Chicago office as assistant general sales manager.

June Dividend Casualties Reach High Point of Year

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 30.—Dividend casualties during June were larger than in any previous month this year, with a total of 173 omitted or deferred and 157 reduced, making the total number of instances of unfavorable action 335. The June changes brought to 1,238 the number of dividends either cut or omitted so far this year. Of that total 724 were omissions, while 514 were cuts.

On the other hand, initial dividends have been declared on twenty stocks this month, and increased payments were ordered on twelve. So far this year initial dividend payments have been ordered on ninety-nine stocks, while increases have been made in the case of seventy-four. In addition extra dividends to the number of seventy-two have been declared, while liquidating, interim, and accumulated dividend payments have amounted to twenty-two. Dividends also have been resumed in seven cases this month and in twenty-five instances so far this year. Altogether favorable dividend action has been taken on 292 stocks this year.

Banks Pay Extras.

In the majority of cases the extra dividend payments have been made on bank stocks rather than industrial, utility, or railroad shares.

Dividend changes this month and each of the other five months of the year are given in the following table, the figures for the first five months being those compiled by the Fitch Publishing company, while those for June are preliminary statistics:

Reduces Annual Rate.

The Royal Typewriter company today declared a semi-annual dividend of $1 a share on the common stock, reducing the annual rate from $3 to $2. Brewing Corporation of Canada, Ltd., omitted the quarterly 62½ cents a share due on its cumulative preferred stock.

Canadian Foreign Investment Corporation, Ltd., controlling Brazilian Portland Cement company, declared a quarterly dividend of $2 a share on its cumulative preferred stock for the quarter ending last Dec. 31. This dividend was deferred last October because of the uncertain Brazilian outlook. Since then there has been improvement in the business of its subsidiary.

Cleveland Tractor company omitted the 20 cents quarterly dus on its common. Southern Ice company omitted the $1.75 a share quarterly due on the class A preferred stock. Citizens Gas Company of Indianapolis declared the first dividend on its common since June, 1930, the payment amounting to $2.08 1-3 a share.

Slack Demand Results in Easing of Copper Prices

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 30.—Slack demand today resulted in an easing of copper prices from the high of 9 cents reached yesterday on the recent upward movements. Only 2,300,000 pounds more were taken for foreign account, against the recent demand, which had been exceeding 10,000,000 pounds a day, and prices ranged from 8¾ to 8½ cents a pound. The slack demand is believed to have been "influenced by adjournment of conferences of producers looking toward extension of curtailment agreements. It was reported that Belgian interests again refused to join the United States in curbing output.

SILK TRADING.

The volume of trading on the National Raw Silk exchange for the week ended June 26 amounted to 12,810 bales, the largest weekly turnover since the opening of the exchange. The total volume for the period, aggregating 24,910 bales, is 2,650 bales ahead of the similar period last year.

News and Gossip of Stock Marts

Activity in Oils.

When oil and water try to mix these days the holders of oil shares skim the cream. Reports of water infiltration into the East Texas Oil area, a decline in output for the country in the last week and progress on Texas curtailment plans were responsible for activity in the oil share market. Most oil stocks were better than the general market. The feeling seems to be growing that the autumn may bring a much improved oil share market.

Aids Parker Rust Proof.

The announcement that the Plymouth Motor Car company has adopted the Parkelite process of Parker Rust Proof company for its new cars has again centered interest in the shares of the latter company. The process is said to improve the body finish and effect economies in body manufacturing costs. Parker Rust Proof is currently selling about midway between its high and low for the year.

Passes Dividend.

Passing of the dividend on the shares of Cleveland Tractor had been indicated by the recent quotations on the stock, which showed a yield of above 14 per cent. The dividend disbursements had been pared in January to an 80 cent basis from a previous rate of $1.60. Earnings in the fiscal year ended Sept. 30, 1930, equaled $3.05 a common share, against $4.41 in the previous year.

ADD MORE LAND TO COUNTY BELT OF FOREST PARKS

Six Parcels Acquired at Cost of $64,827.

BY AL CHASE.

Real estate parcels aggregating in cost $64,827 have just been acquired by the forest preserve district of Cook county, according to the county recorder's office. The largest of the properties is a five acre timber lot in Robbins's reserve, south of Irving Park boulevard and east of the Des Plaines river. This was purchased from William Rohde for an indicated $5,200.

In Riverside township two adjoining lots on Forest avenue drive, a serving road near the zoo, were acquired from Frank W. Shieve for an indicated $11,000 and from Michael M. Zins for $14,250.

Bay River Grove Property.

In Leyden township two adjoining lots on the east side of River terrace, south of Grand avenue, in River Grove, were purchased from Richard B. Stenbel for $12,377 and from Nils A. Olsen for $9,000.

The trustees purchased from Fletcher C. James a parcel 150x200 in Wayne township on the north side of Grand road one quarter of a mile east of the Des Plaines river for an indicated $13,000.

Barron G. Collier, Inc., street car advertising agency, has leased nearly all of the north wing of the fourteenth floor of the Chicago Civic Opera building, to which it will move from 231 South La Salle street.

Buys Wilmette Residence.

Ray E. McIlrath, auditor for the Tuason and Aragon ballrooms, has purchased the two story residence at 1009 Highland avenue, Wilmette, from Julia Kern and Nellie L. Norrington for an undisclosed consideration, Viola E. Smith of Real Estate Service, Inc., represented all parties.

Arend Brothers, general contractors, have begun work on four bungalows in the northwest side from plans by Dewey & Pavlovich, architects. These five room homes will occupy sites on Mansfield, Marmona, Mason and Moody avenues, near Peterson avenue, and are reported to cost approximately $7,500 each.

RAIL RATE CUT DUE TO FOLLOW JUDGES' ORDER

New low freight rates on western railroads will be put into effect within a week as a result of an order entered in the federal court yesterday dissolving a temporary injunction restraining the interstate commerce commission from enforcing the rates.

The order was entered by Appellate Judge William M. Sparks and District Judges Walter C. Lindley and Charles E. Woodward. They found that the commerce commission had not gone beyond the scope of the interstate commerce laws in ordering the new rates, which were designed as a firm relief measure. The temporary injunction was obtained by a number of the western carriers soon after the commission announced the new schedule.

R. S. Outlaw, attorney for the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé railroad, said that the new rates would be put into effect within a week.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 9,000; hogs, 18,000; sheep, 11,000.

The heat wave, the principal adverse factor in the live stock markets at present, was intense again yesterday and all classes and grades met narrow outlet at weak to lower prices. Hogs and lambs suffered most loss, with some extremely heavy "lard" hogs almost unsalable. Packers report a narrow outlet for all fresh meats, but a pre-holiday improvement in demand for cured and smoked meats.

A few fancy yearling steers held almost steady at the opening, but medium and weighty stock lost 15@25c more. Combined receipts of live stock were below normal. The twenty leading markets handled 167,000 cattle hogs and sheep against 210,000 last Tuesday.

Hog receipts at Chicago at 19,000, the smallest Tuesday total in four weeks, were augmented by 9,000 carried over from the preceding session and greatly exceeded immediate requirements of the trade. Prices dropped mostly 10@25c, although unevenness ranged from steady to 35c lower.

The top dropped 20c at $7.25, while the general average came down 15c at $6.15, showing $1.10 "spread," the widest on record for this time of year, with only two exceptions. Early last week the spread was 70c and three weeks ago the two prices were 35c apart. Many loads of heavy packing hogs went over unsold yesterday. Most of the 7,000 estimated left consisted of weighty stock. Outside demand was narrower than usual for Tuesday and city butchers that deal mostly in fresh pork carried some of the smallest orders of the year.

Summer Hogs Lower.

Light weight hogs for delivery during July, August and September were bid 25c less on yesterday's futures market, but offers were held almost steady. Buyers and sellers were 75c to $1.00 apart in their views at the close. September light were offered at $8.25, but highest bids on all summer contracts stopped at $7.25. Mediums for September were offered at $8.00 and bid $7.25, while heavy for the same month were also bid $7.25 and offered at $8.00. December contracts will be open for trading today. On the "to arrive" market, light weights for today's delivery were bid $7.00.

One of the smallest cattle supplies in recent years for Tuesday, 4,500 head, proved too much for the trade yesterday and further concessions were necessary before offerings could be moved. The trade for some time during the forenoon was practically at a standstill.

The stifling heat caused cattle to drink freely and packers were in no hurry to buy, but "fills" were no greater than any time in the last week. Cows and heifers were particularly dull at the decline. A shipment of fancy yearling steers from territory a short distance west of Chicago topped the market at $8.50. They averaged only 887 lbs. Few heavy steers passed $7.00. Calves ruled weak to lower.

Lambs Off $3.00 in Month.

In less than a month's time the lamb market has dropped fully $3.00, top kinds sharing in the full reductions. Yesterday's losses of 15@25c brought prices $1.00 under the high point of last week and sorting lately is more severe.

Twelve carloads of western range lambs were sorted at $7.40@7.50. Aged sheep and yearlings shared in the price cuts, some old ewes going to new low levels for all time. Although eastern demand is usually narrow in June, the month's shipments this year were far below normal, while receipts were larger.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 8,000 cattle, 18,000 hogs and 11,000 sheep, against 9,707 cattle, 19,383 hogs and 12,377 sheep, the previous Wednesday and 7,272 cattle, 17,426 hogs and 11,536 sheep a year ago.

BALDWIN LOCOMOTIVE GETS $3,000,000 ORDER FROM WESTINGHOUSE

New York, June 30.—(AP)—The Baldwin Locomotive works has received an order from Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company to build mechanical parts for 54 heavy electric passenger locomotives for the Pennsylvania railroad. The parts will be fabricated and assembled by Baldwin at its Eddystone plant and moved to the Westinghouse plant at Lester, Pa. The value of the order is placed at somewhat in excess of $3,000,000. Construction will start late in the fall.

Arthur G. McKee & Co., engineers and contractors of Cleveland, have obtained a contract for the construction of a cracking unit for the Kendall Refining company, Bradford, Pa. The unit, which will cost $250,000, will increase the cracking capacity of the company's refinery by 1,250 barrels daily.

DEMAND FOR OIL LOWERS STOCKS DESPITE OUTPUT

Washington, D. C., June 30.—(AP)—The commerce department announced today that crude oil production increased 52,000 barrels a day during May but that the demand was such that at the end of the month stocks had dropped 31,000 barrels below the April total.

The increase, which came despite proration agreements in many fields and restriction agreements by importers, was credited largely to the east Texas field. That field increased its daily average output from 251,000 barrels to 308,000. Most of the increase was due to completion of 274 new wells.

Daily Production Eases.

New York, June 30.—(AP)—Daily average gross crude oil production in the United States decreased 40,400 barrels in the week ended June 27, totaling 2,441,950 barrels, the American Petroleum institute's weekly summary indicates. Daily average production east of California decreased 28,800 barrels to 1,932,450.

Refineries representing 94.7 per cent of estimated total capacity, operated at 66.3 per cent of their capacity, reported daily average runs of crude oil to stills as 2,146,900 barrels. Daily average the previous week for refineries representing 94.7 per cent of total, operated at 66.8 per cent of capacity, was 2,434,100 barrels. Gasoline stocks at these refineries were 41,858,000 barrels against 42,300,000 barrels in the preceding week.

Milwaukee Firm in Line for Federal Tax Refund

Washington, D. C., June 30.—(AP)—An overassessment of $316,804 against the Pfister and Vogel Leather company of Milwaukee for 1918 and 1919 was reported to the joint congressional tax committee today by the internal revenue bureau. Two other overcharges, which may be adjusted by refund, rebate or credit, were $178,964, against the estate of Peter Soden, Kansas City, Mo., for 1921, and $79,553 against the estate of Baruch Mahler, Cleveland Heights, O., for 1924.

COTTON HAS SETBACK

Lower Liverpool cables, with a weaker stock market, combined with the refusal of France to accept the Hoover settlement plan, helped bring lower prices in all cotton markets yesterday. The close was around the inside of the day, with futures in Chicago 10@20 points net lower on the active trading futures. New Orleans lost 14@16 points, and New York 12@19 points. Spots were off 10 points in New York to 9.95c, with New Orleans 15 points lower at 9.75c, while Galveston was 9.90c and Houston 9.75c. Liverpool finished 10@11 points net lower with spot sales 5,000 bales.

The Fairchild Cotton Service forecasts a crop of 12,180,000 bales on 40,081,000 acres planted, a decrease of 13.1 from last year; condition 69.5 against a ten year average of 72.7 per cent.

Many domestic mills are selling more goods than in months, according to the New York Cotton Exchange Service. European fine yarn and cloth markets are better. Prices follow:

I. C. C. WILL HEAR ROADS' PLEA FOR INCREASE JULY 15

Decision Is Not Expected Before Fall.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 30.—[Special.]—The general freight rate proceedings initiated by the railroads asking for a 15 per cent increase entered the routine stage today when the interstate commerce commission announced that the initial hearing on the petition would begin in Washington July 15.

Railroads, security owners, commercial organizations and shippers supporting the railroad position will be heard first. The commission expects that this part of the hearing will terminate before the end of August because its schedule calls for the beginning of cross-examination of proponent witnesses Aug. 31, and then it will receive opposition testimony.

Evidence is to be presented as concisely as possible, the commission inviting participants to resort to telling their stories chiefly by exhibits "to curtail oral testimony."

"Hearings probably will be held at points other than Washington, but the number of such places will be limited," said the commission.

No Decision Till Fall.

Though it is conceded that the commission is making a prompt start in the case those having experience with commission proceedings asserted that the snow probably would be flying before a decision on the railroads' plea for more money would be announced.

Formal orders requiring the railroads to make effective Dec. 3 the revised rates prescribed in the eastern and western class rates case also were announced today by the commission. The commission holds that the carriers will get substantial increases in revenues from the prescribed rates.

Shippers have estimated that the decision in the eastern case would increase carrier revenues as much as $60,000,000, while estimates emanating from commission circles have put the increase around $25,000,000.

The railroads, however, have declared that decreases required by the decision would cut heavily into the increases and that the amount of net increase in revenue is problematical.

In the western case the commission estimated the increased revenue should be approximately $12,000,000, but here again the railroads have voiced doubts.

Ask Illinois Increase.

Springfield, Ill., June 30.—(AP)—A 15 per cent increase in freight rates in Illinois was asked by all railroads operating in the state in a petition presented to the Illinois commerce commission today.

This is the same increase asked for interstate freight rates in a petition before the interstate commerce commission. The petition asks that the intrastate rates become effective on the same date as the proposed interstate rates.

OMITS PAYMENT.

Globe-Wernicke company has omitted the quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share on the preferred stock due at this time.

FINANCIAL NOTES

An issue of $11,000,000 of serial gold notes of the Midland United company which have been sold to Halsey, Stuart & Co., who will make the public offering, was announced yesterday by Samuel Insull Jr., president of the company. The notes will be due $1,000 each month from Sept. 3, 1931, to July 3, 1932, and $913,000 due Aug. 3, 1932. Coupon rates vary from 3 per cent to 4½ per cent, and the notes are being offered at prices to yield from 2¾ to 4¾ per cent, depending upon the maturity.

The state of New Jersey, unsuccessful in its attempt to obtain what it considered a fair price for a $4,000,000 issue of 3½ per cent serial bonds, is expected to ask tenders on the issue in the near future. While the state demanded par or better in the first request, it is now believed that the bonds will be sold under par value.

JUNE WHEAT IS PUSHED UP 8 CTS. AS SHORTS COVER

Prices in Corn Market Rally After Break.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A minor flurry was witnessed yesterday in the wheat market on the Chicago Board of Trade in the windup of the June delivery. Belated shorts found offerings limited when they tried to cover and ran the price up 6c per bu to 77c, where it closed.

The open interest in the June wheat at the finish on Monday was only 865,000 bu, which was satisfied yesterday by a delivery of the cash grain or by the seller buying back the future at the best price possible. There were no untoward developments in the June future in other markets, with Kansas City quoted at 49½c, or 27½c under Chicago.

The wheat situation is regarded as so complex by a majority of operators that a majority of them are disposed to change their position in the market with considerable rapidity. An early break of around 1c from Monday's finish was on selling occasioned by the less favorable political news from France, weakness in the stock market, beneficial rains in the Canadian northwest, and a decline of ⅝@⅞d in Liverpool, but the surplus in the pit was absorbed on resting orders and holders of bids, and a rally to around the previous close, with the finish ⅛@¼c lower, July being 57⅝@57⅝c; September, 59⅝@59⅝c, and December, 64⅛@64⅛c.

Await Farm Board Statement.

With an announcement expected from the farm board today as to the policy it will follow in disposing or holding its immense holding of cash wheat, the trade was inclined to go slow on the selling side on the breaks. Considerable spreading was under way between the July and the September, with longs selling the former and reinstating with the deferred delivery, while cash houses bought July and sold September. The difference widened to 2c at the last, about the widest so far.

Hedging pressure in the wheat market was not as heavy as on Monday, although there were receipts of 2,662 cars at the various markets, and in the last two days over 10 million bu have been received. A little new wheat is being received at Nebraska stations, and weather over the belt remains favorable for harvesting.

Small Crop in Canada.

Spring wheat in the three Canadian provinces has a condition of only 57, according to the Searle Grain company of Winnipeg report, or 6 points below its previous estimate. The firm made no estimate on the prospective yield, but on the basis of the Northwestern Grain Dealers' acreage figures of 21,941,000, or 3.5 per cent less than last year, local statisticians said it suggested around 235 million bu, or 140 million bu less than last year's harvest. The best rains of the season were received at some points in Canada Monday night, ranging from showers to over 2 inches.

The better weather conditions in the west were a factor in causing a decline in the Winnipeg wheat market, with net losses of ⅝@⅞c, with the July closing at 61⅞c, or 1c over the same future in Liverpool. There was no export demand of consequence for either Manitoba or American wheats during the day, and cables from England claim the farm board announcement would not have any effect on the attitude of foreign buyers. Reports of premature ripening of winter wheat and of damage to the spring crop in the northwest were received during the day, but caused little comment.

Corn Market Activity.

Forecast for cooler weather over the corn belt with prospects of scattered showers led to profit taking and a decline of 1@1¼c in corn early, but under 59c for September there was support from locals who were sellers at higher prices, and the loss was fully recovered. Final trades were unchanged to ⅛c lower, with July 61¼c, September, 60@60¼c, and December, 54⅜@54½c. Continued hot weather over the belt is increasing apprehension as to the final outcome of the crop, but bullish sentiment did not seem to be as much in evidence as recently. A local professional was credited with buying December shortly before the close, which helped to cause the rally.

Widespread damage has been done to the new oats crop, according to a summary of reports received by local commission houses, and Crop Expert B. W. Snow issued a statement during the day covering the situation in which he said it was difficult to measure the effect of the continued high temperatures, although his reports indicated both yield and quality had been materially lowered. The futures market was easy early, but developed independent strength later and closed ¼@½c higher, with July 30½@30¾c, September, 31¼@31½c, and December, 34@34¼c.

Liquidation was under way by longs in July rye, and commission houses and locals sold the deferred deliveries. Final trades were ¼@1¼c lower, with July 37c, September, 40c, and December, 44½c.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Hot weather is having a depressing effect on the potato market. Much stock arriving out of condition, and the general run of offerings is of ordinary to poor quality. LARD MARKET LOWER

Liquidation in July bellies, with scattered selling by packing interests of both lard and bellies, combined with the weakness in hogs and the decline in stocks and cotton, made a weaker and lower market for both lard and bellies, lard being off 5@10c and bellies 10@12½c. Hogs were 10c lower, with receipts larger than a week and a year ago. Liverpool lard was unchanged to 1s lower. Export clearances from the seaboard were 495,000 lbs of lard and of bacon 325,000 lbs. SUGAR.

NEW YORK, June 30.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw, was firmer today, with refiners showing more interest, stimulated by the better withdrawal demand for refined. Prices advanced 2 points to the basis of 3.42c for spots, but offerings were comparatively light and the only sale report was 23,000 bags of Cuban for prompt shipment at this level, although there was further inquiry.

The increased demand in the spot market led to renewed covering and trade buying in futures, and after some irregularity prices firmed, with the market closing 1 to 2 points net higher. Sales were 27,150 tons. Prices follow:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Wheat traders say that so long as uncertainty prevails regarding announcement of the Farm Board's plan for disposing of its 200,000,000 bu of wheat, erratic markets are to be expected, with a comparatively moderate volume of trading. Expectations are that there will be some definite announcement today. George S. Milnor, president of the Grain Stabilization corporation, is in Washington at a conference, which is to include all leading interests in the Farm Board make-up.

There were 90,000 bu of wheat delivered on June contracts yesterday, including 52 cars, or 85,000 bu delivered in one lot which came from Kansas City over the Rock Island to J. E. Bennett & company, who delivered the wheat. There also was 10,000 bu of June corn delivered. Total deliveries of grain for the month were 100,000 bu. It is expected there will be liberal deliveries of contract rye on July contracts today.

BUTTER AND EGGS EASY

Conflicting news in butter and egg futures resulted in the November deliveries declining at the opening on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange yesterday, but the price moved back at the close. November butter was unchanged to ½c lower and November eggs off ½c. Potatoes were unsettled. Idaho up 1c, round whites off 2c and Green Mountains unchanged. Weekly storage news in butter showed 2,700,000 lbs less in than a year ago, but the daily report showed 200,000 lbs more in. The support at the opening gave way before the bearish news, but improved again at the close. Last week's egg movement was not as favorable as had been hoped, but the daily report showed 8,000 cases less in than last year, as in butter, buying gained strength at the close. Sales: Butter, 93 cars; eggs, 33 cars; potatoes, 10 cars. Prices follow:
